GAS STOVE "VICTORY."
The following Testimonial in reference to the large "VICTORY" GAS COOKING-RANGE to cook for 500, designed and fitted up to the order of the Colonial Government by M. RALEIGH, has been received:—
"Dear Sir,—I have much pleasure in forwarding this testimonial to the credit of your valuable Gas Cooking-range 'Victory,' which has been in use in the service of this department for more than a year, with entire satisfaction. The range has been put to a severe and long trial, and I must say, without any hesitation whatever, that for roasting, grilling, toasting, baking, or in any other way that a stove can be used, it answers admirably, and has turned out, par excellence, by far the best I have ever used or known. I must apologise for not sending you this testimonial sooner, and informed you that your 'Victory' Cooking-range in this building has been seen in use by many persons of note in this city, and all have spoken in its favour, and wondered at the small quantity of gas used with such great results, along with the little labour required to look after and keep it in such perfect order. Make any use you please of this note, and believe me,
"Yours sincerely,
"JOHN O'LOUGHLIN, Housekeeper.

W. KELLY, Redmyre; or 24, Arcade, George-street.

A Letter from David Buchanan, M.P.:—
"Clarrinnis, Redmyre, 5th September, 1881. To Mr. W. Kelly. Dear Sir,—I have much pleasure in stating that the house I purchased from you at Redmyre has given me great satisfaction. I have now been living in it about a year, and during that time we have been visited by storms of wind and rain on at least two occasions which, for severity, I have not seen equalled during a residence of 30 years in the country. The house withstood these storms admirably, which convinced me that it is honestly and faithfully built; it is a most substantial and comfortable house, and reflects much credit on the integrity of the builder. The situation is one of much beauty, and the locality most invigorating and healthy; the air is fresh, wholesome, and delightful, and both myself and family have enjoyed much improved, and indeed I may say perfect health, since we came to reside at this most agreeable and pleasant spot. I remain, dear sir, yours very sincerely, DAVID BUCHANAN."

A NEW WEEKLY PAPER, entitled
THE TRIBUNE,
and
NEWS OF THE WEEK,
WILL BE PUBLISHED
on FRIDAY, the 27th DAY OF OCTOBER, from the Office of
The Sydney Daily Telegraph.

The want of a WEEKLY NEWSPAPER, advocating Liberal principles, and especially exposing and denouncing the monstrous abuses of our Land System, while devoting attention to subjects of popular interest, and containing a careful digest of the News of the Week, has long been felt in Sydney; and with a view to supply that want,

and
NEWS OF THE WEEK
will be published.

THE TRIBUNE,
In accordance with its title, will be devoted to the advocacy of the rights and interests of the great body of the people.
It will, therefore, be a LIBERAL PAPER in the true sense of the term, leading the way in the removal of abuses, and in the carrying out of such reforms as will secure the greatest amount of public liberty.

THE TRIBUNE
will be specially devoted to an exposure of the abuses of the LAND SYSTEM,
and the advocacy of a
LAND POLICY
which will make land dummyism and monopoly impossible, and will secure the occupation of the land by those who can best develop its resources.
With this view THE TRIBUNE will support the REMISSION of INTEREST to FREE SELECTORS as a wise and statesmanlike policy, which seeks to remove the difficulties in the way of occupation of the lands by an industrious class of settlers. In connection with this important question special attention will be paid to AGRICULTURAL AND FARMING SUBJECTS, and the best information available will be given, and full reports will be published of the various shows and exhibitions throughout the country.

The development of the varied and extensive MINERAL RESOURCES of New South Wales by no means keeps pace with its progress in other respects, and it will be the endeavour of the TRIBUNE to stimulate MINING ENTERPRISE,
by the publication of valuable information respecting our Mines, and by a necessary
REFORM OF OUR MINING LEGISLATION,
so that the pernicious system of locking up large tracts of Mineral Lands under bunkum leases, and other tenures, may be abolished, and a fair field may be given to Mining Industry.

As the extension of Arts and Manufactures in a country gives variety and abundance of employment, and is a concomitant of advanced civilisation,
THE TRIBUNE
will strenuously support the
ENCOURAGEMENT OF ALL INDUSTRIES
suitable to this country, until they are firmly established.

In SPORTING MATTERS
it will be the aim of the proprietors to make
THE TRIBUNE
not only a faithful chronicler of events, but a consistent and reliable authority in respect to the laws and usages of all departments of sport.
THE TURF, CRICKET, YACHTING, ROWING, FOOTBALL, COURSING, &c., will receive the attention of writers of special qualifications, and no reasonable expense will be spared to furnish the latest information.

A feature of
THE TRIBUNE
will be the portion devoted to
TALES, PERSONAL AND SOCIAL SKETCHES,
and light and humorous reading. There will also be a LADIES' COLUMN,
dealing with fashions and other subjects of feminine interest. Well-selected household notes and recipes for cooking will be given, and no pains will be spared to make
THE TRIBUNE
a useful
FAMILY PAPER.

LITERATURE, MUSIC, and the DRAMA will receive special attention in the columns of
THE TRIBUNE,
and the criticisms will be characterised by a freedom from prejudice or favouritism.
In all departments of the paper the aim of the proprietors will be to secure the services of writers of ability and special aptitude, and thus to make worthy of the high position it aspires to occupy.

A complete digest of the
NEWS OF THE WEEK,
will be given, and the fullest
EUROPEAN, INTERCOLONIAL, and COUNTRY TELEGRAMS
furnished, as well as carefully compiled and accurate
SHIPPING AND COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

An interesting feature in the paper will be the "ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS."

THE TRIBUNE will contain 32 PAGES of Matter, and as it is intended that it shall CIRCULATE LARGELY among the people the Subscription will be ONLY TWELVE SHILLINGS A YEAR, or
THREEPENCE PER COPY.

THE EXPRESS.

Public Companies.

ABRIDGED PROSPECTUS
IRONCLAD TIN-MINING COMPANY, LIMITED,
HERBERTON DISTRICT,
QUEENSLAND.

To be Registered under "The Companies Act 1863."

Capital, £50,000, in 50,000 shares of £1 each; of which 20,000 shares fully paid up will be allotted to the vendors, in part payment as hereinafter specified, and the remaining 30,000 are offered for subscription: Payable 5s on application, and 5s on allotment. It is not anticipated that any calls will be required.

Provisional Directors:
The Hon. W. Aplin, M.L.C., Townsville
S. J. Denny, J.P., Herberton
R. H. Sheaffe, M.L.A., Brisbane
Robert Philp, J.P., Townsville.

This company is proposed to be formed to acquire and work the valuable and well-known tin mines of the Herberton district, embracing an area of 19½ acres, as follows:—

The Ironclad	No. 1 West Shaughran
The Crucible	No. 1 East Shaughran
The Good Friday	The Union Block.
The Shaughran

The vendors have agreed to dispose of the Mines above specified and ore at grass, on the following terms, viz.:—£10,000 cash, and 20,000 fully paid-up shares, leaving 30,000 to be subscribed for as follows:—5s on application, and 5s on allotment. Calls, if necessary, at the discretion of the directors, not to exceed 1s per share per month; it is however, not anticipated that calls will be required. As proof of the confidence of the vendors in the payable nature of the concern, they bind themselves to take 8000 contributing shares, leaving 22,000 only for the public.

The whole of the properties under offer form a block of the richest mineral lands in the colonies, and in the centre thereof is situated O'Loan's well-known lode, for which £20,000 was refused.

Extract from Mr. J. Munday's Report:—

"Workings have been opened on three lines of reef, viz.: the Ironclad, the Crucible, and the Shaughran; the Good Friday workings being probably on the continuation of either the Ironclad or the Crucible line, but as yet the greatest depth attained does scarcely exceed forty feet. The ground being in the vicinity of the junction of the slate and granite rocks, judging from similar cases in Cornwall, its situation is favourable for the production of ores of tin and copper, the experience there being that tin generally comes in in deeper ground. From the discoveries made on the Ironclad and Crucible lodes, returns of ore can be immediately made, and I am of the opinion that the property affords scope for the work of a Company which might be disposed to explore the lodes where they have not yet been opened, and carry its operations into the deeper ground."

There is now at grass 1200 tons of ore, which is estimated to yield 250 tons of dressed tin, worth

Total expenses		6,000
Leaving for immediate dividends...		£18,000

There is also upwards of a thousand tons of ore in sight at the main workings of the Ironclad and Crucible lodes alone, ready to break down without further dead work, which will yield an equal sum. So that should the lodes continue to yield as at present, regular and large dividends will be paid.

As there are two public crushing and dressing mills in the neighbourhood, it is not proposed to provide for the erection of machinery, but should it be advisable to do so as the lodes are developed, permanent water for crushing and dressing can be obtained by sinking on the Shaughran lode. For the present, it is only necessary to purchase teams of horses and bullocks to get the products to machines and port.

The company to pay all wages and expenses from 1st September, and receive proceeds from all ores sold on and after that date. Vendors pay all expenses connected with formation of company.

No application will be received for less than 100 shares. Dividends payable on all shares alike.

Full reports from Messrs. John Munday and A. Fletcher, as well as plan of the property, can be seen at the office of the undersigned.

Already 22,000 shares, inclusive of 8000 taken by the vendors, have been taken up in Queensland; applicants will therefore have to apply at once if they wish to secure any shares, as the list will be closed at an early date.

SYDNEY WOOL SALES, 1882.

HARRISON, JONES, and DEVLIN, Limited,

CIRCULAR QUAY,

have much pleasure in announcing that their WOOL WAREHOUSES
are ready to receive the ensuing CLIPS OF 1882,
and being Very Spacious,
BRILLIANTLY LIGHTED,
and
BUILT SPECIALLY
for the
PROPER DISPLAY OF WOOL, offer Unexceptional Advantages to Growers, as every bale in any lot can be thoroughly examined.

THE SYDNEY MARKET
NOW ESTABLISHED ITSELF BEYOND DOUBT, as it is proved by the increased quantity of Wool arriving and disposed of here each season; and the fact of Melbourne Woolbroking Companies, who have hitherto confined their operations to Melbourne, now opening business in Sydney, also being annually visited by
ENGLISH, EUROPEAN, and AMERICAN WOOLBUYERS,
their competition with that of the Local Buyers offer special inducement to owners to test this market, at the NOMINAL CHARGE of only
ONE SHILLING PER BALE
is made by us on Wools offered and not sold, through failing to reach owners' expectations.

SALE DAYS,
MONDAYS AND TUESDAYS IN EACH WEEK
DURING THE SEASON.

SMALL LOTS.

Two days being devoted to sales during the season, offer special advantages to growers of small lots, of five bales and under, as to secure these consignments the fullest share of attention from the buyers they are catalogued and sold on a separate day, which provides for their receiving the same consideration as the larger lots.

VALUATIONS
are carefully made immediately before sale, and in no case is wool disposed of unless FULL MARKET VALUES ARE OBTAINED, so that all lots are in this manner protected up to their market value.

CARRIAGE
will be paid by all forwarding agents at any railway station, and consignments sent on to us with every despatch.

SHIPPERS.

We are prepared to send on consignments to our agents, and make usual advances to those wishing to test the LONDON, EUROPEAN, or AMERICAN MARKETS, or hand shipping documents to any Bank or Mercantile House as we may be directed.

ADVANCES.

Liberal advances, if required, made on wool, either by lien or when consigned to us.

ACCOUNT SALES
are RENDERED, and proceeds paid over within seven days from day of sale.

WAY BILLS
will be FORWARDED, with any further information, on application.

As we act as SELLING BROKERS ONLY,
OWNERS may depend upon our best efforts being used on their behalf.

COLONY of NEW ZEALAND.
THE WELLINGTON and MANAWATU RAILWAY COMPANY, Limited,
NEW ZEALAND.

TENDERS are invited by the undersigned, up to noon on TUESDAY, October 10, for the PURCHASE of £225,000 in DEBENTURES of £100 each, 5 per cent., due 1907, with interest-bearing coupons attached, payable at the bankers of the company in London. But by giving six months' notice to the company, the holder of any debenture can have his coupons paid at the bankers of the company in Melbourne or Wellington at par.

The company is incorporated under the Limited Liability Act of New Zealand, and has power, under its articles of association, to borrow to the amount of its uncalled capital.

The directors of the company, in placing this loan upon the Melbourne and the colonial markets, do so in accordance with the powers conferred on them under the provisions of the Land and Railways Construction Act 1881, clauses 52 to 76.

The railway is already commenced, and contracts let as far as Johnsonville, a distance of about 10 miles from Wellington, and parties of surveyors are at the present moment making the necessary surveys for the continuation of the railway north.

The money is required for the purpose of continuing and completing a line of railway 84 miles in length, to reach from the city of Wellington to a point already made and opened for traffic by the New Zealand Government, about four miles to the south-west of Palmerston. This line will pass through Wadestown, Johnsonville, Tawa Flat, Pouirua, Pahautanui, Otaki, Ohau, and Fitzherbert, connecting with 198 miles of the Northern Trunk Line, thus bringing into direct communication New Plymouth, Inglewood, Stratford, Manoia, Hawera, Manutahi, Patea, Waverley, Waitotara, Maxwelltown, Kaiwi, Wanganui, Turakina, Marton, Greatford, Halcombe, Fielding, Palmerston, on the West Coast, and Napier on the East Coast, which will eventually meet the Government Trunk Line already constructed and working from Auckland to Cambridge.

The country through which the railway will run is universally admitted to be some of the finest for pastoral purposes known in the world. As an evidence of the extreme fertility of the soil, it may be mentioned that three-year-old cattle are easily raised to a weight of 900lb. on the ordinary pasture, and are ripe for killing 10 months in the year. And the country as a whole is not easily surpassed for agricultural purposes, as the flat and undulating country through which the line runs consists of rich alluvial swamps, the prolific nature of which needs no comment. (Vide Railways Commission report.)

It may be mentioned that in the immediate neighbourhood of the Manawatu River there are at present about 40 sawmills in active operation. This number would soon be increased were the settlers in possession of a cheap and ready mode of transit to the Wellington market. The railway in question will provide this, and thus be the means of encouraging a most profitable and increasing industry.

The security offered by the directors to purchaser of debentures is as follows:—

Land, allocated and purchased	£478,151
Reclamation, Wellington City	90,000
Railway line, including value of survey, works partly finished, and right-of-way	43,000
Railway material and bridge	6,000
Subscribed capital	300,000
	£917,151

and is thus explained:—

First. Land allocated and purchased, £478,151.

By virtue of a contract made between the New Zealand Government and the directors of the Wellington and Manawatu Railway Company, Limited, and which is dated March 22, 1882, it is provided that for every mile of railway constructed the company shall receive a grant of land equal to 30 per cent. of the cost of construction, which is not to exceed £5000 per mile, such land to be chosen from within a radius of 15 miles from the line of railway, and which land has to be valued by arbitration, without any reference to its prospective value.

In accordance with this provision the company has had valued and allocated to them 210,502 acres. By a reference to the report of the Crown land sales of New Zealand, it will be seen that land in that vicinity, heavily timbered and covered with bush, brings from 30s to £6 per acre. The prospective value of this security alone is therefore enormous.

In addition to the above the company have already purchased from the native owners and others, for cash, over 20,000 acres of land at an average cost of 17s 6d per acre. The directors have no hesitation in saying that if this land were thrown open for immediate selections, it would be eagerly taken up at from 35s to £8 per acre—this is judging by the price that land has brought within a reasonable distance of the railway.

Secondly.—Reclamation Wellington Harbour.

This consists of a grant of 20 acres of Wellington Harbour, adjoining the Thorndon Ward of the City of Wellington, which the company are reclaiming by utilising the spoil of some heavy cuttings in the first mile. A plan attached to the pamphlet shows the position of this reclamation. Its locality and the railway running alongside, gives it very considerable value. When subdivided for sale, it will show 9880 feet street frontages, in blocks of 80 feet in depth. The convenience of having shunts from the railway line, and a quay frontage to the best sheltered point in the harbour, greatly enhances the value of this land. At the present time experts have estimated the frontage value at £10 per foot. It is, however, probable when the line is constructed, judging by the price obtained for the block sketched red on the plan in pamphlet, which was sold by the Government in 1879 (see appendix, Parliamentary return), that a considerable increase on this price will be realised.

Thirdly.—Valuation of concessions to be received by the company, in addition to the Government land endowments:—

Works partly constructed, worth amount expended	£30,000
Railway material, working plant, workshops, &c.	2,000
Iron bridge	4,000
Surveys, plans, &c.	3,000
Right-of-way, free of compensation	10,000
	£49,000

And lastly, the subscribed and uninsured capital, £482,000.

The whole of the above will therefore bring the total security up to over a million.

It may be pointed out here that the total proceeds of debenture sales will be exclusively devoted to building and equipping the railway, and developing the landed estate of the company.

The original estimate, made by the company's engineers, as to the probable cost of the line, amounted to £551,532; that the line can be completed for this sum is shown by the following memorandum by the Government Engineer-in-Chief to the Hon. the Minister for Public Works, viz.:—

Memorandum in reply to the Hon. the Minister of Public Works.
Public Works Office,
Wellington, September 6, 1882.

In accordance with your instructions, I have examined the detailed estimate of the cost of constructing the Wellington-Manawatu railway, prepared by the engineer to the company, Mr. H. P. Higginson, amounting to the sum of £551,532, that is, over and above the value of the work executed by the New Zealand Government, and handed over to the company.

This corresponds very closely with an estimate prepared for your information by the Public Works department, after survey of the line by the Government, which amounted to £560,000.

The cost of any land required for the railway (excepting £1000) is not included in this amount.

Estimate returned herewith.

JOHN BLACKETT,
Engineer-in-Charge, North Island, New Zealand.

The Government under the Railway Act have power 10 years after construction to take the railway line at a valuation; but in concluding the contract with the company they have reserved (vide clause 14) to themselves the right of exercising this power at any time after the expiration of three years from the completion of the railway, and in either case the Railway Construction Act provides that any money borrowed by the company shall become a portion of the Consolidated Debt of the colony.

Pamphlets, containing map of country through which railway passes, and full information as to lands allocated and purchased, and reclaimed land, census returns, population, &c., can be had, and the following may be inspected at the office of the brokers:—

The COMBINATION ORGAN, the new and wonderful invention recently secured by letters patent to G. W. SCRIBNER, and designated "Scribner's Patent Qualifying Tubes," now for the first time introduced to the musical public in the COMBINATION ORGANS, manufactured by CLOUGH and WARREN, deserves more than passing notice. The wonderful richness and exquisite sweetness of tone produced by this ingenious adaptation to reeds, commends the invention to universal favour. The marvellous power, as well as the great variety of expression attainable, especially in the GRAND COMBINATION ORGAN, must be heard to be appreciated. The deep rich tones of the SUB-BASS are in pleasing contrast with the delicately-voiced treble,

"As sweet and musical as bright Apollo's lute."

And the VOX CELESTE, so charming in cabinet organs heretofore, is, by the effect of the qualifying tubes, rendered brilliant and beautiful beyond description.

"Its tone is like the warbling of a bird,
So soft, so sweet, so delicately clear."

While the bewildering and bewitching modulations produced by the VOX HUMANA are fittingly described by the language of the poet—

"Voices of melting tenderness that blend
With pure and gentle musings, till the soul,
Commingling with the melody, is borne
Rapt and dissolved in ecstacy to Heaven."

And ever and anon, as the different stops are combined by the master hand of a skilful player, "untwisting all the chains that tie the bidden soul of harmony,"

"Such sweet, such melting strains!
Their soft harmonious cadence rises now,
And swells in solemn grandeur to its height,
Now sinks to mellow notes—now dies away—
But leaves its thrilling memory on the ear."

NOTICE TO THE LADIES OF SYDNEY AND THE GENERAL PUBLIC.

E. FRENCH, of French's Cheap Boot Mart, 661, George-street, while thanking his customers for the liberal support heretofore awarded him, desires to inform them that he intends finally retiring from business as soon as he can clear out the whole of his varied and extensive stock; and, in order to effect this speedily, he has made sweeping and unparalleled reductions in every line, so that anyone requiring boots can now obtain a first-class article at less than wholesale rates. French's stock of English Boots are all of thoroughly reliable makes, and will be sold at such prices that no single line can possibly be replaced. ENGLISH AND FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, Aug. 25.

Now that the English Government have taken the Egyptian question seriously in hand, and have resolved to settle it by the sword, they are acting with great energy. The alacrity with which our troops have been transported from England to Alexandria, and from India to Suez, has been a matter of considerable surprise to military critics on the Continent. The completeness of our arrangements and of Sir Garnet Wolseley's plan of operations has wrung from those who have never regarded English military capacity with much favour expressions of the highest commendation. The great military event of the past fortnight has been the occupation of the Suez Canal. Sir Garnet Wolseley landed at Alexandria, and all the troops were transferred to shore, where they remained for some few days. It was then announced in the English papers that an attack would be made on the Aboukir forts, and the communications to the London journals described in detail the whole plan of the General's intended operations. Considering the very severe press censorship which is exercised on Sir Garnet Wolseley, these announcements were regarded with grave suspicion. It was thought the Commander-in-Chief was simply throwing dust either in the eyes of the British public or of Arabi Pasha—perhaps of both—and the outcome was looked for with considerable interest. Some 7000 of Sir Garnet's troops were re-embarked, and the fleet started from Alexandria eastwards. The site was one such as few in the present day have witnessed. There were some 26 or 30 transports and ships of war, and the incident recalled some of the exploits of Nelson and Abercrombie. True, the fleet put into Aboukir Bay about nightfall; but immediately darkness had descended, and when the appearance of the ships in Egyptian waters had sufficiently alarmed Arabi's soldiers, the whole fleet steamed out again to Port Said. It then entered the Canal, and, simultaneously with this movement, a portion of the troops at Suez advanced to Chalouf, where a smart action took place, in which we lost two men by drowning and two were slightly wounded, the loss on the side of the enemy being 167 killed. At the same time, Sir Garnet Wolseley advanced to Ismailia, and the port is now the Commander-in-Chief's head-quarters. The newspapers, or possibly your own correspondent, will give you more details of these movements than I need enter upon. It is sufficient to point them out in order to show the General's plan of operations, and to indicate that not Alexandria but the line of the canal is to be the principal basis of his attack.

Considerable anxiety was manifested in English political circles as to the light in which this movement of Sir Garnet Wolseley's would be regarded by the continental Powers. I have explained in previous correspondence that some of these Powers, either with the view of mere make-believe that they had a voice in Egyptian affairs, or for the purpose of embarrassing England—perhaps also to introduce the thin end of the neutralisation wedge—proposed and ultimately carried a plan for the joint protectorate of the Suez Canal. The English Government only assented to the scheme on the understanding that force majeure should supersede the arrangement. It is somewhat amusing, and certainly annoying to the critics of the English Government, that within a few hours of this bargain being come to, force majeure was recognised. Within a day or two of the joint arrangement being settled, Sir Garnet Wolseley occupied the whole line of the canal, and thereby avoided the necessity of that joint protectorate which had been so elaborately organised by some of the Powers who were certainly not friendly towards the British Government. That portion of the continental press which has regarded English opertions in Egypt with distrust, sees in this event another cause for attack. They point out that England profferred a conference, and, before the conference could agree on any course of action, took the work of Egyptian settlement out of the hands of that body. They complain that no sooner had the conference proffered and Turkey accepted the identic note than England imposed conditions upon Turkey which made the identic note inoperative, and to this day Turkey has been virtually excluded from the field of operations. The latest offence is that England has neutralised the joint arrangement for protecting the line of the canal. There is a simple answer to all these criticisms, and the military and official press of Germany recognise its completeness. The whole object of this campaign is to secure the safety of the Suez Canal. Sir Garnet Wolseley has accomplished that result already, and he has done so without the slightest injury to the waterway and without the loss of more than two lives. All the rest of his operations in Egypt are intended to restore order and to re-establish a state of things under which the future safety of the Suez Canal shall not be imperilled. His plan of campaign is a very simple one. Finding the road from Alexandria to Cairo blocked by Arabi Pasha in his strongly entrenched position at Kafrdowar, he proceeded to turn the point by preparing to advance upon the capital of the country, Cairo. We are not informed at the present moment how he will accomplish that result. The opinion is that a portion of the Indian troops will advance from Suez along the old line of the mail or railway route, between Suez and Cairo, that the main line of attack will be undertaken by Sir Garnet Wolseley from Ismailia, and that possibly another small body will advance from Kantara. By occupying the line of the canal, Sir Garnet Wolseley has placed himself between the Egyptian dictator and the region of Syria and Arabia, where Arabi Pasha might have been able to cause fresh trouble after his defeat in Egypt. The Sultan himself should be thankful to Sir Garnet for this phase of the situation, inasmuch as it was within the power of Arabi Pasha to encourage the rival Caliph of Mecca, and to stir up trouble among the Syrian Mahommedans. Already we have seen some agitation among these people, in consequence of the Egyptian crisis; but Sir Garnet Wolseley now stands between them and Arabi Pasha, thereby stopping communication, and preventing Arabi from taking refuge east of Suez Canal. The impression is that if Arabi makes a stand at all, it will most likely be at Tel-el-Kebir, where he has been organising an entrenched camp for some weeks past. That and his position at Kafrdowar are the strongest he has as yet established. Reports are current to-day of his having withdrawn a large portion of his troops from the last-named port to Tantah, so that from the line of canal on the one hand, and from Alexandria on the other, Arabi Pasha seems to be retreating in the direction of the capital. It would be unreasonable to expect that the Egyptian army will collapse without some resistance. Arabi's troops have shown themselves not only in the Alexandrian forts, but on other occasions, when under fire, to possess considerable courage, and it is likely that at Tel-el-Kebir we shall hear of a smart engagement before the Egyptians are overcome. It happens that they are exceedingly powerful in artillery, and that arm places them in a position of great advantage, especially as the English are rather undermanned in this respect.

The relations between England and the Continental Powers in respect of this Egyptian question are very satisfactory. In the first place there is a complete understanding, and the utmost confidence between the British Cabinet and the Chancellor of Germany. That alone is an important factor in the situation. Reviewing the past, one can now realise the object of Prince Bismarck in raising the obstacles he first created to the action of England in Egypt. Notwithstanding all his professions, he was evidently indisposed to afford France an opportunity of obtaining any prestige in the Nile Valley. As long as England was prepared to undertake to work single-handed, he was satisfied to regard her superior interests as a sufficient justification for that proceeding. Immediately France, partly by the attitude of Germany and partly in consequence of her own internal difficulties, found herself unable to move along with Mr. Gladstone, Prince Bismarck, without holding out any special encouragement to the English Government, assumed an attitude of friendly neutrality, and on more occasions than one his counsel and advice have been of great advantage to the English Government. He has been specially anxious to avoid any conflict between England and Turkey. During all the stages of the Anglo-Turkish negotiations respecting the convention which England tried to impose upon the Porte, prior to her operations in Egypt, German advice to the Sultan has always been calculated to aid the English cause. The real belief at the present moment is that Turkey will decline to enter into any convention with us. Certainly that would suit the English view better than anything else. Turkey is not wanted in Egypt. Her presence there would only embarrass us, and the main part of the negotiations has been directed to avoid the risk of such embarrassment, in case the Porte should take it into its head to despatch troops to co-operate with us. The chief points in these negotiations have been, first of all, that the Turkish troops should not operate without the previous consent of the English commander, or that their movements should in no way embarrass the English commander: in the next place, that there should not be more than 5000 or 6000 Ottoman troops in Egypt; and also that these troops should be landed at Aboukir—a very smart suggestion on the part of Lord Dufferin, in order to test the loyalty of Turkish co-operation. Set the Turkish troops to take the Aboukir forts, and we should soon discover whether their professions of co-operation are genuine. Another condition which has been much under discussion relates to the withdrawal of English and Turkish troops, as to whether the step should be taken simultaneously or upon terms to be agreed upon hereafter. There is little prospect of these negotiations having any practical result. Many of the officers in command of the Turkish troops at Souda Bay have already returned on leave to Constantinople. You will remember the circumstances under which this Turkish contingent found itself at Souda Bay. Immediately the Sultan had signed the identic note he hurried forward four or five thousand men to Alexandria in the hope of landing them there before the arrival of the English transports. The truth is that the whole movement was intended to embarrass English operations. When it was intimated to his Majesty that his soldiers would not be permitted to touch the Egyptian shore until a convention had been signed with England, the Turkish troops were run into Souda Bay, and there they remain to this hour. The attitude of the French Government towards England is not at all unfriendly. Italy and Russia, however, regard us with very grave suspicion, and their newspapers count upon undoing a good deal of work which England has accomplished, when the fighting is over, and the terms of settlement come to are laid before the conference. Mr. Gladstone has stated that the status quo ante will in some measure have to be departed from in the future, chiefly to prevent such risings as we have witnessed during the past few months; and he has further undertaken that any changes of this nature shall not be made without the assent of the Powers. The Italian and Russian press, and in some measure also the Austrian newspapers, anticipate with pleasure the opportunity of inflicting a blow on England when the subject of settlement shall come up for review. Fortunately, German official opinion, and the official press is again with us. They make it perfectly clear that England, having the greatest interest, and having done the work of the campaign, will be entitled to the chief voice in the final settlement, provided she avoids any measure of self-aggrandisement. We may rest perfectly satisfied that selfish interests form no part of Mr. Gladstone's programme. The chief things he will aim at will be to obtain a recognition of the right of England to a supreme voice in the affairs of the Canal, to thwart the schemes of those continental powers who seek to neutralise the water-way and to exclude English war ships; and further, so to recast the arrangements of Egyptian administration, that no future dictator will have the opportunity of causing mischief to European interests. The common impression here is, that when the day of settlement comes, Mr. Gladstone's moderation will most likely provoke very sharp criticism at home, and possibly very greatly surprise the Powers abroad.

On Friday last the two Houses of Parliament adjourned to the 24th of October. Since the collapse of Lord Salisbury, under circumstances which I have already described, there has been nothing of importance in the closing days of the session beyond the case of Mr. Gray, M.P., who has been imprisoned by Mr. Justice Lawson, the President of the Special Commission sitting in Dublin, under the Crimes Prevention Act, for contempt of Court. Mr. Gray is the High Sheriff of Dublin, and is also proprietor of the Freeman's Journal, besides being member for Carlow County. For a long time past his newspaper has been opposed to many of the Irish reforms put forward by the Government. It has professed to accept them with gratification; but has invariably damned them with faint praise. When the special commission, presided over by Mr. Justice Lawson, was found to be working so vigorously the Moonlighters were sentenced to long terms of penal servitude, and murderers were condemned to death, the Freeman's Journal began to assail the work of the commission, though not in a straightforward fashion. Instead of questioning the administration of law and commenting on the severity of the sentences of the Court, it published a series of criticisms upon the fashion in which the officers of the Court had selected the jury list. Sweeping charges were made as to the packing of the jury with Protestants and the exclusion of Catholics. Prominence was also given to a letter by Mr. O'Brien, late editor of a Nationalist newspaper, wherein that gentleman alleged that the jury who returned a verdict of wilful murder against a man named Hynes were in a state of disgraceful drunkenness during the time they were locked up at the Imperial Hotel. The attention of the Court was called to these circumstances. Mr. Gray was sharply rebuked, committed to prison for three months, fined £500, and required to provide sureties to the extent of £10,000 for his future good conduct. The severity of this sentence called forth loud expressions of indignation from the Irish members. Most of the latter were in Dublin when these events happened. There had been a grand celebration of the opening of the Dublin Industrial Exhibition and the inauguration of Foley's statue of O'Connell. Dublin was full of visitors, and the arrest of Mr. Gray caused a profound sensation. There was just time before Parliament rose for some of the Irish members to rush over to England to pose in the House of Commons in their usually patriotic attitude, free from danger of arrest, which certainly would have attended their conduct and language had they indulged in Ireland in such expressions as they were permitted to use in Parliament. Public opinion is undoubtedly in favour of some remission of Mr. Gray's sentence. Mr. Gray is not a popular man, and even the Irish party have never regarded him with a high degree of favour. He has always appeared rather as their patron than their colleague, and the line invariably taken by his paper has been exceedingly untrustworthy. There is reason for thinking that some of the complaints alleged by the Freeman's Journal were not altogether groundless. Nevertheless, as High Sheriff, Mr. Gray undoubtedly acted with great imprudence. If the jury were guilty of misconduct, his official position made him actually responsible for their behaviour. Again, if there was exclusion of Roman Catholics, as alleged, Mr. Gray had the opportunity of knowing the real facts of the case far better than any outsider, and he of all men, by reason of his social as well as his official position, should have shown caution, and taken more pains than he seems to have done to verify the serious allegations brought by him against those whose duty it is to administer the law. On the other hand, the severity of Mr. Gray's sentence is undoubted. It is generally considered that a fine of £100 and a week's imprisonment would have been ample, and there is a very general expectation that before many weeks are over the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland will mitigate the punishment.

During the past few days, when the operation of the Land Courts and the general state of Ireland seemed to indicate some improvement in its affairs, we have been roused from our day-dream by tales of unheard-of atrocity. There has been a terrible murder in Connemara. A gang of men endeavoured to sweep off an entire family suspected of giving information to the police respecting the Lough Mask outrage of some months ago. In the whole annals of Irish crime there has been no atrocity comparable to this. Four out of six people were killed outright; the fifth died a few days afterwards, and the sixth is now lingering between life and death. Happily the whole gang engaged in this outrage have been identified under circumstances which prove the adage, that truth is stranger than fiction. The assassins were dogged for a full hour by two or three men, who have identified them all, and, what is still better, have given full information to the police. For once there seems a fair chance of the offenders being brought to justice. In another case a farmer was dragged from his bed in Killarney, and shot dead upon the floor of his cottage under circumstances of great atrocity. The gang was headed by a leader who called upon "No. 1" to fire, then upon "No. 10," and last, upon "No. 14," all of whom obeyed the command and shot the wretched man upon the floor. Although there have been some arrests, there is not so much hope of punishment in this case as in the previous one.

Cetewayo will leave England in about a fortnight or three weeks' time. The proposal of the Government to restore him to rule over a part of his kingdom meets with not complete but very considerable approval. The state of Zululand is beginning to convince most people either that England must annex the country—and certainly Mr. Gladstone's Government will not do that—or that the popular ex-King should be restored to his rule over it. Her Majesty's Ministers have decided to adopt the latter course, excluding Cetewayo's reign over that portion of the territory which has been transferred to John Dunn. Of course, Cetewayo will not be permitted to re-establish his old system of army organisation, and he will be required to accept the presence of one or two British residents. During his stay in this country the ex-King has made himself exceedingly popular, not only by his affability, but by his force of character, and his genuine skill as a diplomatist. Some of the answers he has given to his interviewers have shown him to be what Lord Kimberley has already described him as, a very exceptional man. Take, for instance, the attempts of one of the newspaper correspondents to draw him out as to his relations with England. "I have already," he said, "explained my views to Lord Kimberley, and therefore I need not renew them to you." Again—and this circumstance has made the man absolutely popular—there was consummate adroitness in his manner of staving off a teetotal deputation, who desired him to exclude strong liquor from his territory. Cetewayo had evidently judged what bores these men were, for when they arrived upon the scene he sent them word that he was having his portrait taken "for the Queen, my mother," and could not be disturbed, inasmuch as her Majesty's wishes were as important to him as life and death. The deputation had to content themselves with leaving Cetewayo a few tracts. Although bearing himself with great dignity and with that reserve which is characteristic of all semi-savage people, Cetewayo and his friends could not refrain from indulging in an outburst of joy after Lord Kimberley had announced to them the intention of the Government to restore the ex-King to rule over his people. On arriving at home from the Colonial Office they burst into singing and dancing, and in fact seem to have indulged in a general "break-down." It is to be hoped that these gambols were executed on the ground floor, for such demonstrations in a London house of modern construction might be serious in the case of a man of Cetewayo's size and weight. Since the King's refusal to see the teetotallers, they have managed to get an interview with the Zulu chief, and have not gained much by the concession, for although he did not dispute the facts adduced by the abstainers as to the injury done by dram-drinking, he nevertheless pointed out in a characteristically significant manner that as there were no distillers in Zululand, the liquor must be imported before it could work evil on his people, and consequently it was for those outside his boundaries to keep the drink from going in; and not for him, who did not want the stuff imported, to see that it was sent back again.

The story of the Eira expedition will take its place among the stirring narratives of Arctic adventure. The newspapers will give you details of Mr. Leigh Smith's exploits. His little vessel got no further than Franz Josef Land, where it was nipped in the ice, and the crew had to live upon short rations for nine months. They have added nothing to our geographical information, but their experiences will constitute a stirring record of adventure.

Messrs. Parnell, Dillon, Healey, and other leaders of the dying Land League, have placed themselves at the head of an association for securing improvement in the condition of the labourer. The object of this movement is to provide each farm-labourer with a well-built cottage and half an acre of land, not from the means of the tenant, but from those of the landlord, and to make the labourer's position independent of any misunderstanding or of any relations whatever between himself and the person who employs him. The object of the movement is to strike another blow at the landlord class, to compel the owners of the soil to provide the required accommodation, and, if necessary, to secure Parliamentary powers to enforce the demands of the organisation. Although Messrs. Parnell and Co. were careful to advise the utmost moderation on the part of the association so as not to act illegally or to arouse the jealousies of the authorities, the experience of the Land League does not warrant us in attaching much importance to these professions. It is very like the sinister advice of the man in the crowd, who, catching a pickpocket, advised those around him not to punch his head. According to present appearances, the movement does not seem to have much prospect of a practical result. It may, however, keep the Irish party together in Parliament, and it will certainly be a fresh justification for sending the hat round in America and filling the exchequer of those patriots who trust so much to subscription-lists for the vitality of their cause.

The British Association commenced its annual session at Southampton this week. The president for the year was Dr. C. W. Siemens, who discoursed chiefly upon electrical science, a subject of which he is one of the greatest masters of the day. He anticipated enormous results from the use of electricity. He even expressed the belief that it will yet be applied to the purposes of agriculture, and that it will be greatly cheapened for general use when it can be produced by such natural sources of power as waterfalls, the wind, or tidal waves. It is, however, surprising to find that so great an enthusiast should hazard the opinion that gas-lighting will hold its own as the poor man's friend. Dr. Siemens believes that gas has a great future before it, not only as light in improved burners, but also as fuel.

The tourist season has set in with unwonted severity. The accidents and fatalities associated with alpine climbing have been numerous and appalling. In several instances parties of twos and threes have been missed, searched for, and eventually discovered, dashed into irrecognisable forms by falls from precipitous rocks, or the treacherous yielding of seemingly solid pathways over deep and yawning crevasses. In one case the victim was a lady—an enthusiast in botanical study. She had the hardihood to venture alone on a dangerous slope of one of the Swiss mountains, and, while endeavouring to secure some rare prize in the shape of an alpine plant, lost her footing, and met her death at the foot of a rugged chasm. One of the lessons taught by some of the more recent accidents is the absolute necessity, not only of employing guides on dangerous expeditions, but of securing a sufficiently numerous party to give the requisite stability in cases where, in attempting perilous points, the individual members have to be tied together. Where three persons only are fastened by a rope, the false step of one produces a sudden jerk which overbalances the other two, and all are precipitated over the impending abyss. In cases where the party is more numerous the risk of accident is necessarily lessened, and it is doubtful whether the use of the rope in twos and threes is desirable for the collective welfare of climbers.

Some years ago public opinion was greatly excited by the singular stories of spiritual manifestations which came from Knock, an Irish village previously little known beyond its own immediate district. The church was mysteriously illuminated, and figures of the Blessed Virgin and several of the saints were reported to have been seen by casual passers-by. The story of these manifestations was rapidly spread, and large numbers of curious inquirers were speedily drawn to the spot. Miraculous powers were attributed to the supernatural visions, and many tales were told of marvellous cures effected on the halt, the lame, and the blind who made a pilgrimage to the church. In the course of time, as in other cases, the miracles ceased to be talked of, and Knock, after a period of unusual prosperity, subsided to its normal condition. Within the past fortnight, Athlone has set up similar claims to the credulity of the populace. There is a statue of the Blessed Virgin in the Catholic Church which is kept draped during the day, but in the evening, when the veil is removed, it is rumoured that the image gives peculiar manifestations. The lips are seen to move, and tears are said to fall from the stony eyelids. As in the case of Knock, so in Athlone the people are being attracted to the church for the purpose of testifying by the exercise of their own senses to the extraordinary powers attributed to the statue.

The Parliamentary session being over, London is being denuded of its wealthier inhabitants. Everybody who can afford the means is going to the Continent or to the fashionable places of seaside resort in the United Kingdom. There are melancholy blanks in Rotten Row. Few of the familiar faces are visible at the club windows. The blinds are drawn in aristocratic residences, wherein the housekeeper reigns supreme. The Queen is at Osborne, the Prince of Wales, who takes upon himself the major part of courtly functions when in London, has gone to recruit himself abroad, and the Court may be said to have vanished for the dead period. The law courts are closed, and those of theatres and places of popular entertainment, which still remain open, are chiefly tenanted by holders of paper orders.

ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE, HUNTER'S HILL.

Archbishop Vaughan yesterday morning performed the ceremony of laying the foundation stone of St. Joseph's College, Hunter's Hill. The new college is to be erected on a site specially reserved for the purpose, immediately adjoining the present college buildings, which are situated in a commanding position on the crown of the hill near the Hunter's Hill ferry. The institution is under the management of the Marist Brothers, the Superior being Brother Emilian, who is assisted by 10 teachers. The college was opened about 12 months ago with 40 boarders, but the number has since increased to 121, all the pupils being boarders. Larger premises being deemed necessary, plans were prepared for a new block of stone buildings, estimated to cost something like £30,000. At present these efforts are limited to the erection of one wing, which is to be of freestone, four stories in height, and estimated to cost about £7000 or £8000. The stone, which is apparently of excellent quality, is being obtained from a neighbouring quarry. The work is being carried on without the aid of either architects or contractors. The Brothers have prepared the designs for the buildings, and the work is being carried on under the supervision of a salaried clerk of works. The wing, the foundation-stone of which was laid yesterday, will accommodate 200 pupils.

The ARCHBISHOP, prior to laying the foundation-stone yesterday, said that it could be seen from the size of the building that was being put up that it would be a large establishment, and if they were to examine the plans of the whole proposed building, which it was hoped would be put up within the next year, they would see on what a large scale the Marist Brothers were about to work the college. It was a very pleasing thought to him to know that the first function he had to perform after the opening of St. Mary's Cathedral was the laying of the foundation-stone of a college which represented Christian and Catholic education in its highest sense. It would seem as if Providence were seconding his anxious desires expressed so often since he had been in this colony of fitting St. Mary's Cathedral for service, and doing what he could to advance the principles of Catholic education in this archdiocese. He did not think that any Act could be performed more directly in harmony with that spirit than the laying of the foundation-stone of a college in which young men would be trained to become Christian teachers, and in which they would be educated according to the fundamental principles of Christianity—according to the Gospel of Jesus Christ. When he came first to this colony the Brothers were beginning in a small way at St. Patrick's, in Sydney. He at once saw how useful they might become if they were enabled to develop their force, and he did all he could to assist the Brothers in doing so. It was said that they knew a tree by its fruits, and when he told them that it was only 12 months ago that the Brothers removed their college to that place, that they then commenced with only 40 boarders, and that during that 12 months they had increased their numbers to 121, they would see the confidence that had been reposed in that body by parents from all parts of Australia, and even New Caledonia, and they would understand that during those months the conductors of the institution must have given very great satisfaction indeed. It was, no doubt, the success they had attained in that respect that had encouraged them to form a plan for making this the mother-house of their institutions in Australia, where they would have their great training places for teachers, and where they would gather together their principal strength, and from which would issue forth as time went on bands of brothers who would do the work of Christianising the young, and not only spread abroad secular learning, but the fundamental principles of that religion which was the basis of civilisation. The Brothers had succeeded in all their efforts with regard to the passing of pupils for the Civil service and other examinations, and that would show that religion did not prevent their instilling secular knowledge in the minds of the young with such skill as would bear comparison with whoever might compete with them. It was of great importance to the Catholic people that the instructors of the young should be up to the mark. It would, therefore, be a great solace to parents to know that at St. Mary's, the Sacred Heart, and St. Francis', a teaching staff that would be capable of giving the greatest satisfaction, would be maintained. He spent £600 in order that they might secure four Brothers for each of those schools at the end of this year, when the State, which did not and could not profess any religion, would leave those schools as a change upon them, and when the Church, with all her strength and power, would at once enter upon that trust. He looked upon Sydney as the heart, not only of the archdiocese, but of the whole colony, and he felt that that heart beat steadily and strongly. The pro-Cathedral, which was estimated to hold 4000 people, was going to be changed into a school, and the seminary was going to be changed into a residence where 30 or 40 Brothers would reside. They would also have large schools at St. Benedict's, St. Francis', the Sacred Heart, and all the large centres of population. They would, he hoped, be able to stand their ground with the highest education the State could give. He had got the Cathedral off his hands, and he was going to give the income which naturally came to him as Archbishop from the Cathedral for the support of the schools; and more than that, whatever he could scrape together by begging and by honest endeavour he would use to form a central fund, which would give them opportunities for having trained inspectors to inspect their schools, so that parents would feel that their children would be under the charge of competent men. In concluding, he announced that, thanks to a very kind friend, who was not a member of their church, but whose name he was not at liberty to mention, they had been enabled to make a commencement with this building, the gentleman he referred to having become security to the bank for £7000 or £8000.

A collection having been taken in aid of the building fund, the formal ceremony of laying the foundation-stone took place, and the proceedings then terminated.

MEDICAL ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the New South Wales Branch of the British Medical Association was held at the Royal Society's rooms last night. The chair was filled by Dr. Milford, vice-president, and there was a fair attendance of members.

ALPHABET FOR THE BLIND.

The CHAIRMAN exhibited an alphabet for the blind—the primer introduction to the Braille character, published by the British and Foreign Blind Association—and explained its advantages.

AUSTRALASIAN MEDICAL GAZETTE.

The CHAIRMAN brought before the meeting the subject of the Australasian Medical Gazette, and a difficulty which had arisen between the publisher (Mr. Bruck), and himself, Dr. Milford (the editor), with reference to advertisements which he had directed should not be inserted in the Gazette, and which were inserted afterwards by the publisher in spite of this direction.

Dr. O'REILLY moved the following resolution from the council,—"That it be a recommendation of this council to the general meeting that the Australasian Medical Gazette be no longer the recognised official organ of this branch, and that copies of this resolution, together with a copy of Mr. Bruck's letter, be forwarded to the Victorian and South Australian branches."

After some discussion an amendment was moved by Dr. WARREN as follows,—"That the Australasian Medical Gazette be no longer recognised as the official organ of this branch, unless it becomes the exclusive property of either one or more of the colonial branches of the British Medical Association."

Dr. HURST moved as a further amendment,—"That this meeting cordially agrees with the resolutions of council, re editor, and insists on their acceptance by the publisher of the Australasian Medical Gazette, or the association must decline to any longer recognise the Australasian Medical Gazette as its official organ. (2.) That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to Mr. Bruck."

Dr. Hurst's amendment was put and negatived, and Dr. Warren's amendment was then passed.

On the motion of Dr. BRADY, it was resolved that the subject of the society establishing a new journal should be referred to the council.

Arrangements were made for communicating the resolutions passed by the meeting to Mr. Bruck, and the meeting then adjourned for a fortnight.

OCCASIONAL TRAVEL NOTES IN AUSTRALASIA.

BY ARCHIBALD FORBES.

III.

The authorities are divided to-day as to the locale of Solomon's land of Ophir; but, depend on it, the speculators and the investors of the period knew its whereabouts well enough. "Lost is that camp!" as Bret Harte writes in his beautiful requiem on Dickens, but the name and fame of its auriferous wealth will be proverbial until the latest generations. Who has not heard of the "Great Bonanza" mine that has made the quartette who originally owned it among the wealthiest men in the world? And who has not heard of that wonderfully productive milch cow, the great "Burra Burra" copper mine of South Australia? It was one of the household words of my boyhood, for we had a friend who for once had shaken clear of his caution, and put a trifle into this faraway antipodean investment. He astonished the country with a new gig, and explained with a Burleigh-like nod, that the new gig came out of a hole in the ground somewhere in Australia. We boys used to have fabulous conceptions concerning that wonderful hole, for it yielded new bonnets and silk dresses for wife and daughters, then a carriage in place of the gig, and by-and-bye, a suburban "fell" on which uprose a substantial mansion. Greenhouses came out of it, and port wine, and tips to youngsters home for the holidays, for our friend who had made successful love to the fairy of the Burra Burra was a generous-hearted man, and was free with the wealth that had come to him so lightly. I had not heard of the Burra Burra for some years, when one evening, some 15 years ago, I happened to hear Mr. Robert Lowe (now Lord Sherbrooke) casually remark that he had never got so much out of so little as he had done out of the Burra Burra mine. It may be questioned, when one thinks of the marvellous enhancement in value of Sydney town lands bought by his lordship in the early sleepy days and held resolutely until now, whether he would make the same remark to-day.

Alas for the precariousness of human enterprises! The Burra Burra yields no more gigs and new bonnets. It "shut down" five years ago, and the triumphant shout of the Burra shareholder no longer rouses the echoes. But its glories are not forgotten in the land which it was wont to enrich. The stranger, as he approaches it by rail, finds no lack of fellow-travellers glad to gossip over the grand old times. "See that track on the grass, sir? That was the road the bullock-drays took that carted the Burra ore down to Port Adelaide." "Why, the distance is 100 miles! Could such cartage pay?" "Pay! Burra copper would have paid in those days if it had been carted 500 instead of 100 miles! It was all profit, sir. The company didn't know what to do with its earnings, they came so fast and so sure. In six years 80,000 tons of ore went down that track in the bullock-drays. The roads were alive with the traffic. Why, sir, when the colony was at its last gasp in the bad times of '42, it was the Burra Burra that saved it from abandonment." "I go and look at it," said one man to me "every time I pass that way—the feeling is something like visiting the grave of one's mother." Not exactly prepared to contemplate it from this sentimental point of view, I nevertheless would not let slip the opportunity of visiting the grand old mine.

The Burra Burra made not one, but several townships, which grew with its prosperity, and still exist, eloquent monuments thereof. There are, I think, seven townships in all, on the slopes of short grass and in the valleys that surround the hill whose bowels used to nurture them. Each has a distinctive name, but all are dumped under the common name of "the Burra." Curiously, although the mine has been dead—or perhaps one would rather say in a state of suspended animation—for five years, the townships are prospering, or at least do not exhibit tokens of suffering. Mostly when a mine "gives out," the population that it gathered abandons the vicinity without much delay. All over the Western States of America you will chance on a chaos of broken bottles and battered sardine tins, hard by a rusting engine and a debris of massive iron castings. No human life is near the place, but if you look at the map you will learn that to this forlorn site belongs some high-sounding name, such as "Empire City" or "El Dorado." El Dorado "fizzled out," and the miners, such of them as survived the frequent "difficulties" of the days when the place was "booming," and when whisky and shooting danced a wild fandango together, have gone elsewhere. But the villages that the wealth of the Burra Burra begot still remain. They are very quiet. One thinks as one looks at them of Barbarossa and his knights asleep with their heads on the big table, through which their beards have grown, and of the King ever and anon lifting his head and asking "Is it yet time?" The silence of the Burra Burra machinery is the answer, and the head goes down on the table again, but there is no abandonment of hope. The rise in the price of copper that has begun and seems likely to grow, may raise every Burra head from the table with a glad energy. Meanwhile the people wait. Some of them are old employees, who had saved money in the good times, and have not cared to flit, but live on here on a moderate competence. The working miners keep their wives and families in the cottages, while they are earning the livelihood by working on stations or as navvies and road-makers. And the townships are the centre of a good agricultural district, so that they maintain some prosperity. The price of land is actually on the increase; and thus it happens that the Burra Burra still pays an occasional dividend, not as a mining, but as a land-owning concern.

I followed the footpath up the hill from the township of Kooringa. Winding round a huge mound of waste, I came into full view of the forlorn scene. It was strangely saddening. In the murmur of the wind through the trestle work there seemed an undernote of wailing remonstrance, at the inactivity. No wreck was apparent, everything stood as if abandoned in some sudden panic, and as if ready to awaken into activity when the panic-stricken should regain heart and come back again. There stood the trollies on the tramways, some full of ore, others half full, others empty, as if the gang at work had decamped at a sudden signal, without waiting to finish their shift. In the coal yard stood a mighty pile of coal, unused when the knell had sounded. Around me were engines, shafts, tramways, water reservoirs, sorting floors, quarry holes. Over against me, as I stood on the grass-grown tip, was the row of neat cottages wherein were wont to live the captains of the mine—the "grass captains," the "drive captains," the "face captains," &c., and so on. At my feet was a huge pool of green water, filling a hole whence the ore had been simply quarried, as building stone is quarried, no mining being needed. Works that had cost £25,000 were within sight, and all silent, useless, and curiously pathetic! Was there no life at all about the place save the sheep that were nibbling the scanty grass growing about the edges of the cuttings? Finally I discerned a lone man, who seemed very shy, for he harboured under cover of walls and behind buildings. Him I moved on with stern pertinacity, not truculently, indeed, for I respected the feeling that made him secretive of himself, but overmastered by my hunger to know. He was so difficult to approach that I begin to think I had seen the ghost of some once happy shareholder haunting the dry fountain of the dividends that had once poured on him in a golden shower; but at length I ran against him. He was the last rose of the great Burra Burra summer. He was the bookkeeper and accountant of the concern, left in charge "to exercise a general supervision" now that there were no books to keep or accounts to be worked out. All his blooming companions in the shape of overseers, and captains, and other functionaries, had faded and gone; he alone remained. Still before his eyes danced the copper will-o'-the-wisp. The scene around him that saddened me, only stimulated him. I condoled with him. He repudiated my sympathy, and was prouder of the departed glories than sorrowful because they had gone. "Yes," said he, "we had to close down, but look what she did before that happened. She gave us four millions sterling worth of copper, and she paid away nearly £800,000 in dividends. If you had held one of the original £5 shares she'd have yielded you a return of more than £820. Oh, yes, I am sorry for her, but I am prouder of her than sorry for her!" And what do you think he was doing? I suppose when Marius sat among the ruins of Carthage, he twiddled his thumbs; anyhow we don't read of his making any effort toward reconstruction. But this Marius of the Burra was purposely at work. To be sure it was in a small way; when one looked up at the old colossal's doings it seemed indeed a pitiful small way; but it was something. His love, the mine, was in a mesmeric trance. He did not know the grand secret whereby the spell might be shattered, but he would do his honest loyal best by tickling her toes. He was standing by the mouth of a little shaft in the bottom of which two men were working. He nourished the hope that so he would strike some vein that would pay for working. The face of his love was very sombre; he could not see his way to change the melancholy into sunshine; but he was striving to kindle the flicker of a smile in a corner of her mouth. He led me reverently into the counting-house, and showed me, with I think a little quiver of the lip, the desk at which wages to the amount of £3000 a week had been paid away; he hurried me past the great safe, whose doors were standing wide open, there being nothing to conserve; and on the wall of an inner room with awe in his accents, he showed me the great chart of the underground workings. "There are 25 miles of galleries and drives" said he, in the tone poor Miss Nursery Governess uses when she tells you her father was once Lord Mayor of London. Then he showed me on the plan the various shafts, each named after a prominent proprietor, the "Morpeth" shaft, the "Hicks" shaft, the "Ayres" shaft, as it these worthies need no other monuments. And finally, he escorted me to the great engine, which used to keep the mine dry, a beautiful piece of work unquestionably, of which he was very proud. "If you only saw her working!" he said, with a sigh. But "she" had not been working for five years, worse luck. He was taking care of her, though, in this forced inaction, as if she had been the apple of his eye. He had painted, and gummed, and greased, and rosined her, so that her joints should not get rusty. He had put bandages on her legs, so to speak, and heaped on the body clothing, and put a hood on her head, so that she take no harm when standing still, and be ready to run again when the time should come. As we parted he murmured some sotto voce aspiration as to "British capital," a subject which I did not pursue. I want to see no British capital in the redevelopment of the Burra Burra, if that should ever occur. There is plenty of money for such a purpose among the local experts; if they see their way they are not the men to hold back. If they can't see their way, of this I am sure, that the road will be a great deal darker for the British capitalist. I should be loth to see the colonies get a bad name at home, as sink-holes for British capital.

For long it was a saying in South Australia that there was "only one Burra in the colony." But this saying is dead and buried long ago—since the Wallaroo, in 1862, and a year or two later the Moonta, began their wonderful careers, which they still maintain, although they are not quite so wonderful just at present as they have been. Until lately the Wallaroo was a private concern, and I have not learned the sum of its yield and earnings. It was not a success from the first: it cost, indeed, £30,000 of expenditure before it began to pay, and there was a crisis in its early fortunes when a feather in the scale might have cut off the supplies that fed its development. But it speedily turned the corner, and vast profits have come out of it. As for the Moonta, it paid from the first. The trivial capital that bought the land and machinery was replaced out of the first earnings, and remains intact; and the mine in its life of some 20 years has paid close on a million sterling in dividends. The late Mr. Delane, the editor of the Times, was a shareholder in the Wallaroo in its best days. Both the Moonta and Wallaroo stand more favourably than does the Burra in regard to facilities for transport. They are within a few miles of water carriage, and are connected with Port Wallaroo by tramways. At Wallaroo, close to the sea, there are smelting works on a large scale. A fleet of sailing colliers carry coals for these works round from Newcastle, and carry back ore to other smelting works there under the same ownership. The Verulam, one of these colliers, which I went on board of at Wallaroo, was not long ago the favourite "liner" of South Australia, between Adelaide and London. Lack of cheap transport, and the lowness in price of copper, retard the development of very rich copper mines which have been proven to exist in remoter regions of South Australia. If copper keeps rising, "the Blinman" will be a word the sound of which may reach your distance ere long.

Assuming that a man had the wings of a dove and could fly away, it would be interesting to know on what spot of this continent he could alight without being immediately confronted with "the land question." These were the three words a gentleman of your own capital muttered as he was preparing me for the honour of being introduced to Sir John Robertson; they fill the air in Victoria more than does the Melbourne dust when a strong wind is blowing: and the South Australian Legislature has been hammering away at a Land Bill all through its present session. New South Wales, as well as Victoria, has been graced by the presence of Mr. John White, of Quorn, who poses as a delegate from the farmers of South Australia; and a few sentences on the condition of the latter—as that condition appears to me after careful, and assuredly unprejudiced, examination—may not be wholly devoid of interest. Agriculturally, South Australia is divided into distinct sections by what is known as "Goyder's line." This line was traced by an able and painstaking Government official. On one side of it is the region where the rainfall and other conditions are such as to afford some reasonable certainty that the farmer who puts seed wheat into the ground will reap a fair wheat crop; the territory on the other side of the line has so precarious a rainfall that the man who tills it plays at pitch-and-toss with fortune for a crop. I think that on the good side of "Goyder's line" the South Australian farmer is fairly prosperous. He has a good deal to learn, it is true. He is too monotonous with his everlasting wheat, is not fully alive to the advantages of manures, and lacks the versatility of the Belgian or the American in discerning the advantages of diversified cultivation. Perhaps he would not hurt if he ploughed a little deeper and thought more of odd corners, and gave some additional attention to the grading up of his stock. But he gets along well enough, and, taking one year with the other, is probably before the times. Until quite recent times all the northern areas—all the country on the wrong side of "Goyder's line"—was held by the squatters. There was a keen demand for land on the part of farmers and intending farmers—a demand that Government saw no reason why it should not gratify. As fast as land could be surveyed it was eagerly taken up. Given only the reasonable assurance that crops would grow, this development seemed a good thing all round. It was good for the colony as a colony. It was good for the Government, whose duty was the furtherance of the colony, and who could sell the land and use the proceeds for the public behoof. These proceeds it in the meantime anticipated by borrowing money for the construction of railroads stretching out into the new regions, so as to give the newcomers facilities of communication and the means of sending their produce to market. It was, always on the assumption I have noted, good for the farmer who honestly and enterprisingly wanted to better himself, and thought he saw his way in the newly-opening regions. Everybody meant well, and deserved that well should come of enterprise, which, if successful, would advantage the colony and strengthen the ranks of that fine sturdy farmer-yeomanry who are so prominent and pleasant a feature of South Australian population.

The holdings were each to be 640 acres. The upset price was to be £1 an acre, the sale to be by auction, which gave scope for competition. On the fall of the hammer 10 per cent. to be paid down, which, however, was not to go toward payment of purchase money, but to form interest thereon for three years. At the end of three years another 10 per cent., to form interest for three years longer, leaving to be paid the whole purchase money at the end of six years. In other words, the tenant was to pay a rental of 3⅓ per cent. of the fee-simple value, and save besides as much as would enable him at the end of the sixth year to pay off the whole of that fee-simple price. I venture to regard this as a dangerous experiment on weak human nature. Six years seems a long time, and saving is often really cruelly hard. The American and Canadian plan is simpler. There the purchaser pays a percentage on taking possession, and subsequent instalments as quickly as he pleases; but every cent. goes to cut down the purchase money until it shall have finally disappeared. The South Australian legislature have now recognised the expediency of adopting this principle, and the farmer in future will pay 5 per cent. per annum, which will be interest or rent under another name, but will form a deduction from the fee-simple value that looms before him. This is something of a relief.

The farmers looked at the country, sent in their offers, or came to the auction rooms. The lust of land is a strange engrossing weakness, and has made fools of more men in the world's history than perhaps any other passion except the love of women. Competition conducted under the auspices of whisky and land-greed is apt to become reckless; the day of payment was a long way down the vista, and the honest fellows "bade out" sturdily. What if they had bought a few shillings too dear? One year's yield, if God gave a good season, would put all straight. I fancy there was not too much capital among the farmers. One plan would have been properly to take up and till a small section of the purchased holding for the first year. But if the area tilled were small, and it should prove a good year, how small would be the results! How grand would they be if a great area were under tillage! So they scratched 10 acres where they should have ploughed one, and waited for the results that would put them in front of the world. But there were no results to speak of. The condition of a great part of the new region in regard to wheat growing is this, that the exception is not a cropless year, but a cropful year. Well, there had been expenditure for seed wheat that had not been recouped, there had been the expenses of cultivating, of the compulsory fencing, of living, and of doing something in the way of building. The little capital waned. But still there was hope. Next year might be kinder. But next year was crueller. Things have gone on, with occasional little breaks in the cloud in the shape of something that, by a stretch of language, might be called a harvest till, in the poorer regions, there is something like a virtual general bankruptcy, if bankruptcy means that people don't pay because they can't. Government don't get their second instalment of interest with that punctuality that might be hoped for. When they get the purchase-money, or an instalment of it, it is too often because, with the Minister's consent, the farmer has had recourse to the money-lender, and so gone a plunge deeper into the mire. The merchants are between the alternatives of either losing their custom or submitting to book debts, which must make their sleep restless. One large storekeeper told me that he has £12,000 on his books, which he regards as money sunk in the acquisition and maintenance—purely a precarious maintenance—of his present business. But the sum grows so ominously that it threatens to crowd him out of his working capital. "Pay after the harvest" is the formula of the customer. He is an honest fellow, and pays if there be any harvest; but there is never more harvest than suffices to pay off the floating debt, so to speak, of the past season—never enough to liquidate any of what may be called the funded indebtedness that has gone into the ledgers, and when there is no harvest, which is oftener the case than not, the floating debt goes to swell the funded debt, and a new floating credit is opened, to take the chance once more of "after the harvest."

This cannot last. It is natural that earnest well-intentioned men should be loath to own that the game is one at which nobody can win in the long-run. So men hold their tongues, and grin and bear, in the hope of a turn. This year, for instance, is rekindling hope—and in the hope, too, that by discreet silence there may come the chance of "getting out" without a cruel sacrifice. Others follow Mr. John White's lead, and try to force the hand of the Government by threats of decamping bag and baggage. I wish to Heaven John White were right—that there are a thousand or more South Australian farmers worth from £500 to £1000, whom he expects to follow him out of their present hard case. They would not follow him, depend on it, if they had the means he swaggers of, because for the most part, if they had they would have made it where they are; and, if this were so, they would be well content to sit still astride of so rich a gutter. But there are few such modest competences. I fear, among the farmers who have taken up land in the new country. Of a great many of them, I fear, it is but too true that they would fain go, but for the quagmired debt in which they are laired. Of course there are large oases in this agricultural quasi-desert. There are rich "pockets" among the bad stuff. About Quorn, for instance, where Mr. White resides when he stays at home, instead of straggling blatantly into the adjacent colonies, and prating swaggering nonsense, there is a great wealth of fine, rich, deep land, that can stand up against a drought which means simple ruin to poorer regions. But the truth is that the poorer regions are taken up equally with the richer portion. There is country staggering under a present rental of 3⅓ per cent. of the purchase money, with that purchase money to the tune of from 30s. to £2 10s. an acre looming in the future, which would not be worth having as agricultural holding, were it given for nothing, and the bribe of free rations in perpetuity to induce the tiller to take to it.

The collapse may be postponed, such a year as the present will postpone but cannot avert it, and what form will the collapse take? Will the Government after long suffering finally sequestrate unpaid for land, in the hope of reselling it, or will they let the farmer alone to make the best of it without dunning him any more for what he obviously will be unable to pay? In either event, I think it inevitable that a large proportion of the land recently taken up for agricultural purposes will go out of cultivation, and revert to that calm philosopher, the squatter. He may buy them out of hand from the Government trying to resell them at the standard price of £1 an acre after a series of forfeitures. He will do this if he is a hasty impulsive man anxious to round off his run neatly, and get rid of selection for the future. But if he can bide his time I think the land will come back to him on the old leasehold tenure, at a rental which he can afford to pay. Before it shall have come to this, one grieves to ponder on how many ardent aspirations shall have been brought to nought; how much honest, loyal, manly endeavour thwarted by untoward conditions; how much hard-earned money sunk in the endeavour to squeeze blood out of a stone!

"Wool v. wheat" is the cause celebre, as I take it, of a good many Australian tribunals. The prosecution of this law suit is singularly keen in Victoria, where one finds large estates under sheep-fed grass, whose acres would command a high price for agricultural purposes. There are some notable instances in which, in South Australia, king wool holds his own with dogged sturdiness against king wheat. An estate illustrating this with great force I visited the other day. Bungaree is close on 100,000 acres in size; it is freehold every foot of it, having been bought in the opening of the land selling era by its present owner, at about 25s an acre all round. It is a most beautiful and stately property, lying in the very heart of the best agricultural region of the "areas." It comprises one broad valley and several minor ones. Such a property would make its owner a personage in the old country; Australia being untroubled by snobbery, the owner of Bungaree is an unostentatious gentleman, who, when circumstances permit, is to be found in his place in Parliament attending to the interests of his constituents. If I were he, I own I should leave constituents to their own devices, and be a country gentleman all the year round. The mansion house lies in the midst of well kept gardens, from which the "home park" slopes up in green folds studded with clumps of ornamental trees. There used to be a racecourse on Bungaree; there are still training stables, hunting stables, and greyhound kennels. The Bungaree hares are famed for their stoutness. So complete is the place in all respects that it has even its own church, wherein service is performed weekly by a clergyman from Clare, subsidised by the owner of the estate. The holding is divided into paddocks which are all well watered, and good roads afford access on wheels everywhere. To-day, this expanse of grass-land, lying here in the midst of a region over which the plough has away, is salable for agricultural purposes, at an average price of £6 per acre. My mouth watered, I own; when I learnt this. What an increment in these few years from £125,000 to £600,000! What a glorious return on the former investment would be the latter result. "Of course you are thinking of realizing?" was my question. "Why should I realize?" was the calm response. "Can you tell where I am to invest £600,000 at 7 per cent. where thieves may not break through and steal? Can you counsel me to shoulder the responsibility of a financier instead of the sweet simplicity of the sheep-farmer's life? What is the drawing of a dividend, even should it be cent. per cent., compared with the pleasure of knowing that the Bungaree rams made the highest long-woolled average at the last Melbourne sales?" The argument was ironclad all round. Bungaree was a better investment than would be the yield from its selling price. It was a pleasanter possession than a big ready-money capital. You cannot feed long-woolled rams on banknotes, nor would a flock of stud ewes thrive depastured on sovereigns! Vacuus cantat; an impartial man, who cannot aspire to be either a capitalist or a freehold squatter, I give my vote in favour of the latter's life, especially when wool is high and water plentiful.

Competition is an excellent thing. It is often good for the competitors, and always for the public. But when you have a monopoly and deliberately set about to compete with yourself, I fail to see exactly where the advantage to you comes in. This, nevertheless is the most rational feature of the railway policy of the South Australian Government, and in a great measure of the general public works policy. It runs a railway northward from Adelaide, which would pay exceedingly well if it drained the produce of the region it traverses down to the point of embarkation at Port Adelaide. To contribute to this result it constructs lateral feeders. These ports Government improves by dredging and jetty construction, and then it taps them with its lateral feeders to the main inland railway line. So there are the alternatives that the railways are hurting the ports and that the ports are hurting the railways. It is very generous in giving railway facilities; so generous indeed that it will construct two lines to compete for the produce of the same area. One of these feeders will carry the produce either to the main line, as for instance the Blyth line feeds the main line at Hamley Bridge, or to a port, as, for example, Port Wakefield, while the other will lure that produce away to the seaboard, as does the Snowtown branch, commencing within sight of Blyth, and ending on the jetty at Wallaroo. But South Australia's efforts to be good to what produce may come to it down the Murray affords perhaps the most remarkable example of this anxiety to set one of its enterprises to compete with the other. In furtherance of the project of tapping the Murray traffic, and carrying it down to Port Adelaide, a special line was built from Roseworthy to the "north-west bend" at Morgan, a distance of perhaps some 50 miles. But to afford that Murray-borne traffic a pleasing variety of alternative at the expense of the colony, there is a tramway from Goolwa inside the Murray mouth to Victor Harbour on the ocean outside that mouth, and large sums have been spent in the improvement of Victor Harbour. Further, there is the scheme which doubtless some day will be carried out of giving a communication between Goolwa and the ocean by means of a canal through the sand heaps that cumber the mouth of the Murray; and yet again a railway line is being discussed, with every assurance of being sanctioned, which will tap the Murray at a point intermediate between Morgan and Victor Harbour. But this is not all. Yet a fifth wheel to the coach is in contemplation in the shape of a railway along the Murray bank all the way to the New South Wales border below Wentworth. I am only afraid lest the Riverina traffic get so bewildered by all this embarras du richesse that it may choose a path less strewn with fewer competitive complications.

One of the most beautiful, and, for the present, the most inaccessible regions of South Australia, is the extreme south-east, down by the Victorian border. Divided as it is from the country west of the Murray by a desert of great breadth and sternness, this region, physically speaking, might well belong to Victoria rather than to South Australia. But it has no feeling of this character, being South Australian to the core in sympathy and characteristics. Although the Melbourne Argus reaches Mount Gambier a day sooner than do the Adelaide journals, Mount Gambier will give implicit credence to no Argus news until it has been confirmed by the Advertiser or Register of its own capital. This corner of South Australia regards Victoria as a thing of obloquy because of the bad roads, or rather no roads, that colony persists in in proximity to the frontier, as a feeder to the South Australian railway lines that touch the sea at Kingston and Beachfort respectively, and as a territory whose protective tariff affords eligible opportunities for the lucrative prosecution of smuggling. "I wish to goodness," said to me a storekeeper of the South Australian border, "I knew of a good market for jewellery in Victoria, I could smuggle it across by the buggy-load." I have serious thoughts of setting up as a jeweller in Melbourne. Then I might get Mr. Berry as a customer. What joy to sell smuggled goods to the arch-perpetrator of protection!

LECTURES.

The seventh of a course of lectures on Applied Mechanics and the Steam Engine was delivered in connection with the Technical or Working Men's College, on Thursday evening, by Mr. W. H. Warren, A.M.I.C.E., who took for his special subject Heat, considered as a motive power, and was listened to with interest by a fair audience. The lecturer defined heat to be a condition of matter, or a motion of its ultimate particles. A number of experiments were shown illustrating the conversion of mechanical energy into heat, and it was demonstrated that when the motion of any body is destroyed, the energy is not lost, but reappears as heat, the heat produced by striking a bullet upon an anvil, and by allowing a lead weight to fall from the ceiling was measured by the deflection of the needle of a galvanometer connected with a thermo-electric pile. The heat generated by friction was illustrated by filling a hollow tube with water and closing it with a cork; the tube was then rapidly rotated against wooden clamps held tightly; the heat generated converted the water into steam and ejected the cork. It was also shown that whenever mechanical work is done heat is expended; thus by allowing compressed air to issue from a stopcock against the face of the thermo pile, it was shown to be cooled. The heat expended in producing motion was drawn from the air itself, and consequently its temperature was lowered. The mechanical equivalent of heat was next considered, and its application in calculating the heat developed when the motion of any body moving with a given velocity is destroyed. Some interesting experiments on the expansion of metal were here shown, and the application of the laws of expansion, in the chronometer balance and compensating pendulum. The expansion of water on freezing was shown by its effect in bursting an iron pipe filled with water, and placed in a freezing mixture—the importance of this exception in the behaviour of water over other substances was illustrated with reference to the formation of ice in lakes and rivers, and the preservation of fish in severe winters. The lecturer concluded by explaining temperature and the principle of the thermometer.

An entertaining lecture, entitled "My trip to America," was given by Mr. G. W. Barker, on Thursday evening, in the Congregational Church, Manly. Alderman J. W. Small occupied the chair. The attendance was large, and testified their appreciation of the lecture, as they were taken, in company with the lecturer, on a mental journey to the chief centres of America. At the close a collection was taken for the Sunday School Library.

The fifth of a series of lectures on Practical Pharmacy was delivered at the Technical College by Mr. F. Wright, on Wednesday evening. The chair was taken by Mr. A. J. Watt, who referred to the recent examination held as being an exceedingly satisfactory one, reflecting great credit both upon the successful candidates and also upon their lecturer, whose efforts had had the effect of raising the standard of examination and greatly stimulating apprentices to study their profession. The lecturer said the recent examination showed us that brighter days were in store for the pharmaceutical chemistry. Ignorance would soon give place to a thirst after knowledge, and still greater proficiency would be demanded from teacher and student, as well as from master and servant. They had met to study the solid preparations of the pharmacopœia. These were 10 in number, and might be divided into two classes, viz., preparations for external application, and those for internal administration. The latter class was the more important, and consisted of the extracts, pills, powders, confections, and lozenges. The lecturer then proceeded to explain the processes employed in their manufacture, and showed how, by proper tabulation, the strengths and official doses might readily be committed to memory. Mr. Watt, in thanking Mr. Wright for his able address, said that an attempt would be made to establish monthly meetings of pharmacy students, for the discussion of matters of interest, and enabling chemists to become better acquainted with one another. The next lecture will be the last of the series.

DELIVERY OF BRICKS AND TIMBER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Will you allow me, through the medium of your columns, to draw the attention of the proper authorities to the great danger attached to the present mode of delivering building materials at all hours of the day, instead of having certain times set apart especially for this purpose.

Now that daylight commences so early, surely all the necessary articles, bricks, timber, iron, &c., could be delivered before, say 9 a.m.

There are so many new buildings being erected in Sydney that it is absolutely dangerous for foot passengers, more especially ladies, to traverse the streets—Pitt-street preeminently, even during the daytime.

The blocking up of the footpaths by the hoardings is bad enough, but the carts are backed up to the kerb, and horses and carts together monopolise nearly two-thirds of the street, and consequently pedestrians have to travel round the horses' heads, at a great risk of being knocked down and run over by passing vehicles. Our streets are none too wide as it is, but surely the municipal authorities, through their building surveyor, or some properly constituted authority, could devise some better means for delivering building materials at proper times, and studying thereby the comfort and safety of foot passengers. I am, &c.,

PEDE.

CORONER'S INQUIRY RESPECTING THE GARDEN PALACE FIRE.

The adjourned inquest on the late fire at the Garden Palace was yesterday resumed in the Coroner's Court, before the City Coroner, Mr. H. Shiell, J.P.

Mr. J. C. Manning watched the case on behalf of the Government, the Crown Solicitor, Mr. Williams, being also present.

Charles Smith Wilkinson, on oath, said: I have had search made for the gold specimens; I have not been able to discover them all, they being so fused together, but I have been able to identify those having the greater portion of gold; I have no reason to believe that any of them were stolen; the principal specimen I recognise by crystals attached to it, and others are also recognisable by certain peculiarities; I produce the specimens found.

Joseph Henry Maiden, sworn, said: I was in charge of the Technological Museum at the Garden Palace; the museum was divided into 15 principal sections; we had nothing therein that could possibly give rise to spontaneous combustion; there was a trapdoor under the floor leading to the ground, which was screwed up by the direction of the Colonial Secretary; it has been used once since; the cracks in the floor were very wide, and if anything fell on it it was almost sure to go between the planks.

Francis Gerard, sworn, said: I was in charge of the drafting section of the Occupation of Lands Department; there was nothing in our Department to cause combustion; I know of no documents in the Department it would be to the interest of any person to destroy; I know of nothing in connection with the Department that was likely to cause a fire.

William Bruce Henderson, on oath, said: I was in charge of the Diamond Drill Department in the Garden Palace; about two months ago some kerosene was used in the department contrary to my standing orders and without my knowledge; I do not know what quantity was used; a tinful was brought in and I directly sent it out; subsequent to that a small quantity was used, and the day-watchman complained of it, and I interdicted its use; never since has any been used; I had been most of the time away since, but I gave orders that any man found using it again would be dismissed; there was no cotton waste, there were no chemicals, the principal portion of the contents of the department were ironware, and there was nothing at all likely to cause combustion. To the Jury: About two months ago some tallow and white lead were being heated, and some of the white lead leaking out of the tin a little blaze was caused, but no explosion that I am aware of took place in the department.

Mr. Manning stated that a number of reports had reached the police which they had investigated, and found that there was nothing at all in them which would give information as to the origin of the fire, or justify them in taking action.

The Coroner then summed up the evidence. He pointed out to the jury that its verdict must be entirely based on the evidence produced at the inquiry, and not upon any opinion any individual members might have previously formed. They must confine themselves entirely to the evidence submitted at the inquiry. Doubtless each man felt as if he had sustained a personal loss in the destruction of the Palace; but they must not allow any feeling of sympathy to influence them, but must deal with the matter as he had said, entirely upon the dry facts of evidence. The case presented itself in three aspects. First, they must ask themselves, "Did this fire originate spontaneously?" and if that point were determined in the negative, the next question would be, "Did it arise accidentally?" and if that, also, were determined in the negative, a third question remained, "Was it the act of an incendiary?" These three questions were submitted for their consideration; but if, after exhaustive deliberation, they found that they could not agree upon any one of them, then there was an alternative finding—viz., that the destruction of the Palace had been caused by fire, but how or by what means that fire had originated there was no evidence to show. It was an open verdict, and one unsatisfactory in many respects, and should not be adopted unless after a complete and minute investigation the jury found that they could not agree to any other. With reference to the first question, Had the fire been the result of spontaneous combustion? the jury had ascertained from all the witnesses having a knowledge of the Garden Palace that there was nothing in any of the departments which could have caused spontaneous combustion. They all agreed on that point. There was no waste about the place, but on the contrary it was at the time of the fire remarkably clean and free from rubbish, and under the basement the space was also very clean. All the witnesses agreed that there was nothing whatever to give rise to spontaneous combustion; and this being so, could the jury come to the conclusion that the fire arose spontaneously? The next question to consider was, Did the fire arise from accident? Evidence had been given that the building at 6 o'clock on the evening previous to the fire had been cleared of persons—a clerk, Mrs. Killian, and her little boy being the last to depart. The night-watchman, Kirchen, stated that he had made a tour of the building and had found all secure. On the morning of the fire, just previous to its outbreak, two policemen visited him and entered the building. The watchman and the policemen concur in saying that at that time there was nothing at all to excite their suspicion. There was then no smell of gas. It was but on one occasion necessary to light a match; that was when Kirchen lit his candle, and that match he carefully extinguished. There was no smoking of pipes or cigars in the building. If the evidence of witnesses was to be believed—and there was not the least reason to doubt their testimony—there was no possibility of the fire having originated through an explosion of gas. The next question to be considered was whether the fire was the act of an incendiary. It would hardly be believed that any person would set fire to such a valuable building without some motive. It was thought, and very reasonably, that the reported treasure in the Mines Department might have tempted cupidity. It was stated that there was treasure contained therein to the value of from £30,000 to £50,000; but Mr. Wilkinson, who was in charge of that department, stated that the gems in the collection were worth but £500, and the gold specimens £200, making a total of £700 altogether. The gems were found after the fire in the safe they had been locked in, and search had since been made for the gold specimens, and the principal of them had been recovered, and sufficient evidence found to leave no reason for the belief that any of them had been stolen. There was no difficulty in any one entering the building who desired to do so, and it was quite possible that a man might get in and set fire to the building without detection. There was one point on which there was a conflict of opinion. Three witnesses, Mr. Christie, and the captain of the forecastle on board one of her Majesty's vessels, and Dr. Kyngdon, stated that the fire was at the north tower before it was at the dome. On the other hand, the evidence of the two watchmen and the constables was that it was at first confined to the dome. Were it thought that the fire was at the north tower first and at the dome immediately afterwards, it would favour the supposition that the fire was an act of incendiarism, it occurring almost simultaneously in two places. They had positive evidence that the north tower was burnt through before the dome was seen from the exterior to be touched by fire; but there was equally positive testimony that the dome was the first on fire. If they could not determine the fire to have been caused in any of these three ways, then they would have to return an open verdict, but he hoped they would not do that until they had thoroughly exhausted the matter.

The jury then deliberated, and, after a lapse of about half an hour, returned the following verdict:—"We find that the premises known as Garden Palace, situated in the Inner Domain, in the city of Sydney, were totally destroyed by fire on the morning of the 22nd September, 1882; but how the fire originated, whether accidentally or otherwise, the evidence adduced does not enable us to say." To which the following rider was added: "We consider that the authorities are deserving of censure in not having provided more efficient supervision over such a valuable property."

ADDITIONS TO THE TOWN HALL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In view of the number of mistakes in connection with the building of the Town Hall, I am induced to ask you to insert these few lines, in order to point out what I consider would prove a grave defect in the acoustic properties of the new hall. It is proposed to erect "Halconettes" around the main building, which will accommodate about 10 people in each. This would present a series of projections, which would materially interfere with the progress of sound through the hall, and, I need hardly say, under these circumstances, would prove to be a radical defect. The original design has a continuous gallery on each side, which would have the dual advantage of forming an unbroken sounding-board, and at the same time would provide accommodation for 700 or 800 people—no small advantage to the public, and one that would be duly appreciated by the lessee engaging the hall for concerts or other entertainments. The Melbourne Town Hall is an example of the galleries on each side, and I have never heard of any exceptions being taken to the design as in any way marring the passage of sound. The form of the ceiling is considered to be its chief defect in this respect, which has happily been avoided in ours. I need hardly say that it would prove a great disappointment should a design be adopted which would detract from the usefulness of this costly structure; and I trust that the gentlemen engaged in the work of arranging the interior may see fit to reconsider the portion to which I have referred. I am, &c.,

THE LATE FIRE AND LOSS OF LIFE.

The magisterial enquiry into the cause of the death of Mrs. Bridget Wright, who lost her life at the late fire in George-street, was yesterday morning resumed in the Coroner's office, by Mr. W. T. Pinhey, J.P.

Senior-sergeant Brenner and Detective Mulqueeny had charge of the case.

The examination of Thomas Wright was continued. He deposed that he, his wife, and his son occupied and slept in the same room on the night of the fire, the room was the front room of the second floor of the main building, facing on George-street; when witness heard the alarm of fire they were all in bed; he was alarmed by his wife, who, waking him, said, "There is a fire;" witness jumped up, saying, "Where?" she replied, "Just here," pointing very near to them; witness looked out of the front window, and saw the reflection of fire on the buildings on the opposite side of the street; witness said, "Why it's at Rose's;" he then lit a candle and opened the bedroom door; a dense volume of smoke met him; he shut the door and said, "The fire is in our place;" he told the boy not to open the door again and said to his wife, "Mother, you go to one window and I and the boy will go to the other;" he then opened the window opposite to the door and shouted as loud as he could to the people outside; he cried, "Help! our place is on fire;" the boy too shouted; at last he got a reply, "Stop where you are, you are all right;" he answered, "Why, we are being burned;" witness got again the reply, "Stop where you are, you are all right;" he still kept shouting of the danger they were in, but he got no more replies; he did not know who had answered him; there was much confusion and noise both by the populace and the firemen; the firemen were the noisiest; he got out on the window-sill of the window, and still kept shouting, but no assistance came; he then said to his boy, "The only thing I see that can be done is that I'll jump down on the verandah, and mother and you can jump down into my arms;" the boy said, "Yes, father, that is the best thing to do;" witness then dropped down on to the verandah from the window—a distance of about 12 feet—and immediately afterwards the boy jumped, landing alongside his father; witness then shouted for his wife to jump down into his arms, but he got no reply, nor did he see her at the window; when he jumped out of the window, which was the southern one, his wife being at the northern one; he never heard her speak or saw her afterwards until he saw her dead; when he jumped on the verandah he found no appliances ready for rescuing his wife; there were three or four men on the verandah, and a short ladder was passed up from the street; this was placed on the verandah up to the front of the house to his bedroom window and reached it; he informed the firemen that his wife was in the room, one of the men attempted to ascend the ladder, but when he had put his foot on the second or third rung the verandah gave way, precipitating them all on to the footpath; there were no other appliances at hand for rescuing his wife; he thought half an hour must have been lost before a ladder was rigged and made available for rescuing her; his bedroom, he thought, was about 30 feet from the ground; it was, he had been told, about half-past 12 o'clock when his wife was taken from the room; after witness fell on the street he kept shouting that his wife was in the burning building; the only reply he got was, "You are all right, old man;" a ladder was put up against one of Bardsley's windows, the northern one, but no attempt was made then to rescue his wife; when witness and his son jumped from the window the room was full of smoke; and had they remained there two or three minutes longer, they must have been suffocated; witness believed now that his wife was unconscious, if not dead, before he left the room, for she was a delicate woman, and the room was full of smoke, he believed that, supposing his wife had been alive when he jumped from the window, that she could have been rescued had there been proper appliances at hand, and unity of action among the firemen, who appeared to have no acknowledged head amongst them; he could not help thinking that there was abundance of time after the fire broke out for warning to be given that there were people inside; instead of that, he gave the first alarm to those outside from the burning building, by shouting from the bedroom window; there was a rumour among the crowd, including the firemen, that his wife had been saved, which he used every effort to contradict; witness was entirely exhausted at about 12 o'clock, and inquiring after his wife, and having been told that her body had been got out but that she was dead, he went to rest at the house of Mr. Clarc. [He described the situation of his stock in Kent-street. His stock was insured in the City Mutual Company for £1300, but he estimated the value of it at the time of the fire to be £1500. The stock was of a very inflammable nature.]

Andrew Wakely, a member of the Insurance Fire Brigade, deposed that about a quarter-past 11 o'clock on Monday evening last, he heard an alarm of fire; looking towards Kent-street he saw three men; one of them was singing out "fire;" they all pulled up about 25 yards from the station; whilst they seemed to meditate whether they would give the alarm, and one of them, whose name was Dunn, and who witness recognised as the man before the court, seemed to be very much agitated, but afterwards, becoming more cool and collected, he said there was a fire in Kent-street; Dunn told witness that the fire had originated at the gate (Wright's gate), and said "Do you think I set fire to it;" witness replied, "I don't know, I would like to see you at the station in the morning;" witness heard Jas. Maroney, one of the men with Dunn say to him, "You have done it this time—there'll be a good reward for this;" Dunn had given information of the fire at Bardsley's on the 30th of August last, and had been rewarded for it. [Witness then described the fire, which was at first burning at the rear of Mr. Wright's premises, and near the gate, where, in witness's opinion, it originated; there was some delay in getting the engine to work, in consequence of the fire-plug being covered with metal and filled with stones; it could not at first be found, as it was quite hidden; he was certain that if the water could have been obtained when the Insurance Brigade first reached the fire, it could have been prevented from reaching the main building.

William M'Knight, a member of the Insurance Fire Brigade, deposed that he was at the fire on the night in question; he was engaged playing water on the fire, when he heard there was a woman in the top story; witness went into George-street and saw Mr. M'Guiness, superintendent of the Hook and Ladder Company; a ladder was placed over the window and against the building; witness ran up the ladder and then heard a man in Clancy's house, which was situated at the north side of Mr. Wright's, crying out "For God's sake save me, I'm getting smothered;" witness slid down the ladder, gave it a turn, and the man got down; then replacing the latter against the window, young Seymour, of the Hook and Ladder Company, ran up it; he came down and said there was a woman hanging out of the window; he came down nearly suffocated, and witness then went up again; he found the woman; she was lying partly out of the window, he caught hold of her and said "Mrs. Wright! Mrs. Wright!" but got no answer; he believed she was then dead; there was no delay when witness reached George-street in going up the ladder; only three or four minutes passing; he got Mrs. Wright down with others helping him, and she was then taken to the Infirmary, where the doctor pronounced her dead; he did not think any person could have lived above three or four minutes in such a quantity of smoke as there was in Mrs. Wright's room when he reached the window.

Cornelius Riordan, a publican, sworn, deposed that he resided in Kent-street, not far from the back of Mr. Wright's residence; he remembered the fire; at about five minutes past 11 o'clock he was standing at his gate in Kent-street, adjoining the public-house; he saw a person striking what he thought was a match, in the rear of Mr. Wright's premises, on the southern end, and after the person had struck the match he ran towards the kerbstone, and then wheeled round suddenly; witness saw what he thought was a piece of paper alight in the same spot where he saw the light struck just before; he identified the man before the court, William Dunn, as the one who had struck the match; he ran across, and witness saw him distinctly by the light of the lamp; about two minutes after witness had seen Dunn he went into the bar and heard the same man call out, "Fire, fire;" there was some delay in getting the fire plug clear, as it was buried in blue metal; there was no other fire about the rear of Wright's premises; at the time witness saw the match struck, Dunn was sitting close up to the fence when the match was struck; he was well acquainted with the man Dunn.

[The case at this stage was adjourned till this morning at 10.30 o'clock.]

MAGISTERIAL INQUIRY.

An inquest was held yesterday afternoon in the Observer Tavern, George-street, before the City Coroner, Mr. H. Shiell, J.P., on the body of Thomas Bulman. From the evidence taken it appeared that the deceased, who was aged between 50 and 60 years, was a native of England, and had commanded the barque Colwyn, now lying at Dibbs' Wharf, which arrived from England at the latter end of August last, and since then had been lying at the wharf. The deceased had been living on board the vessel from the fourth day after her arrival until the time of his death. He was of very sober and regular habits, but it had lately been noticed that he was much quieter and more reserved than he had been hitherto. He was last seen alive between a quarter to 9 o'clock and 10 o'clock on Wednesday evening, when he appeared to be in good health. During the night, the watchman on deck heard a splash in the water near the stern of the vessel, as though a rope had dropped in, but he could see nothing to account for it. In the morning the steward, at about 6 o'clock, as was his custom, went into the captain's cabin. He could not see the captain there, but he found his hat, boots, and watch and chain. He immediately informed the chief officer, who inquired on board the Cimba if he had been seen there; but getting no answer in the negative, suspicion was aroused. The Water Police were sent for, and they dragged in the vicinity of the ship, and after some time found the body of the deceased, with a deep sea line fastened about it, a 28lb. weight being attached to the line. The medical testimony was to the effect that the deceased had died through asphyxia, caused through drowning, and the medical gentleman had no doubt that it was an act of suicide. A verdict was returned that the deceased had died through drowning, the drowning being caused by his own act.

PARLIAMENT OF NEW SOUTH WALES.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 6.

The SPEAKER took the chair at 4.30 p.m.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS.

The COLONIAL SECRETARY, in answer to Mr. Bedel, said the question of reserving a farm and home for the aborigines in the district of Forbes would be considered by the Government.

The COLONIAL SECRETARY, in reply to Mr. Cameron, stated that it was the intention of the Government to introduce a bill during the present session to amend the Licensing Act.

Mr. W. J. FOSTER, in answer to Mr. Forster, said he had inquired into the matters complained of by Mr. Stephen Murphy in connection with a friendly society, and Mr. Murphy had been informed that he did not see any matter requiring his interference. There was a charge of partiality, but nothing to establish it. If Mr. Murphy thought the Judge's conduct wrong in law, his course was to apply to the Supreme Court to set him right.

Sir JOHN ROBERTSON, in reply to Mr. W. R. Campbell, who asked—"1. What are the provisions dealing with the evasions of the mineral conditional purchases to which the Minister alluded in reply to my questions of the 4th instant? 2. Under what provisions in the Crown Lands Acts does the Minister propose to refuse to grant pre-emptive leases to mineral conditional purchasers?" replied—"1. The provisions are that 10s. per acre must be paid as a deposit on such selections in the first instance, and an expenditure of 24s. per acre in mining operations within three years, under penalty of forfeiture. An extension of two years for a further expenditure of 16s. per acre may be allowed, but only on the Minister being satisfied. Measures have been taken to scrutinise carefully the conditions of all such selections and the circumstances attending them, and instructions have been given for the general provisions as to measurement, and as to the reservations of sites for and sources of water supply, &c., being given due effect to. 2. The 12th section of the Crown Lands Occupation Act of 1861 affirms that pre-emptive leases of Crown lands to the extent of three times the area of the land held by any applicant therefor may be granted. Of course, this is merely permissive, and not mandatory. Clause 36 of the Lands Acts Amendment Act of 1875 reaffirms the provision in the law of 1861 to which I have alluded, and provides that an applicant for a pre-emptive lease may, upon approval by the Minister, enter upon and occupy, &c., &c. In cases of applications for pre-emptive leases, in virtue of mineral conditional purchases where no mining operations are being carried out on these purchases, I have, on my own responsibility as Minister for Lands, declined to approve."

Mr. LACKEY, in reply to Mr. Trickett, stated that tenders were invited for the privilege of advertising on the railway stations and lines in the colony. The contract was let for three years, viz., from 1st January, 1879, to 31st December, 1881, to Jackson and Hayes, at £700 per annum. The contractors having failed to carry out the contract, it was taken up by their bondsman, Mr. A. Bennett, not at £650 per annum, but for the same amount as paid by Jackson and Hayes. Mr. Bennett stated that he had taken up the contract, burdened with a loss of over £700; only 18 months was to elapse before the contract would have to be given up, and it was represented that in that time he would be unable to recoup himself or to work up the business so as to make it a success to himself and the department. Loss had also been caused to the contractors through the advertisements being displaced by alterations at many stations. Under these circumstances it was decided that the contract time might be extended for two years at the original contract price.

The COLONIAL SECRETARY, in answer to Mr. Beyers, said that plans of a lock-up at Mudgee would be completed in about a fortnight, when, if approved, tenders would be invited.

Mr. W. J. FOSTER, in answer to Mr. Farnell for Mr. Buchanan, said he was informed that it was not true that the Judge who tried the Grafton Bank robber said in passing a sentence of two years' imprisonment upon him, "That he would send him to a gaol presided over by a very kind man, and that he would be very comfortable and kindly treated?" He was informed that the Judge, in answering a request from prisoner's father to have prisoner sent to Grafton gaol to be near his friends, Judge Forbes informed him that Mr. Gates, the gaoler at Young, was an excellent officer and a humane and good man, and that his son would not be more harshly or cruelly treated there than he would be at Grafton.

Mr. SUTTOR in answer to Mr. Melville, said there was no regulation prohibiting female teachers from sitting during a portion of school hours has ever been issued, nor did he think such a regulation desirable.

Mr. SUTTOR in reply to Mr. Abigail, said that at the time of the training-master's examination in 1856 all teachers were examined upon the same papers, and classifications were awarded in accordance with the proficiency exhibited. Class II., section B, was gained by the training master at the first examination he underwent, and II. A at the second, both examinations being held in the same year. The assistant training master was examined for Class I. (not for Class II. as inadvertently stated in his reply to a previous question asked by the hon. member), and obtained Class II., section A.

Mr. SUTTOR, in reply to Mr. Martin, who asked:—"Will the Government speedily distribute the sums voted by Parliament for the furtherance of technical education at the mechanics' schools of arts of the colony, as promised to a deputation from these institutions several months ago, in order that the vote may not lapse?" Replied,—"The question of the distribution of these sums is under the consideration of the Government, and I trust before long to be in a position to assist mechanics' schools of arts in the colony when it is considered desirable to establish classes in connection with technical education."

Mr. W. J. FOSTER, in reply to Mr. Forster, stated the particulars of inquiries which had been made previously in reference to complaints against Mr. Warden De Boos, of Temora. The cases under investigation by Mr. Cohen had not yet been disposed of.

PETITIONS.

Mr. BURNS presented a petition from Alexander Walker Scott, of Ferndale, near Double Bay, and the Venerable Archdeacon Coles Child, of Newcastle, praying for leave to bring in a bill to enable Alexander Walker Scott and the Venerable Archdeacon Coles Child, the trustees of the real and personal estate of the Blandford Proprietary School, to wind up the affairs of the same, to sell and convey the real estate situate at Blandford, in the county of Brisbane, in the colony of New South Wales, and to provide for the appropriation of the proceeds of the said real and personal estate.

Mr. WILSON presented a petition from freeholders, selectors, mechanics, storekeepers, and others, of Moama, stating that they view with alarm the practice of alienating large areas of Crown land and the formation of large estates by financial companies, and praying that his Excellency the Governor may be advised to appoint a royal commission to inquire into the general working of the Land Acts of the colony.

Mr. WILSON presented a petition from residents of Moama and district, asking attention to the manner in which bona fide settlement of the land was frustrated in connection with the selection of the Pericoota reserves, and praying that steps may be taken for having these reserves again proclaimed open for selection.

Mr. VAUGHN presented a petition from residents of the town of Grenfell and surrounding districts, stating their desire of bringing under the notice of Parliament the desirableness of connecting the main Southern and Western trunk lines of railway by means of a loop-line from Murrumburrah, via Young, Grenfell, and Forbes; and praying that a line may be constructed for carrying this into effect.

Mr. HENSON presented a petition from inhabitants of St. Peters and Cook's River, representing that an Act was passed authorising the construction of a tramway from Newtown to Cook's River, and that money was voted for carrying out the work; but that up to the present time no action has been taken, the Government having abandoned the proposal of constructing the said tramway; and praying the House to take the matter into consideration, with a view to relief.

The petitions were received.

VOLUNTEER AND PERMANENT ARTILLERY FORCES.

Mr. COPELAND moved,—"That an address be presented to the Governor, praying that his Excellency will be pleased to cause to be laid upon the table of this House—1. A copy of all applications for appointments or promotions in the Volunteer and Permanent Artillery Forces from officers occupying positions above the rank of captain in either branch of the service. 2. A copy of all papers and documents dealing with such applications; also of all objections taken by one branch of the service against promotions in the other branch. 3. A copy of all papers, documents, and minutes respecting the applications for leave of absence and any extension of same, granted to the Commandant Colonel Richardson, and the same with respect to Colonel Roberts. 4. A copy of all reports, correspondence, &c., from Colonels Scratchley, Richardson, and Roberts, or any other officer or public functionary, in respect to the arrangements suggested or carried out for the performance of the duties of commandant and officer commanding artillery forces during the absence of Colonels Richardson and Roberts from the colony. 5. The particulars of additional expenditure made necessary by granting leave to Colonels Richardson and Roberts, to be both absent at the same time from their commands."

The motion was agreed to.

FOREST LODGE ESTATE BILL.

Mr. TEECE moved,—"1. That the Forest Lodge, near Tario, Estate Bill be referred to a select committee for consideration and report, with power to send for persons and papers. 2. That such committee consist of Mr. Badgery, Mr. Healey, Mr. T. R. Smith, Mr. Gannon, Mr. Abigail, Mr. Holborrow, Mr. Byrnes, and the mover."

The motion was agreed to.

INSTITUTE OF SURVEYORS INCORPORATION BILL.

Mr. FARNELL moved the second reading of the Institute of Surveyors Incorporation Bill. He had no wish to enter into the question of why the Government Astronomer and the head of the trigonometrical branch had retired from their connection with the society, but he would point out that the great majority of the licensed surveyors of the colony were members of this institute. The object of the bill was actually to incorporate these persons. [Mr. WISDOM: More than that.] He would explain that directly. He intended to move the omission of three of the clauses. (Hear, hear.) After some further remarks,

Mr. SPEAKER said that this bill was improperly before the House in every way, being an interference with trade; and there were some provisions where the interference with the provisions of trade could only be introduced as a public bill into committee of the whole House. As a private bill, it contained provisions not included within the provisions prescribed by the standing orders, not included within the petition presented to the House for leave to bring in the bill, and beyond the order of leave.

Mr. FARNELL then withdrew the bill.

[Cries of "Adjourn" from all parts of the House were heard.]

Sir HENRY PARKES said the Government were prepared to go on with the business. (Cries of "Adjourn.")

On the motion of Sir HENRY PARKES the House adjourned at eight minutes past 5 until 4 o'clock on Tuesday next.

DEPUTATIONS.

EXTENSION OF THE CITY IMPROVEMENT ACT.

A deputation from several of the suburban municipalities waited upon Sir Henry Parkes to urge an extension of the City of Sydney Improvement Act to the suburban boroughs. The deputation consisted of Mr. S. H. Pearse (Mayor of Randwick), Mr. A. Tornachi (Mayor of Hunter's Hill), Mr. W. Archer (Mayor of Burwood), Aldermen Cummins, Simson, Wedderburn, Deaken, and Beaver (Burwood); Alderman W. Wiley, Waverley; and Alderman W. E. Langley, St. Leonards; and it was introduced by Mr. Pilcher, M.L.A.

Mr. PILCHER said he had been requested to introduce the deputation, which represented four boroughs—Waverley, Randwick, Hunter's Hill, and Burwood. They desired to urge upon the Government the desirability of extending the provisions of the City Improvement Act to the boroughs generally, and particularly to the four boroughs now asking for it. There were a number of other boroughs that sympathised with this action, and he believed some petitions had been presented under the 5th section of the Act, which empowers the Governor to extend the provisions of the Act to any borough applying for it. He was requested to state that all the boroughs surrounding Sydney, and especially the four that were represented on the deputation, were extremely anxious that the provisions of the Act should be extended to them without delay. By extending this Act now very many evils would be stopped which, in a short time hence, could only be remedied at a great expense.

Mr. W. ARCHER said they called upon the Premier before he went to England, and he then promised that he would see that something was done, and said that he was about bringing in some bill that would obviate the difficulty. In the meantime the Premier said he would have the Act extended to Burwood. Since then the borough was actually spoilt through little places being run up.

Mr. S. H. PEARSE said he had the same complaint to make of the erection of wooden houses and small shanties in the borough of Randwick, and if a remedy was not applied at once evils would exist that would cost a great deal of money in the future to remove. All the aldermen had signed a petition to the Government to extend the provisions of the Act to the Borough of Randwick, and the petition had been sent in to the Government.

Sir HENRY PARKES: It has not reached me.

Mr. ARCHER said the petition from Burwood was sent in a month ago.

Mr. WILEY said that the Borough of Waverley also was being injured in a similar way to what had been expressed by the other members of the deputation.

Sir HENRY PARKES said he would at once call for these petitions, and give the case of the four boroughs special consideration. He should, of course, have to take the sense of the Ministers about it, and he would inform each borough of the result. That would be done in the course of a few days.

Mr. PILCHER said the existing and prospective evils arising from a want of the extension of the Act were really far more serious than had been represented by the deputation.

Sir HENRY PARKES said he could see that. Of course, there was every disposition on the part of the Government to meet the the wishes of these boroughs, and he hoped he should be able to do it.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

Yesterday, a deputation, consisting of Mr. W. W. Richardson (Chairman of the Agricultural Society), Mr. Walter Bradley, and the Secretary of the Society (Mr. R. W. Grierson), waited upon Sir Henry Parkes to ask for pecuniary aid from the Government to enable the society to proceed with its operations at Moore Park. The deputation explained that they desired an advance of money to pay for the further improvement of the society's grounds. The society had raised over £3000 by private subscriptions, and had received £3000 from the Government. But they had expended both these sums, and had incurred a liability to the extent of a further sum of £3000. This, with the fact that the society had a heavy overdraft at the bank, made them reluctant to sanction further expenditure until they could obtain another sum of money from the Government. Unless they received some assistance, work at the grounds must be stopped, for those who were responsible for the liability which now existed were not disposed to increase the amount for which they were liable. Parliament, it was pointed out, had voted £5000, but on the usual condition of £1 for every £1 collected as private subscriptions by the society, and as the society had collected only £3200, there was still a balance of £1800 remaining unappropriated from the Parliamentary vote.

Sir HENRY PARKES said that money appropriated by Parliament could be expended only according to the conditions under which it was granted. He could not hold out any hope that the balance of the Parliamentary vote would be paid, except under the condition that a sum equal to it was collected by the society. But he would represent to the Government what the deputation had said. He would be extremely glad if he could meet their wishes in any way, but he could not undertake to make any promises.

RECREATION GROUND AT COOGEE.

A deputation, consisting of Mr. Trickett, M.L.A., Mr. H. Clarke, M.L.A., Mr. See, M.L.A., Mr. Hezlet, M.L.A., and Mr. S. H. Pearse (Mayor of Randwick) waited upon Sir Henry Parkes to ask the Government to reclaim or take over a piece of land bounded by Whale, Bondi, Ardern, and Brooks streets, and add it to the reserve already at Coogee.

Sir HENRY PARKES said that if Mr. Pearse would send him a written statement with a tracing, and send it soon, he would take the matter into consideration.

SEA WALL AT MANLY.

Aldermen Hayes and Barker, representing the municipal council of Manly, waited upon the Minister for Works yesterday to solicit the assistance of the Government in the construction of a retaining wall on the ocean beach at Manly. They said it was proposed that the wall should extend from the Steyne Hotel for about 2000 feet in the direction of Fairy Bower, the estimated cost being £2000. The council desired the assistance of the Government in the matter because the date of their incorporation precluded them from acquiring the subsidy they anticipated.

Mr. LACKEY replied that the application of the deputation involved two principles. The deputation was asking for money for a wall from the hotel to Fairy Bower, but he thought this might be the thin end of the wedge and a wall all round the bay might be asked for. A question also for them to consider was, whether this wall would be an improvement to their beautiful beach, which, in its present condition, he thought was a great attraction to people who visited the place. There was no precedent for granting money for the work except in the case of Coogee, the wall there, however, being only used to protect the roadway. The residents endeavoured to have it extended into a sea wall, but the Government prevented them. If the Government acceded to the request of the deputation, money would have to be voted by Parliament for the work. He would cause an estimate of the cost and nature of the work to be prepared, and this should be placed before his colleagues, who would decide whether they would undertake the work or not.

IMPROVEMENTS AT COOK'S RIVER.

A deputation, consisting of the Hon. S. H. Terry, M.L.C., Mr. Pigot, M.L.A., Mr. Henson, M.L.A., and Messrs. Judd, M'Innes, and Leader, and representing the interests of St. Peters and West Botany, waited upon the Minister for Works yesterday. Their object was to induce the Government to cause a canal to be cut from the mouth of Cook's River to the dam, and to deepen the channel of the river. They pointed out that the Government had erected a wharf at the place but at exceptional times vessels could not reach it in consequence of the shallowness of the water. The population was increasing very rapidly, and the work proposed would be a material benefit to them, and also increase the value of Government property.

Mr. LACKEY replied that he found from the papers at his disposal some action was taken in regard to this matter some time ago, the object then being to deepen the channel for 1½ mile by dredging, the proposal to make a canal, however, not being made. He thought it would be best to cut the canal, and if the work would increase the value of Government land it would be a reasonable work to undertake. The question arose, however, as to whether, in view of the important works the Government had in hand, they would be warranted in going on with this one. However, he would cause an examination of the place to be made, and an estimate of the cost prepared, which he would submit to the Government, that they might determine whether they would go on with the work.

FLOODS IN OCTOBER AND NOVEMBER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Since the foundation of the colony in 1788 there have been recorded five floods in the months of October, and 11 in the months of November, with several freshes.

I think, therefore, that we need not despair of getting rain enough to supply our wants for the coming summer.

The late northern winds have nearly ceased, and the air seems full of vapour, therefore I look forward to the first southerly to condense this vapour into rain.

I am, &c., PLUVIA.

LAW REPORT.

SUPREME COURT.—FRIDAY, OCTOBER 6.

In Equity.—(Before his Honor the PRIMARY JUDGE.)

GODFREY V. POOLE AND OTHERS.

Mr. C. J. Manning, Mr. Lingen with him, appeared to move for the continuance of an interim injunction restraining the defendants from dealing with a certain block of land at Middle Harbour, which the plaintiff claimed to be his property, purchased at a sale by the District Court Bailiff in 1865. The portion in question comprised one-half of a subdivision announced by Messrs. G. Withers and Co., for sale, on Saturday, the 6th instant, under the title of the Wolverton Estate. The learned counsel said there were several nice points of law involved in the title, and he thought they would occupy some time in argument. He suggested that the sale might go on, so far as that portion not claimed by Mr. Godfrey was concerned.

Mr. A. H. Simpson appeared to oppose the application. He was prepared to show that the plaintiff had lain by for 17 years, and had had opportunities of knowing that the sale was to come off, and had seen the notices. Notwithstanding this, he had come forward with a claim at the last minute. His clients were prepared to account for the land in dispute, if the sale were not obstructed by plaintiff.

Mr. Manning said his client did not wish to have the land sold just now.

His HONOR said that he could not go into the whole case then, but would hear it upon the point of laches.

John Callaghan, salesman to Messrs. G. Withers and Company, deposed that the property had been put in the hands of the firm for sale somewhere about six months ago; it had been advertised for sale for about four or five months in three daily newspapers; circulars and plans had been distributed throughout the city, and large lithographs displayed at six of the principal railway stations, and upon the hoarding at the General Post Office; a large plan, 7 feet x 5 feet, showing the whole subdivision of the property, had been displayed in the saleroom facing the door for four or five months; he had seen plaintiff three times or more in the saleroom on other business; the last time—which was about the 28th ultimo—he saw him looking at this large plan; he believed he had seen plaintiff looking at the plan about a month ago; the property had been advertised twice as long as usual in consequence of the choice of a proper season for the sale.

Cross-examined by Mr. Manning: The defendants had given the property the name Wolverton Estate; it was advertised the first two months as the Moonie Estate, but that name was not considered a well sounding one.

Re-examined by Mr. Simpson: Lithographs were also issued with the name Moonie Estate.

Alfred Godfrey, solicitor, deposed that he was the plaintiff; he did not know that this proposed sale embraced part of his property until last Wednesday week, when he went to see Mr. Withers about some land at Granville; he then saw this plan, and as he knew he had some land at Willoughby he was interested in the plan he saw, and looked at it to see if the land to be sold was anywhere near his property; from what he saw he asked for the plan of Willoughby, and came to the conclusion that the land for sale included his; within a half an hour he communicated with Messrs. Withers and Co., and was told that the vendors were a syndicate; he got an answer on the following morning.

By his Honor: He had made an appointment with surveyors to go on the land some seven or eight months ago with the intention of marking it off, but when he got there he missed them; he lost his way, but fancied he was then upon the land, which was not then cleared; all the Government pegs and land-marks were obliterated, and it was then his intention to have a resurvey; the first advertisement he had seen was two or three days ago.

His HONOR said he would not go on with this matter. In the first place this sale had been advertised four or five months, and Mr. Godfrey had eyes and ears, and he should have found out. When he did find out on the 28th there was time for him to have filed a bill and brought the parties before the Court. He had no doubt that the property had been advertised as the Moonie Estate for two months. There was another point to be considered, and that was that if the sale were stopped it would be a great inconvenience to sellers and bidders, who had no doubt prepared themselves. It might be that Mr. Godfrey would lose the opportunity of making a good sale of the land if the auction did not go on. If the defendants liked to go on at their peril they could, because if Mr. Godfrey proved that he was entitled to the land he would get the benefit of it. Costs would have to be costs in the cause.

In Chambers.—(Before his Honor Sir WILLIAM MANNING.)

EX PARTE WATTERSON.

This was an application for a prohibition.

The applicant, Watterson, held a lease of a public-house for five years from October, 1881, from one Quinn. In the lease there was a covenant by the tenant to keep the house licensed. On April 25th, his license was renewed; and four months' extension of time for completing the additional buildings required by the Act was granted him. On 24th August, the day before the expiration of the four months' extension of time, Watterson, not having completed the required additions, left the house and gave up the keys to his landlord, Quinn. Some time afterwards Quinn applied to the Licensing Bench for a transfer of the license under section 43 of the Licensing Act (45 Vict., No. 14), as on a legal eviction of the tenant from the licensed premises within the meaning of the section. The Bench granted the transfer.

Mr. Reid now appeared, instructed by Messrs. Coonan, Ryan, and Dunn, on behalf of the applicant Watterson, and moved to make absolute a rule nisi for a prohibition against the members of the Licensing Bench and Quinn.

Mr. C. J. Manning, instructed by Mr. C. Davis, for the respondents, took the preliminary objection that the applicant had no locus standi.

His HONOR upheld the objection. The tenant, not having completed the additions within the time allowed him, had no interest in the application to transfer the license.

Rule discharged.

METROPOLITAN QUARTER SESSIONS.

FRIDAY.

(Before His Honor Mr. District Court Judge DOWLING.)

The Court re-opened at 10 o'clock.

Mr. F. L. S. Smyth prosecuted for the Crown.

GRIEVOUS BODILY HARM.

Charles Sweeney was charged with that he did, at Sydney, on the 22nd July, inflict grievous bodily harm upon one George Gibson. Mr. E. Barton, instructed by Mr. J. N. Clayton, appeared for the prisoner. The case was a very trumpery one, and the jury found the prisoner not guilty.

GRIEVOUS BODILY HARM.

Michael Taylor, charged with inflicting grievous bodily harm, was bound over in his own recognizance to appear when called upon.

FALSE PRETENCES.

The charge of obtaining goods by false pretences preferred against one John Russell by Andrew Dransfield, was postponed till next sessions, owing to the prosecutor being unable to appear in consequence of illness.

LARCENY.

Jane Mary Cuddiford was charged with that she did, at Enmore, on the 1st November last, steal, take, and carry away jewellery, wearing apparel, and household articles to the value of £200, the property of Frank South Fielder. Mr. Backhouse prosecuted for the Crown in this case, and was assisted by Mr. Greer, solicitor. Mr. E. Barton, instructed by Mr. Gillespie, appeared for the prisoner. The evidence for the Crown was to the effect that the prisoner was in the prosecutor's employment as washerwoman, &c., and in that capacity went in and out of the house at pleasure. During the time that she was there a large number of articles were missed, and on inquiries being made it was found that she had pawned a portion of the articles, whilst others were found in her house. It was also stated that the articles had been taken at intervals extending over a period of two years. The defence was that Mrs. Fielder was drinking, and that she, for the purpose of getting drink, pawned these articles through the prisoner. The jury found the prisoner not guilty, and she was discharged.

The Court then rose.

POLICE.

CENTRAL POLICE COURT.

Messrs. Clarke and Crane, S.Ms., occupied the bench yesterday.

David Fenwick, apprehended by Constable Thompson for assaulting one Mary Donnelly, was for that offence sentenced to be imprisoned two months; and for assaulting the constable was sentenced to pay a penalty of 40s., or to be further imprisoned one month.

Mary Evans was fined 20s. for indecent behaviour in Belmore Gardens, and 40s. for using indecent language in Campbell-street; in default of payment, to be imprisoned for the first offence seven days, and one month for the second.

Margaret Chidd's and Sarah Brown, convicted of being common prostitutes found wandering in South-street and behaving in a riotous manner, were sentenced to be imprisoned, with hard labour, two months.

Mary Ann Price was charged with feloniously wounding. Julia Keogh, wife of Anthony Keogh, of Pyrmont, publican, deposed that between 11 and 12 in the forenoon of Tuesday last the prisoner was at her public-house in company with another woman and two men; they misconducted themselves, and she desired them to leave the house; they refused to go away, and witness's husband put them out; one of the women, she could not say which, threw a tumbler, which struck her on the face and inflicted a wound. Robert Keogh identified prisoner as the person who threw the tumbler with which the wound was inflicted. Dr. Lewis Laure examined the prosecutrix, and found her suffering from a true wound on the top of her nose and another over her left eye; a blow with a tumbler might cause such injuries. Committed for trial at the Quarter Sessions.

Ann Thompson, charged with having assaulted Helena Howard, pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to pay a penalty of 60s., or to be imprisoned one month.

Henry Gooding, brought before the Bench on warrant, charged with having deserted an illegitimate child, consented to an order for payment of 10s. a week for its support.

Gilbert Brown was charged with having assaulted one Robert Scott, with intent to rob him. Prosecutor deposed that he is a labourer, residing in Kent-street; about 9 o'clock in the evening of the 4th he met the prisoner at Warby's public-house, and at his request accompanied him to his home, at Darlington; prisoner wanted him to remain all night, and when he refused locked the door of his room, struck witness behind his left ear with a piece of wood resembling a chair leg, a blow which knocked him down, and with his fist struck him on the left eye, causing a mark which is yet visible; when he tried to get up prisoner kneeled upon him, and began to feel the pockets of his vest; he called out murder, some one outside opened the room door, and witness made his escape; he waited in the street until Constable Deane came up, to whom he told what had happened, and who then apprehended the prisoner. By Bench: Was quite sober; had 2s. 1d. in the watch pocket of his vest; prisoner did not take anything from him. Committed for trial at the Quarter Sessions, and allowed bail, with two sureties in £25 each for his appearance.

In the Summons Court, William Lyons was fined 10s. for keeping open his shop for the sale of American drinks on Sunday, and two shopkeepers were fined 5s. each for placing goods upon the footway. Stephen Thomas was fined 10s. for assaulting Fanny A. Hull.

WATER POLICE COURT.

Mr. March, S.M., sat in the Charge Court yesterday; and Mr. Buchanan, S.M., occupied the bench in the Summons Court.

Edward Stevens, alias Smets, alias Smyth, was charged with having, on 2nd October, stolen two portmanteaux, a pair of trousers, two coats, and a vest, the property of Mr. Frank Hutchinson, journalist. The prosecutor lodged at Carlton House, Wynyard-square, at which place the prisoner was employed in the capacity of waiter and general servant. The prisoner was discharged at his own request on Monday, and went to reside in Castlereagh-street. The portmanteaux and clothes were missed, and a constable went to the house in Castlereagh-street in which prisoner was, arrested him, and found the portmanteaux and clothes in the same room. The prisoner, who stated that he took the liberty of taking the portmanteaux, intending to return them, was committed for trial at the Court of Quarter Sessions.

Henry Evans, Joseph Beale, George Bennett, Thomas Smith, and Henry Morris, seamen of the Star of India, were charged by Frederick Parslow, master of that vessel, with having in Port Jackson, on the 4th instant, combined one with the other to impede the progress of the voyage of the vessel. The ship left England on the 17th June, and was on a voyage to Shanghai, China. Everything went well until a few weeks ago, when the vessel was off Cape Otway. The carpenter suddenly became insane and destroyed the ship's chronometers, consequently the vessel put into Port Jackson, arriving here on the 2nd instant. The carpenter was sent to an asylum for the insane, and the captain becoming so ill as to be unable to proceed on the voyage, the chief officer, Mr. Parslow, was, with the recommendation of the captain, appointed to the command of the vessel. The next difficulty was a sudden determination on the part of the five defendants not to proceed in the vessel. When brought before the Court they alleged that the vessel was unseaworthy, by reason of her leaking at a very rapid rate. The hearing of the case was then postponed to allow of an examination of the vessel being made by two officers of the Marine Board. When the hearing of the case was resumed Richard Johnston, shipwright surveyor to the Marine Board, and Isaac Lee, inspector for the Marine Board, deposed that although there were one or two leaks there was nothing about the vessel to in any way render her unseaworthy. Neither officer would have any objection to proceeding to sea in the vessel. All the defendants were sent to gaol for 12 weeks.

Inspector Seymour prosecuted a number of persons for various offences, including loitering on public footways, allowing horses to trot over the intersections of streets, placing building materials and rubbish in public streets, having rotten bacon for sale, and having filthy premises, defendants being fined in sums varying in amount up to £5.

Edward Malone was charged by Mr. T. H. Sapsford, City Building Surveyor, with having committed two breaches of the provisions of the City Improvement Act by having caused certain additions to be made in a building in Bromby-street without having previously lodged plans of such additions for the approval of the City Building Surveyor, and by having failed to give the Surveyor three clear days' notice of his (the defendant's) intention to proceed with the making of such additions. For each offence the defendant was ordered to forfeit £5 and costs.

Thomas Wilton Eady, the owner of No. 278, Sussex-street, occupied by Sun Yung Ting and Co. as a cabinet makers' shop; and Leopold Goldschmidt, the owner of No. 94, Goulburn-street, occupied by Sang Yee Fune and Co. as a cabinetmaker's shop, were ordered to pull down such premises on the ground that they were built wholly of inflammable materials of such a character and in such a position as to be dangerous in respect of fire to the neighbourhoods thereof.

Margaret Fitzpatrick and John Brown, for wasting the water supplied to their houses, were each fined £2 and 5s. costs; and Richard Ryan, for using water for machinery without a meter, was fined 5s.

REDFERN POLICE COURT.

Yesterday, before Mr. G. W. F. Addison, S.M., George Thompson was charged with being illegally on the premises of the Rev. Canon Stephen. The prosecutor prayed that prisoner might be leniently treated, and he was sent to gaol for three days. Ada Lewis, for obscene language, was fined 20s. and complainant's costs, 25s., or to be imprisoned 14 days. Robert Crooks v. Sarah Crooks, a case of assault, resulted in defendant being fined 5s. and costs, £1 9s., or seven days in gaol. On the prosecution of Sub-inspector Mackay, Michael Navin and John Macneal were fined 7s. 6d. and 12s. 6d. respectively, for breaches of the Police Act; and Denis Mulhem and John Mannil, for riotous conduct, were fined 12s. 6d. each, or 48 hours' imprisonment. At the instance of Inspector Holland, Joseph M'Donald, W. Campbell, and P. Clark were fined each in the minimum penalty of £2, for offences against the bylaws of Redfern Municipality; and for carting sand over the footpath, Robert Mully and Edwin Wilks were each fined £3 and costs, or 14 days in gaol. Peter Corcoran, Louis Steel, and T. Roahan, for offences against the Borough of Waterloo, were fined each 10s. and costs, 5s., or 48 hours in gaol. In Quinlan v. Quinlan, a case of wife desertion, defendant consented to an order being made against him for payment of 10s. per week for 12 months.

BOYD'S Orchard Property at Lane Cove-road consists of 103 acres and is one of the best-known properties on the Lane Cove-road Heights. Situate opposite Cherry's, it occupies one of the picked positions in this famed orchard and fruitgrowing district. It is now subdivided into blocks of from 1 acre to 8 acres, leaving the fine orchard, 13 acres, with the residence, to be sold in one line. No better opportunity has occurred for the safe and profitable investment of money, as, apart from the salubrity and picturesqueness of the locality and its fruit-producing capabilities, it is about to be opened up by railway communication, which will double, treble, and quadruple the value of land. Obtain a plan and inspect. 'Buses at regular intervals. Mr. Boyd, who resides on the orchard, will show you over the blocks. Hardie and Gorman, auctioneers.—[ADVT.]

THE reason why so many are unable to take cocoa is that the varieties commonly sold are mixed with starch, under the plea of rendering them soluble, while really making them thick, heavy, and indigestible. This may be easily detected, for if cocoa thickens in the cup it proves the addition of starch. Cadbury's Cocoa Essence is genuine; it is therefore three times the strength of these cocoas, and a refreshing beverage like tea or coffee.—[ADVT.]

REMARKABLE ASSAULT CASE.

At the Water Police Court yesterday, Mr. Buchanan, S.M., concluded the hearing of a charge of assault preferred by one Henry Hinsby against Henry Waterhouse, John Brown, jun., Thomas Barrett, and George Schwartz. It was alleged that the assault was committed on the land of Mr. Richard Harnett, sen., at North Willoughby, on the afternoon of the 28th July. Mr. Roberts, sen., instructed by Messrs. Stephen, Laurence, and Jaques, appeared for the prosecutor. In the earlier stages of the proceedings Mr. J. H. Want (instructed by Mr. Way) appeared on behalf of the defendants, who were subsequently represented by Mr. Joseph Lowe, and during the last four or five days by Mr. Pilcher. The following is a summary of the evidence that was taken:—

Henry Hinsby, the complainant, deposed that he lived at Lane Cove; on the 28th July the four defendants assaulted and beat him on Mr. Harnett's land, near the Mowbray-road, Lane Cove; witness was on the land by the authority of Mr. Richard Harnett; the assault was committed at about half-past 2 o'clock in the afternoon; Harry Waterhouse came on to the ground and assaulted him, and the others then joined Waterhouse; the latter struck witness violently with his fists on the chest; John Brown then hit witness on the side of the ear with his fist; then the four defendants came on to complainant; defendant Schwartz struck him on the body, and said he was a better man than witness was; Waterhouse and Schwartz were fighting men; they sang out, "Lift him up, make him fight, run him off the ground;" witness did not want to fight, and he dropped his hands, and told them so; witness was on the ground to do certain work in accordance with the orders of his employer; Constable Ross and Mr. Harnett came and told the defendants to stop, and they did so; one of the defendants hit witness with a stick whilst he was on the ground; Waterhouse and Schwartz knocked him down; he was cut and bruised; witness had to knock off work; they told him that if he did not get off the ground they would murder him; John Macfarlane, Charles Reynolds, Thomas Reynolds, Robert Jackson, and Samuel Hinsby, a constable, and Mr. Harnett, sen., were on the ground; it was Barrett who struck witness with a stick; witness was overpowered and knocked down two or three times; the assault continued for 10 or 12 minutes.

By Mr. Want: Witness was a labourer, and did not fancy himself with his fists; gave evidence at the Supreme Court a few days ago on behalf of Mr. Harnett; was not sent on the land to bullyrag; his instructions were not to fight; did fight when the defendants hit him; would swear that he did not state at the Supreme Court that he fancied himself; was picked out by Mr. Harnett to take care of the land; Samuel Hinsby was with witness; Samuel Hinsby was a labourer; did not know that he could use his fists; Robert Jackson, Charles Reynolds, and Thomas Reynolds were with witness; the land was about 20 or 25 acres in extent; witness went there on the morning of the 28th July; they were told to go on the land three or four days before the row and work; witness did not know when he went on the land, that there was a dispute between Harnett and Broughton as to the ownership of the land; witness knew, on the day before the row, that Barrayne said if he (witness) continued to go on the land he would have the gang there; did not know what he meant, and did not ask him what he meant; did not know that both Broughton and Harnett had gangs, but knew there were "ructions" about the land; witness took the men on the land to draw the poles, and had the men at work when Barrayne said he would bring the gang up; the gang came; did not expect anyone there at all; didn't know there was to be any row; did not know that any of the defendants could use their hands; knew them all well; had no instructions from Harnett about the gang; witness picked out the men and found the money, but was working for Mr. Harnett; witness was paid by Mr. Harnett by the job, and he (witness) hired the men; did not tell Barrayne that he could bring them, and he (witness) would fight any man he liked to bring; witness said, "It's all right about the gang, Jim, I've got to go down with this load of poles;" witness offered to fight Waterhouse with one hand when he came there the first day—the day before the row; Waterhouse came up there and told witness he (witness) was on Barrayne's land, and he was good enough for him any day; he said to witness, "You have come here to fight me;" witness replied, "I have not, if I did fight you I could lick you with one hand;" witness did not think he could do so; he was too good a man for witness, he was pretty clever with his hands; he said to witness, "I'll make you fight tomorrow;" witness's mates were with him; Waterhouse had some men with him; witness said to one of his mates, "This must be the gang;" Barrayne had, before that, said he was going to bring the gang; there was about equal numbers; witness was told that day by Waterhouse that Barrayne claimed the land, and that if he (witness) did not stop they would make him stop—that they would be up next day to make him stop; witness told them to come, that he would not stop, and showed them his order; witness did not go on to the middle of the road to fight; the fighting took place in the middle of the road; Harry Waterhouse said, "If you are as good a —— man as you were yesterday, put up your hands;" witness did not put up his hands; Waterhouse hit him on the breast; did strip down to his trousers, and have a stand-up fight, but not till Waterhouse had struck him twice; both of them stripped to their trousers.

John McFarlane deposed that he, Hinsby, two Reynolds, and Jackson were on the land on the 28th July and previous day falling trees; the first two men to come on to the ground were Thomas Waterhouse and Richard Green; they came and told Hinsby and his party to go away—that the other camp were coming to make them go away; Hinsby said he would not go away, when the others said they would beat him and his party off the ground, and would make them fight; Waterhouse struck Hinsby in the breast; Hinsby returned the blow, and then two more—Schwartz and Barrett—pitched into Hinsby; they knocked him down, and witness shoved them off to let Hinsby get up; they rushed at him again and knocked him down the second time; witness interfered again and struck one of them; they then knocked him down.

This witness was cross-examined by Mr. Lowe, and deposed that he was present the day previous to the commission of the assault, but did not hear Waterhouse say that he could beat Hinsby with one hand; Hinsby said he came there to cut a line through the land; Barrayne ordered Hinsby off the land, and Hinsby said it was his land, that he would not go, but would stop there; Barrayne showed a paper, which he said was his authority; Hinsby took his shirt off, and was stripped to the waist, when the fight took place; it was after he was assaulted that Hinsby stripped to the waist.

By Mr. Roberts: The land had been subdivided for sale, and witness and others were there clearing the land for Mr. Harnett.

Constable Ross deposed that he was informed on the 28th July that there was a row on the land where Hinsby was working; he went down to the land and saw some men fighting on the road; there was no fighting after witness got there.

Thomas Reynolds deposed that he was employed on the land in question on the 27th and 28th July; on the 27th July Waterhouse came and said that if Hinsby did not go off the ground the next day he would make him fight; between 2 and 3 o'clock on the 28th July, Waterhouse and his party arrived on the land; Henry Waterhouse, while running down towards them, said to Hinsby, "Now, you ——, are you as good a man as you were before?—now, I'll make you fight:" Hinsby said, "I won't fight," and the other shaping up to him, said, "I'll make you fight;" Waterhouse then struck Hinsby.

By Mr. Lowe: Heard Hinsby on the former day say to Waterhouse he believed he could lick him with one hand.

John M'Ilwraith, surveyor, produced a certificate of title dated 30th January, 1873, and containing a description of the land upon which the fight took place; witness had subdivided the whole of that land, a 26-acre block, for Mr. Harnett.

William Boyd, fencer, deposed that he was on the land in question on the 28th July; he saw Waterhouse and Barrett hit Hinsby in quick succession; Henry Waterhouse struck the first blow, and within a minute Barrett struck Hinsby also; the two appeared to be striking the complainant at the one time.

By Mr. Lowe: Hinsby was stripped to the waist, and Waterhouse was stripped to the waist, when witness arrived and saw the first blow struck; another man was also stripped to the waist.

Samuel Hinsby deposed that he was a brother of the complainant, and was at work with him on Mr. Harnett's land on the 28th July last; saw the four defendants and other persons, numbering in all about 30, come on to the land about half-past 3 o'clock; Barrett, Schwartz, Brown, and Waterhouse assaulted witness's brother, knocking him down: Barrett struck witness, who tried to quell the disturbance.

Thomas Flew, quarryman, deposed that he was on Mr. Harnett's land at North Willoughby, on the 28th July, and saw Waterhouse strike Hinsby, when the latter said he could not stand that, and pulled off his shirt to defend himself, when two or three attacked him.

Richard Harnett, sen., deposed that he was the owner of some property at North Willoughby, which had recently been subdivided into allotments for sale; the property mentioned in the certificate of title already produced had been transferred to witness; saw all the defendants on that land on the 28th July; Hinsby was employed by witness as a ranger to look after the land.

H. W. Graeme, surveyor, gave evidence which tended to prove that the land upon which the fight took place belonged to Mr. Harnett.

That concluded the case for the prosecution.

Mr. Buchanan said he considered that there was a prima facie case, and he should send the prisoners on for trial.

The following witnesses were called on behalf of the defendants:—

Thomas Broughton, J.P., produced some mortgages and conveyances with respect to Ben John's Grant at North Shore, and gave evidence with a view to proving that such property belonged to him, and further stated that for some years past Mr. Barrayne had been in possession of that property on his behalf. Barrayne had authority from him to put off trespassers by force if necessary.

James L. Spark, draughtsman in the Lands Titles Office, produced a copy of the original plan, showing the land for which the certificate of title was granted.

James Barrayne deposed that he had known Ben John's grant for about 25 years; witness had been in possession of the land during that period, and until about four or five years ago never heard of anyone but Mr. Broughton claiming it; a disturbance took place on the 28th July last, on the public road, the Mowbray-road; the land had a frontage to that road; witness went up on the land on the 27th July to put some persons off the land which Mr. Broughton and Mr. Harnett disputed about; witness was accompanied by Henry Waterhouse, Thomas Barrett, and another; witness took his horse and cart to get a load of wood; he saw Henry Hinsby, John Macfarlane, Charles Reynolds, Thomas Reynolds, and several others on the land; met them in front of the property in dispute; he shook hands with Hinsby; and asked him by whose authority he was there, or whether he had any for disputing about the land; Hinsby pulled his coat and vest off, and wanted to fight Waterhouse, but witness went between them and said that he had not come to fight, there were too many of them, but had come to dispute about the possession of the land, and had brought the three men to protect him; Henry Hinsby wanted, with one hand behind his back, to fight Waterhouse for 10s.; witness objected to any fight taking place; witness said he would come the next day, and Hinsby said he and his mate would punch whomsoever might come; witness went away, but in company with Waterhouse, Schwartz, and Barrett returned to the land on the 28th July, when he saw Hinsby with six or seven men; he met Hinsby in the road about 250 feet from Mr. Broughton's land; after some talking Hinsby said he would fight Waterhouse, and the latter said he would fight Hinsby; they stripped, and Hinsby struck the first blow, when witness went in between them; men on both sides then meddled, and there was a general fight; witness's party got the best of the fight, which lasted a quarter of an hour.

By Mr. Roberts: Both Waterhouse and Hinsby were fighting men; on the 28th July witness took the four defendants to the land to put off Hinsby's party if they were still trespassing; witness paid the four defendants, and there were some three or four other persons went also; when he went to the land on the 28th July, he took what he considered sufficient force to meet any resistance that might be made, man to man.

By Mr. Pilcher: Had heard that the two Hinsbys, the two Reynolds, and Macfarlane were all fighting men; Brown was not employed by witness on the 28th July; had heard that one of the Reynolds was once in gaol for killing a man in a fight.

George Waterhouse deposed that he was present when the fight took place; heard some words pass between a number of people, when Hinsby struck Waterhouse, and they both went together; Waterhouse struck Hinsby, and then a general fight took place; believed that two of the defendants struck Hinsby; there was nothing in the fighting that was unfair.

By Mr. Pilcher: All of Harnett's men were supposed to be fighting men.

Robert Elliott deposed that he was present when the fight between Harnett's men and Barrayne's men took place; Hinsby had seven men with him; the row took place on the Government road; Hinsby stripped off and hit Waterhouse in the ribs; that was the first blow.

By Mr. Roberts: Witness was a passenger by the waggonette which went from Waterhouse's to where the fight took place; the waggonette contained witness, Tom Waterhouse, Jim Barrayne, Harry Waterhouse, George Schwartz, and Tom Barrett.

John Farrell deposed that he was present when the row took place; saw two men sparring round for about five minutes—Waterhouse and Hinsby; one of them struck the other, and a general fight ensued; it was all over in a few minutes; saw a man (Mr. Harnett, sen.,) rushing towards the men with a gun, but a man prevented him from getting close to them; Mr. Harnett, sen., was very much excited; the gun had, witness believed, caps on the nipples.

Alfred Lord, 'bus proprietor, deposed he was present when the row took place; part of it took place on private property and part on a road; the first thing witness saw was Waterhouse and Hinsby, who were stripped, shaping; Hinsby struck Waterhouse in the chest; Reynolds, Macfarlane, two Hinsbys, and the four defendants took part in the fight, which was all over in about five minutes; afterwards there was a barney about some land.

Frederick Holmes deposed to having seen some of the disturbance after it began, to seeing Mr. Harnett rush among the crowd with a gun, which he (Harnett) had just loaded, and to having heard a conversation take place in the Great Northern Hotel on July 27th, between the Hinsbys, Macfarlane, and the two Reynoldses; one of the party said there was to be a fight next day.

Bruce Wallace deposed that he was present, and saw Hinsby strike the first blow; saw Mr. Harnett in a buggy load a gun; Mr. Harnett got out of the buggy and, going among the crowd, extended the gun, and said "Look-out, I'll shift you."

James Anderson, clerk of works, gave evidence which tended to show that the road upon which a part of the disturbance took place was a public road.

R. Green deposed that he was present on the land on the 29th July; Henry Waterhouse went up to Henry Hinsby and asked him if he was in the same humour for fighting that he was the previous day; Hinsby said yes, and he would give him enough of it; Waterhouse went up to Hinsby and said, "Hit me," and he did so, and then Waterhouse returned the blow; others joined in the fight.

Thomas Waterhouse, brother to one of the defendants, gave evidence to the effect that what took place was a free fight, and that it was commenced by Hinsby; and, further, that Harnett's men were not at work.

By Mr. Roberts: Hinsby took his shirt off before he was struck, when the waggonette arrived those in the vehicle (Waterhouse's party) and those on the ground (Hinsby's party) stripped at the same time.

Peter Dowling, blacksmith at the Great Northern Hotel, deposed that the fight between Henry Hinsby and Henry Waterhouse took place on the edge of a newly cleared road.

By Mr. Pilcher: Charlie Reynolds tried to persuade Hinsby not to fight, but the latter would not heed him; Hinsby and his party were at the Great Northern Hotel on the morning of the 28th July; Hinsby said he wanted a drink, but he would not take too much; it would not do for him to take too much, as he was going to fight.

John Waterhouse deposed that the disturbance took place on a road; when witness arrived on the ground there was a lot of confusion; the first thing he saw was two men stripped and in a fighting attitude; those men were Hinsby and Waterhouse; the former struck the first blow, and then the people who were around closed.

By Mr. Roberts: Witness declined to say whether he had ever fought in a prize fight.

James Welsh deposed to having seen the fight, which was a rough-and-tumble scrimmage.

That concluded the evidence for the defence.

Mr. Pilcher said that there was a cross case arising out of that occurrence, and he would ask his Worship to reserve his decision in that case until he had heard the evidence in the other, in which the present defendants would have an opportunity of giving evidence. The persons on both sides were servants to the persons who claimed the land, and that row arose in consequence of each side claiming the land. Whether the law had been broken or not the charge did not come within the category of an ordinary dispute. The parties were obeying their masters' instructions, and whether they were liable or not, perhaps it would be fairest to hear what the parties on both sides had to say, and then to dismiss both cases, to impose fines in both cases, or to commit in both cases, as his Worship might decide.

Mr. Roberts objected to the adoption of that course, and contended that a prima facie case had been made out. The other case should be allowed to stand upon its merits. If the other case were proceeded with Hinsby would be in the same position that the present defendants were, and would be debarred from giving evidence.

Mr. Buchanan said he had no hesitation in stating when the case for the prosecution was closed that a prima facie case had been made out against the defendants, and now having heard the evidence adduced for the defence he could only say that the opinion that he had previously formed was fully confirmed. The whole of the evidence for the defence went to prove that a most deliberate scheme was made up between the parties to have a row on that ground. They had gone there deliberately to have that row. He was only concerned at the present moment in dealing with the four defendants before the Court, he thought it far better to deal with the one case first. It was no light thing for four men, and particularly for men with the reputation of the defendants, to resort to that method of adjusting a dispute about land; that was no way to settle the dispute; and no decision which he might give or opinion which he might express there would have anything to do with the title of that land, both of the legal gentlemen at the table knew that. All that he had to do was to uphold peace and good order. He looked upon that case as a grave one, and he should find it his duty to commit them for trial at the Court of Quarter Sessions. The defendants were admitted to bail upon entering into their own bonds for £80 each, and Mr. Broughton becoming surety for each in the sum of £80.

Some other cases, arising out of the same disturbance, were postponed until Tuesday next.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 10.

Mr. Burns to move,—for leave to bring in a bill to enable Alexander Walker Scott and the Venerable Archdeacon Coles Child, the trustees of the real and personal estate of the Blandford Proprietary School, to wind up the affairs of the same, to sell and convey the real estate, situate at Blandford, in the county of Brisbane, in the colony of New South Wales, and to provide for the appropriation of the proceeds of the said real and personal estate.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 7.

Mr. Combes to move,—1. That a select committee be appointed, with power to send for persons and papers, to inquire into and report upon the railway system of New South Wales, its administration and construction, together with its extension by means of what is generally known as the tram system; also freight and passenger rates, and all other matters pertaining to railways. 2. Mr. Combes to move,—1. That, in the opinion of this House, the amended regulations relating to gold-mining leases, published in the Government Gazette of the 4th of April last, are oppressive to the miner, and calculated to create a large amount of litigation. 2. That such regulations will effectually exclude capital from mining enterprise, and a considerable loss of revenue from lease rents must result therefrom. 3. That the above resolutions be communicated by address to his Excellency the Governor.

Mr. Farnell to move,—That this House will, on Friday next, resolve itself into a committee of the whole for the purpose of considering the petition of G. Stevens and Co., presented to this House on Thursday, the 21st of September, 1882.

Byron Moore and Macleod, Exchange, Melbourne, the Newton's Freehold Gold-Mining Company, Limited: capital, £55,000, in 110,000 shares of 10s. each. The company has bought from Messrs. Christopher Newton Brother, and Co., 299 acres freehold land at Forest Reefs, near Orange. At a meeting of shareholders, held at the Exchange, Melbourne, recently, the following office-bearers were elected. Directors: Messrs. J. W. Rogers, J. Whittingham, C. B. Miller, Charles Brown, and E. F. M'George.

In the Import markets business cannot be reported as brisk, and transactions continue to be chiefly of a trade order character. Stocks of marketable commodities of almost all descriptions are large, and though many importers say they have been reducing their orders for months past others must have been increasing theirs, for on the whole there seems to be no reduction in the shipments arriving or advised; and the natural effect is, as the spring trade has not yet set in with its customary vigour, importers find their stores full, with a general indisposition to operate. The rainfall in different parts of the country yesterday was welcomed, but there was not enough for the requirements of graziers and agriculturists; and until more shall fall, the internal trade of the colony must be restricted. Breadstuffs continue steady at last quotations. Best Adelaide flour worth £16, with only small stocks: country brands, £14 15s. to £15. 5s.; New South Wales, £15 to £15 10s.; Victorian, £14 10s. to £15; Californian, £13 to £14 10s.; New Zealand, £12 10s. to £14. Shipments of wheat continue to come to hand from Tasmania and New Zealand, checking the upward tendency of values. Californian, 6s. 4½d. to 6s. 6d.; Tasmanian, 6s. to 6s. 4½d., according to sample. No business of importance has transpired. Coffee is steady at late rates, 8¾d. being value of No. 1 Ceylon Plantation. Barry's chicory, duty paid, is selling at 5¾d. The sugar market presents no new feature; shipments from the northern rivers have replenished stocks, and those descriptions are in ample supply, and command from £25 for ration to £33 for low white; fine white £35. Rice in steady trade demand at about £15 for ordinary grades, and £20 to £20 10s. for fine table sorts. In dried fruits the market is firm for most lines at late quotations. In fish, sardines have only been in light request, the few holders being firm: 4s. 10½d. and 9s. 6d. are quotations for trade lines of quarters and halves; tinned salmon quoted at 8s. 4½d., salt from 4½d. to 4¾d.; fresh herrings, 6s. 6d.; red herrings, 25s. to 30s.; for Ling 6d. is asked. The value of candles is unchanged; there are general complaints that the price is too low, having regard to the quotations for tallow, but the quantity thrown on the market, of both imported and colonial, for the time necessitates a reduction in the case of weak holders. 7d. to 7¼d. is the quotation, the latter for D.R.J.'s, forced sales having been made at a concession. The salt market is weak; coarse is not worth more than 67s. 6d., fine 90s.; rock is dull of sale at 65s., which is almost a nominal quotation. Condensed milk continues to be sought for: the dryness of the season lessening the supply of fresh milk, contributes to the extra consumption of the preserved; 7s. to 8s. are the quotations of the day. Oilmen's stores in all lines are in full supply, and the trade chiefly confined to small lots which move at late rates. Pickles are commanding more attention as the warm weather sets in. Hops are firmly held for the advanced price of 3s. 9d., the state of the intercolonial and outside markets favouring holders' position. Writing on the 17th August Mr. Bruce Tate estimates the English crop at 150,000 cwt., against a yearly average of 550,000 cwt., and anticipates that prices will range from £15 to £22 per cwt. for new, and £10 10s. to £14 14s. for 1881 crop. Malt is in increasing request: colonial worth 6s. 6d. to 6s. 9d.; English 7s. 3d. to 7s. 6d. In liquors, there has been more movement in Hennessy's case brandy; 34s. 6d. and 46s. 6d. are the quotations for single and three star respectively; second-class brandy has had fair trade attention. Rum unaltered; Lowndes' in trade lines worth 4s. 1½d. in hogsheads and quarters; other brands 3s. 10½d.; Queensland scarce, Burnett's Old Tom, 12s. 6d. Whisky, in leading brands, moving freely. Bottled beer is also in good request; bulk comparatively neglected. In metals the trade is quiet. Galvanized iron may be quoted at £22 10s. to £24 15s., according to brand. Fencing wire has not met with the inquiry anticipated; No. 8 commands from £13 5s. to £13 15s.; other Nos. at proportionate figures. Sheet lead is about the same, business being done at £18 to £18 5s. in assorted parcels. Wire nails continue in over stock, and are not worth more than 15s. 6d. to 15s. 9d. Notwithstanding the large shipments, lumber commands ready sale at prices fairly well maintained. Next week further lots of Californian and Scotch timber will be offered in the public market. Cement cannot be quoted over 16s. for K.B.S., in parcels. Slates in overstock, and prices continue to rule in favour of buyers. In oils there is no change to note; boiled worth 3s. 8d. to 3s. 9d., with a better inquiry: castor selling at 3s. 4d. Jute goods are unchanged. Woolpacks, full weights, worth 3s.; cornsacks, 8s. 9d., in trade parcels. There was a very good supply of forage at the Darling Harbour produce sales this morning. The prices obtained were—for oaten hay, in bales, 8s. 6d. per cwt.: in bundles, 6s. 1d. to 8s. 6d.; in trusses, 7s. 11d. Straw, in bales, 4s. 5d. to 4s. 9d.; in bundles, 4s. 10d. to 4s. 11d. Hay chaff, in bales, 5s. 9d. to 7s. 4d.; in bags, 6s. 8d. to 7s. 3d. Straw chaff, in bales, 5s. to 5s. 1d. On the wharfs, lucerne hay of various qualities realised at auction from £7 to £7 10s. per ton; maize, 5s. 6d. to 5s. 8d. per bushel; potatoes, New Zealand, £5 15s.; onions, £5; hay chaff, £7 per ton; butter, best, 1s. 3d. per lb.; eggs, 11d. to 1s. per dozen; cheese, 11d. to 1s. per lb.; bacon, 6d. to 9d. per lb.; wax, 9d. to 11d.; fowls, 3s. 6d. to 4s. 6d. per pair; ducks, 4s. 6d. to 6s. 6d.; geese, 6s. to 8s.; turkeys, 8s. to 16s.; millet brooms, 8s. to 10s. per dozen.

Messrs. John Bridge, Brunker and Wolfe, Mort and Co., Harrison, Jones, and Devlin limited, F. L. Barker, and Hill, Clark, and Co. held their weekly sales of tallow and hides to-day. A better demand for tallow for shipment was noted, and prices were slightly firmer. Best beef brought £35 to £36; mutton, £36 to £36 10s. For hides there was more active competition, and prices, especially of extra heavies, were dearer, these being quoted to 4⅝d.; light, from 5½d.

The English mails by the P. and O. steamship Verona were delivered this afternoon. Our commercial files are to the 25th August. Closing quotations for Bank stocks were:—New South Wales, 64-66; Australasia, 81-83; English, Scottish, and Australian Chartered, 25½-26½ ex div.; London Chartered, 21½-22½; New Zealand, 27½-28½; Oriental, 16-17; Queensland National, 9-9½ ex div.; Union of Australia, 63½-64½. Respecting the market for colonial stocks, Mr. W. Westgarth writes as follows:—

"The market in the colonial stocks has participated in the usual general flatness of this holiday season, aggravated as it still is by the depressive effect of the yet unsettled Egyptian question, and its possible further disturbance of the money market. The advance of the bank rate last week from 3 to 4 per cent. seems a premonitory note on this point. During the last four weeks, since our previous issue, there has been but little change on either side in the chief colonial Government stocks. Transactions have been few, or confined to small amounts, and larger sales when pressed have been at the expense of price. The new New South Wales 4 per cents. touched 103½, but upon some immediate selling the price soon retreated to 102½, at which it now stands, the issue price 10 weeks previously having been 102. The Victoria 4 per cents. stand at 103¼, or just 1 per cent. the higher of the two, which is in curious contrast, seeing the New South Wales stock is presently to have the option of registration, while the Victoria has not yet that privilege. As it is extremely desirable that all these colonial stocks should enjoy the registration arrangement already secured for certain of the stocks of Canada, New Zealand, and now prospectively also of New South Wales, not only for convenience to investors, but also for the sake of the higher issue price to be had for the issuing colony, a few words on the subject may be useful here. And, first, as to the apparent anomaly in the higher price of the Victoria 4's, this is a merely temporary effect of the market being empty of stock for the time. As a large new Victoria loan of £4,000,000 had been daily expected here for some time, all business holdings for resale had been precautionarily sold out; but the loan not having yet appeared, the old stock has become excessively scarce, while the stock of the last New South Wales 4 per cents. remains in comparatively abundant supply. By way of further illustration of this too often descriptive feature, the Victoria 4½ per cents., which have also been plentiful in the market for some time, are at only 106½, while relatively to the 4's they should be 110 or upwards. The four million Victoria loan, when it does come, will certainly send the price of that stock considerably below that of the like New South Wales. The effect of the registration arrangement in raising the value of a stock is best seen in the cases of the Canada and New Zealand 4 per cents., which but a few years ago were respectively at 90 and a little over 80, but are now at 105½ and 101. Although the whole of so striking an advance cannot be credited to this single cause, yet the registration privilege has been largely contributive, more especially as it has now become well known, after some years' experience of its benefits. Lastly, it is to be kept in mind that loans should always be issued in 'Bearer' stock, with registration as a subsequent option. The reason for this is that the Stock Exchange, which is usually the main buyer, at the first, of all the loans, prefers for its temporary holding the bearer document. It is the subsequent purchaser for permanent investment who usually prefers the registration."

HILL, CLARK, AND CO.'S REPORT.

Fat Cattle: 1789 head yarded for the week's supply, nearly equal proportions on each day. Monday's market opened firm at last week's improved values, and prices for good cattle were well sustained throughout. There was a large attendance of country buyers on Thursday, and only a small proportion of good cattle forward; prices for these were still firmer, with a brisk market throughout. Best yards brought 28s to 30s per 100lb.; seconds, 25s to 27s 6d; to these from 17s 6d up. Our sales have been:—97 bullocks for Thos. Fitzpatrick, Esq., from Nabul, averaging £8 17s 6d; 10 cows, ditto, at £7 17s 6d; and 211 cows and bullocks, for the Hon. R. Hill, Grawhel, the former at £9 and the latter at £7 19s 9d sterling. Fat Sheep: 25,000 forward for the week, and the market still continues fearfully depressed. The trade are all heavily supplied, and have resorted to boiling to work off the surplus, and prices, as may be expected, have given way considerably. We have sold nearly 16,000, comprising 4000 wethers, for Messrs. John Robb and Co., Tallawanta, at 12s to 12s 1d, by far the top average of the week; 2058 wethers, for Messrs. A. Tobin and Sons, Wingadee, at 10s 6d to 12s 3d; and 3438 ewes for George Blackett, Esq., from Bimbie, averaging 9s 10d.—[Advt.]

The Sydney Morning Herald.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1882.

In the Legislative Assembly, yesterday,

Ministers replied to questions respecting the regulations issued to female teachers, the want of a home for the aborigines in the district of Forbes, the examinations passed by Public school training masters, the vote for technical education, the amendment of the Licensing Act, the inquiry into the conduct of Mr. De Boos, at Temora, the case of Stephen Murphy, the evasions of the conditions of mineral conditional purchases, the privilege of advertising on the railway lines, the erection of police barracks at Mudgee, and the address to the prisoner of the Judge who tried the Grafton bank robber.

Sir Henry Parkes stated, in answer to Mr. Cameron, that it was the intention of the Government to introduce a bill for the amendment of the Licensing Act during the present session.

Mr. Burns presented a petition from Mr. A. W. Scott, of Ferndale, and Archdeacon Child, of Newcastle, praying leave for the introduction of a bill for the sale of the Blandford Proprietary school property, and the appropriation of the proceeds thereof.

Mr. Wilson presented two petitions from the district of Moama in favour of the appointment of a Royal Commission on the land question.

Mr. Vaughn presented a petition from Grenfell, in support of the construction of a railway from Murrumburrah, via Young, to Grenfell and Forbes.

Mr. Henson presented a petition from St. Peters, in favour of the extension of the tramway line from Newtown to Cook's River.

A return in relation to appointments, promotions and other matters connected with the Volunteer and Permanent Artillery Forces, was ordered on the motion of Mr. Copeland.

The Tarlo Estate Bill was, on the motion of Mr. Teece, referred to a select committee for inquiry and report.

Mr. Farnell moved the second reading of the Institute of Surveyors Incorporation Bill, and said that if the House went into committee on the bill it was his intention to eliminate from the measure all matters which affected the general public, and to make it one of incorporation only for the members of the institute.

Mr. Speaker ruled that the bill was improperly before the House, and it was therefore withdrawn.

The House adjourned at eight minutes past 5 p.m. to 4 p.m. on Tuesday next.

The citizens of Sydney are just at present set upon architectural considerations. This is not to be regretted. On the contrary, it is greatly to be wished that every citizen should be an enthusiast about the beauty of the city, and the fitness of all its buildings for their purpose. The Municipal Council has to decide definitely on the plans of a new Town Hall. The site is not in question, because that is already fixed, but the size and quality of the great hall have to be determined, and as it is intended to last for centuries, and to be used for large gatherings—public meetings, concerts, dinners, and festive assemblies of all kinds—the aldermen cannot be too particular in studying every detail. It is not merely a question of beauty, but public convenience is at stake. The health and comfort of thousands of people, on thousands of occasions, have to be considered. The hall should be pleasantly lighted, well ventilated, free from draughts, with good ingress and egress, with good acoustic properties, and beautiful both inside and outside. The architect has laboured to combine all these conditions, and his design has already been subject to some competent professional criticism. It cannot, however, be too closely examined by practical as well as professional men, because mistakes once made in a building of that kind are generally irremediable, and too much forecast cannot be bestowed on a civic building of such magnitude and utility.

Meantime, while the City Council is anxiously studying Town Hall plans before finally giving its approval to them, the Government has invited the attention of the Legislature to a larger and more general question, namely, the proper location for an Art Museum and a National Library, and the discussion showed that the subject is one that widens out the more it is considered. The reasons given by the Government for passing binding resolutions on the instant will not strike any one as being strong. The PREMIER is anxious that we should show the world that we are nothing daunted or discouraged by the burning of the Garden Palace, and that we are ready, without a week's delay, to face the problem of building a better one. There is no necessity whatever that we should be imprudently hasty lest the world should erroneously think that we are easily crushed by a disaster. We are not responsible for the world's opinion, and we have other things to think about besides Mrs. GRUNDY'S criticisms. Moreover, there is not the slightest reason for believing that the world is specially thinking about us, or forming any opinion as to our courage or otherwise. Our business is to do the right thing, and let other people comment on us according to their pleasure. It is putting Parliament on a false scent to urge it to precipitate action lest a day's delay should lead some one to comment on our want of promptitude.

Nor was the allusion to Chicago particularly opportune. When the business premises of an active commercial city are burnt down, an immediate substitute is necessary in order that the profitable commercial operations may be carried on with as little interruption as possible. But we have had no stoppage to the business of Sydney. We have lost a perishable building, the removable value of which was probably not equal to £20,000. We have lost some treasures that can be replaced, and some documents that cannot be replaced; and some official departments have to find new quarters, and reorganise themselves. That has to be done at once, and is being done. But there is no necessity why, for that reason, we should be in any violent hurry to put up a new Art Palace. The different people who have been deprived of their accommodation cannot wait till a new palace is up, and when it is it will not be primarily for them, if for them at all. We are given occasionally to rushing to extremes. It was with the very greatest difficulty that the friends of Art could get from the Government a small encouragement for the academy out of which our gallery originated. It was also with great difficulty that money was secured to put up the detached building that we have near the Domain gate, and we should not have obtained that if the foreign commissioners had not positively refused to exhibit their pictures in the doubtful light of the Garden Palace galleries. But for that we should have no suitable place in which to display the pictures that were bought at the Exhibition and since. And now after these early struggles to get anything at all we are to rush into a building that will probably cost £150,000 or £50,000. It would be more satisfactory to us regular and uniform progress than these great delays, and then these violent enthusiasms. What we need actually at the present moment is a more fire-proof Art Gallery, and with some additional accommodation in the way of class-rooms. A few thousand pounds would give us that, and we could proceed then more leisurely with the erection of a great gallery, which, as it is to last for hundreds of years, and is to collect its treasures gradually, may be constructed with deliberation. The House having adjourned the discussion for a week, hon. members might consider whether, as it ought not to be a party question, the whole matter might not be referred to a select committee or a commission for careful inquiry. The question of a new Government House might be included. If the present Government House is to disappear, and a new one to be built more out of town, then the Governor might to have official rooms in the town, and if official rooms, then it may be considered whether also the reception-rooms for levees and large Government House entertainments might not also be in town, leaving the private residence to be in the suburbs. And if this were so, these reception rooms might be attached to the Art Gallery, and form part of the large Art Palace with its pleasant surroundings. There are a great many points to be considered in connection with these various questions, and they should all be carefully considered and discussed before a decision is arrived at. The only thing perfectly certain is, that there is no such need for an instant decision as should make a careful inquiry unsuitable.

In reply to those who contend that one of the chief wants of the colony is a more vigorous system of immigration, anti-immigrationists are in the habit of arguing that it is not to the introduction of fresh population that they object, but to the bringing people here at the expense of the State. The crowds that flock to the United States and Canada, we are reminded, go thither of their own accord. Let people come here on the same terms and everybody will be happy to receive them. For the purposes of immigration, however, the difference between the distance to America and the distance to Australia is a serious one. To the imagination of the masses of England, Ireland, and Scotland, it is one thing to take a fortnight's journey to the United States, and another to take a two or three months voyage to the antipodes. Of the former, also, they know something definite, while to multitudes the latter is still an unknown as well as a distant land. It is not reasonable to expect that in the matter of unassisted immigration Australia will be able to compete with America. But it would be easy to show that for the purposes of fostering immigration more is done in America than is done in any part of Australia. In neither the United States nor in Canada is it the custom to regard immigration as a thing to be left to look after itself. If the State does not offer inducement to immigrants in the shape of money it offers it in the shape of land, and the one inducement is of more consequence than the other. When the philanthropic movements which are now being devised are carried out, much of the passage money difficulty will be at an end. Even now those who cannot live in Ireland are able to find benefactors who will help them to get out of it. The Irish Land Act made special provision for the promotion of Irish emigration, and if the English peasantry are less favoured in this respect it is because they are better able to help themselves. The anxiety of large classes in both countries is not as to how they shall get away from their native land but as to how they may fare in the event of their making the venture. This is a feeling which is taken into the account in the countries which lie beyond the Atlantic, but it is one which is little considered in the more distant countries which lie beyond the Pacific.

Both the American and the Canadian land systems have been framed with a view to attract immigrants, but so much can hardly be said of the land systems of Australia. When we discuss new land bills we have other things to consider. The inhabitants of the United Kingdom know that Australia has all but illimitable plains to be peopled, but they must have the haziest of notions as to how the people are to get to them, and as to what they are to do when they arrive. In the United States and Canada the case is different. The great fields of the far West are not only open to settlement, they are offered on terms which settlers are unable to resist. The railways of America are constructed with a view of bringing as well as of ministering to the population. A writer in the current number of the Contemporary Review speaks of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company as the great benefactor of Canada and the world. This railway has been constructed on the land-grant system, the company having received from the Dominion Government some twenty-five million acres. "These principally consist of the sixteen alternate or uneven numbered sections in all townships along a tract of country forty-eight miles wide, or twenty-four miles on either side of the railway. Six of these sections in each township, to the extent of five millions acres they have agreed to sell to land corporations. All the rest they are now selling to settlers, or to companies for settlement, at what they call a lower price than that of any other corporation in America, viz., 10s. an acre, payable by equal instalments in seven years, with interest on the deferred payments at 6 per cent., the only condition being that within four years from the date of purchase one-half of the land is cultivated, or converted into grazing farms, on the performance of which the company gives the settler a rebate or payment back of 5s. for every acre of land so improved. The even-numbered sections of all townships within twenty-four miles of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and with the exceptions before noted, all other townships, i.e., all the rest of the territory, belong to the Government, and are held by them exclusively for homesteads and pre-emptions."

The homestead provision means that "any person, male or female, who has reached the age of 18, may have a free grant of 160 acres, on no other condition than the cultivation of a portion of the land, a three years' residence, and the payment of a registration fee of £2 per entry." On compliance with these conditions the patent is issued, and the land with the house on it, two oxen, a horse, a cow, household furniture, and certain farm implements are by a wise and merciful law exempted from seizure for debt. Pre-emption is the right which the law gives to every person who accepts of the above free grant to buy the adjoining quarter section for a payment of 10s. or 8s. an acre, according to circumstances, which payment shall be made in one sum at the end of three years from the date of entry at 6 per cent. It is quite true to say, as any one may see by attentively considering this paragraph, that "a family of four adults with very moderate means could in four years obtain a large estate of 1280 acres of probably the richest wheat growing land in the world at a merely nominal price." Unfortunately Australia has no such tracts of wheat-growing land to offer, but she has tens of millions of acres which were destined to be the homes of human beings, and in the overpeopled countries of Europe there are millions who stand in need of these homes. The Governments of Canada and the United States have taken note of the fact, and have shaped their policy accordingly. They have constructed their railways with a view to the disposal of their lands, and they have disposed of their lands with a view to extensive settlement. This is the true policy, and in the countries named it is proving eminently successful. The British emigrant knows where he can find land that is within his reach and within his means, and land that will yield him a return for his labour. To the States it is no great matter whether land is sold for 10s. an acre or 20s., provided sales are made for purposes of settlement, and not for those of mere speculation. The land that yields seed to the sower, and bread to the eater, brings more to the Government than the land which one man buys simply to keep it out of another man's hands. As long as Canada and the States offer such attractions as those which have been named, they will get population. Liberal grants of productive land are of far more consequence to an enterprising immigrant than a mere reduction of passage money. The assistance which the Dominion Government gives to immigrants is assistance of the most substantial kind. At this distance from the great centres of population we cannot expect to be very successful in competing with the United States and Canada, but we can do more to bring our resources within the knowledge and within the reach of the overgrown populations of Europe than we have been in the habit of doing. The machinery we have employed to bring people to our shores has been very good so far as it has gone, but it has really not gone very far.

The motion carried by the City Council, that the CITY SOLICITOR should be instructed to defend the MAYOR in the action brought against him by Mr. JOHN DAVIES, may have troubled many people in a scarcely less degree than Alderman CARTER. The proposition at a first glance has almost the appearance of a misappropriation—if not of public funds, of the paid services of a public officer. It may and probably has been said that the MAYOR has no more right to be assisted in defence than JOHN DAVIES in prosecution, that the quarrel is as between man and man, and should be fought out as such. Such would be the case had Mr. JOHN HARRIS, as a citizen, made certain allegations against Mr. JOHN DAVIES upon which the latter based his action for damages. A proper understanding of facts, however, puts a different complexion upon the case. The MAYOR is not charged with having made any statements or brought any charges until forced to do so by the expressed wish of the Municipal Council. His statements were almost dragged from him. They were made in the Council Chamber, made by him in his capacity as Mayor, and always with a view to maintaining the integrity and honour of the municipal office. Hence the justification of the proposal that the Corporation law-officers should undertake his defence. As a matter of course, a precedent will be established by this action, but it may be shown that it is eminently desirable to establish such a precedent. It is right and proper that members of the Municipal Council should feel themselves under some protection in guarding the public interests, that it should not be in the power of any wealthy contractor or powerful ring to hold writs of libel, with all their fearful possibilities of expense and inconvenience, over the heads of aldermen who might feel themselves constrained in the public interest to speak truths unpleasant as unprofitable to those immediately concerned. And this unquestionably would be done were it established that under any circumstances aldermen would be left to their own resources for defence. The surety of the Corporation making provision for his defence is but reasonable protection to any representative of the people who may bring himself within the far-reaching meshes of the libel law through giving what may fairly be considered as evidence upon matters of public concern.

The PREMIER OF QUEENSLAND has won the first battle of the campaign on the Warrego Railway Bill by a very narrow majority, 27 members being found for the bill and 25 against it. Such a result does not indicate any particular enthusiasm in favour of land-grant railways amongst the representatives of the Queensland people, or otherwise it may be taken as a strong protest against the construction of this particular line. Probably the former consideration has been most powerful, as an idea has been steadily growing in the country that if it will pay a syndicate to make a railway in return for certain grants of land, it will also pay the Government as the original owner to make the railway, retaining and leasing the land to pay interest upon the capital worked. It is naturally and reasonably asked: Why sacrifice a territory for a railway when our own enterprise, if properly directed, will give us the one and enable us to retain the other? The answer is found in the confession that the best possible use has not been made of the lands, that vast areas have been alienated at a merely nominal price, and that land sales in Queensland, as in New South Wales, have been in anything but a satisfactory ratio to the progress of settlement. Public opinion was first led to favour land-grant railways by the hope that land given or paid for such a purpose might ultimately be devoted to the settlement of a population that would render the line payable, and materially advance the progress of the colony. In the first proposal for land-grant systems this aspect was kept prominently in view; in that now before Parliament it has been ignored or shirked, and probably a belief has grown that the proposed railway is simply part of a scheme to obtain a permanent hold of great blocks of country for pastoral purposes. If this idea or suspicion is well founded, there is little doubt that it will prove fatal to the projected scheme, since the country will value and accept syndicates only as they are both immigration agents and contractors. If they bring us out good working men from any European country, men who will make homes and found villages with churches and schools, and all the adjuncts of permanent civilisation, they would be at once liberators and benefactors, freeing the land from its present semi-barbaric thraldom, and laying the foundation of a profitable civilisation that must grow and increase; but if they bring nothing but capital, and use it for no purpose but to secure land for pastoral purposes, and in the very work of railway construction still further strain an already over-taxed labour source, they may certainly be rejected with very slight consideration. The chief matter upon which a proper understanding is required is, to what purpose will the land be applied by the parties taking it in payment? Until that is settled there is very little hope of Mr. M'ILLWRAITH carrying his measure in the present Parliament, or in that which must shortly replace it.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE Common Council of the City of London has adopted addresses to Sir Garnet Wolseley and Admiral Seymour, congratulating them on the success of the British expedition to Egypt. Many of the British troops in Egypt have been afforded the opportunity of witnessing what to them must have been a somewhat novel spectacle, the departure of a caravan of pilgrims to the holy city of Mecca. The British troops were paraded, and Sir Garnet Wolseley and the Duke of Connaught were present. Arabi has been handed over by the British to the Egyptian military tribunals, and he has already undergone a preliminary investigation by the Commission of Inquiry. Our cablegrams of this morning also announce a rising of Arabs in the south of Tunis, their object being to shake off French control. The Egyptian garrisons at Tantah and Damanhour have submitted to the inevitable, and the commanders having assured the British of their ability to maintain quietude, the British troops have been withdrawn.

THE unofficial report of the jurors at the Bordeaux Exhibition on the quality of the Victorian wines is said to be of a highly satisfactory character. Sir Stafford Northcote has been presented with the freedom of the city of Glasgow. With regard to Mr. Dillon's proposed retirement from Parliament, that gentleman has announced to his friends that he will reconsider the question.

THE business of the Legislative Assembly yesterday was quickly disposed of. After the formal matters had been dealt with, Mr. Farnell moved the second reading of a bill to incorporate the Institute of Surveyors. Mr. Speaker, however, ruled the bill out of order, not having been properly introduced. The remaining matters on the paper were postponed.

IN the Legislative Assembly, yesterday, Mr. Cameron asked the Colonial Secretary whether it was the intention of the Government to introduce a bill during the present session to amend the Licensing Act. Sir Henry Parkes answered: "Yes."

WE are happy to state that the Hon. James Watson, who has been indisposed during the past few days, is now better, and will probably be able to attend to his duties as Colonial Treasurer on Monday next.

THE mail per R.M.S. Verona was delivered from the General Post Office yesterday afternoon, at 2 o'clock. We have received our London correspondent's letter on English and Foreign Affairs, and this will be found in another column.

HITHERTO when the P. and O. Company's steamers have reached Melbourne too late for the mails to be despatched by the 6.10 a.m. train to Wodonga, they have had to remain over until the following day's mail, but with the mails per Verona a new era has begun. It was 8.15 a.m. when the steamer anchored in the bay at Melbourne on Thursday, and the mails left by train at 2.55 p.m., and came on from Albury by a special train which reached Redfern at 1.7 p.m. yesterday, and letters were ready for delivery at the General Post Office by 2.30 p.m. It will thus be seen that within 24 hours the mails were conveyed from Melbourne to Sydney (574 miles), and were ready for delivery here. This shows well for the appliances at the disposal of our Railway Department, and the Postmaster-General is evidently not going to permit our mails to remain long at any point on the way from Melbourne to Sydney.

FROM reliable information we have received, it would appear that the Government is losing no time in providing for the removal of explosives from Spectacle and Goat Islands to a locality not so dangerous to the public safety. It must not, however, be supposed that all this can be done in a moment. Before, for instance, the barque Pride of England can be used for storing gunpowder she must be refitted; nor can the Behring be sent to Middle Harbour without previous provision being made for housing the men appointed to take charge of her. We understand that, as it would take considerable time to erect cottages at Middle Harbour at a site near the powder hulks, the Colonial Treasurer has purchased the schooner Alacrity, one of the gunboats built by the late Mr. Cuthbert for the Imperial authorities some years ago. This vessel possesses ample accommodation for the staff required for the safe keeping of the explosives, and she is now in Mort's Dock for some necessary fittings, and will be despatched to Middle Harbour probably about the middle of next week. Tenders were yesterday accepted for the fitting up of the Pride of England within four weeks from this date, and at the expiration of that time she will be removed to Middle Harbour, and the bulk of the gunpowder at present in the Goat Island and Spectacle Island magazines will be transferred there, with every possible precaution. It is probable that the Behring will be placed in her new position about the middle of next week. We are also informed that instructions have been given for the prosecution of the works at the new magazines at Newington Flats without delay.

WE are requested to give an authoritative contradiction to a statement contained in a letter signed "Isaac Ellis Ives," published in our issue of Thursday last, in which the ship Pride of England, lately purchased by the Government for use as a powder hulk, is described as "a rotten old tub, which requires a windmill sail to keep her afloat behind Ball's Head." We are informed that when this vessel was tendered to the Government she was then in Mort's Dry Dock, undergoing extensive repairs, including remetalling, under the supervision of Captains Pockley and Banks, in addition to Captain Eldred, surveyor for "Veritas," with a view of her being classed for ocean service. The tenderer invited the Government to have her examined in dock, and she was so examined by the Shipwright Surveyor of the Marine Board, who reported her to be a vessel "in good condition, and would last for years as a hulk."

WE are informed that the Government have accepted the tender of Messrs. Topham, Angus, and Co. for the construction of so much of the Goulburn and Cooma railway as will extend from Goulburn to Bungendore. There were nine tenderers altogether. The distance will be 39 miles 32 chains and 4 links, and the price agreed upon is £232,508.

WE are requested to mention that candidates at the examination recently held for the admission of cadets into the Surveyor-General's office, will assemble at noon, on Monday, in the Deputy Surveyor-General's room, at the Department of Lands, when the order of merit of the several candidates will be made known.

THE members of the Land Law Reform Conference resumed their sittings yesterday, and carried on an animated discussion extending over the greater part of the day. The questions dealt with were abolition of interest, reduction of deposit on taking up conditional purchases, and term of residence, definite resolutions being submitted upon each and carried. Particulars of the meeting will be found elsewhere. The conference will meet at 9 o'clock this morning.

HIS HONOR the Primary Judge (Sir William Manning) had a busy sitting yesterday morning. The common law business in Chambers occupied a considerable time. Among the matters disposed of was one in re Quinn, arising out of the Licensing Act, the summonses being dismissed without costs. His Honor then proceeded to deal with a motion to continue an interim injunction restraining Mr. Poole, M.L.A., and several other persons forming a syndicate, from dealing with a certain piece of land at Middle Harbour, which formed about one half of the subdivision to be sold to-day by Messrs. G. Withers and Co., as the Wolverton Estate. Mr. Alfred Godfrey, solicitor, claimed the land in question under a bailiff's sale which took place in 1865. His Honor heard the case so far as laches were concerned, and after evidence had been given by two witnesses, determined to go no farther, as he considered Mr. Godfrey, who had only come forward within the last week, should have taken steps earlier, seeing that the property had been announced for sale for four or five months. His Honor said he did not consider the case was such as to require him to sit till midnight in order to decide all the points it involved.

THE next social evening of the Sydney Leidertafel, which is to take place on the 12th instant, promises to be a very agreeable reunion, although it will be only a smoking concert. Mr. Ashcroft Edwards has been drilling his forces with great assiduity, and the performance will no doubt be as nearly perfect as possible. So far as the accommodation will permit, non-members of the society will be able to obtain admission, but only a few of the extra tickets provided for this purpose remain on hand.

THE inquest on the Garden Palace fire was yesterday concluded. Evidence was taken to show that the gold specimens, which it was thought might have been stolen, had been recovered. The City Coroner, Mr. H. Shiell, J.P., in summing up said that there were three questions to be considered—the first, whether the fire had originated spontaneously; the second, whether it had arisen from accident; the third, whether it had been the act of an incendiary. There was the alternative, if not one of these could be agreed upon, to return an open verdict; but he hoped this would not be done, as it was necessarily unsatisfactory, unless the jury felt it impossible to agree as to one of the three he had submitted. After deliberating for about half an hour the jury returned an open verdict that the Palace had been destroyed by fire, but that there was not sufficient evidence to say whether accidentally or otherwise. They added the following rider:—"We consider that the authorities are deserving of censure in not having provided more efficient supervision over such a valuable property.

YESTERDAY morning we published certain correspondence which had passed between the Employers' Association and the Eight-hours Conference of the Iron Trades, in reference to the existing strike in the iron trades. It seems that one of the most important parts of the agreement submitted by the latter body was inadvertently omitted from the manuscripts. It will be seen that it attempts to import into the controversy matter wholly foreign to it. The omitted clause runs as follows:—"5. The said Employers' Association and all firms comprised in it shall not, before employing a workman in one or the other of the abovementioned branches of the iron trades, require a letter or written document from his last employer in the nature of a discharge. This clause, however, is not to fetter employers in giving or withholding testimonials as to personal character or ability of any workman."

THE address of condolence passed by a large meeting of Sydney citizens on the occasion of the death of the patriot Garibaldi, has reached Menotti Garibaldi, who has sent through Dr. Marano, the consul, his warm acknowledgments, on behalf of himself and his family, of the generous tribute paid by the Italian colonists and the Sydney public to the worth of the lamented Liberator. Dr. Marano has also received a communication from the Italian Government expressing their high sense of the demonstration of sympathy with a bereaved nation which took place at the Garden Palace a few months back.

AN interesting event took place at the Council-chambers, Parramatta, last night, viz., the presentation to Miss Taylor (daughter of Dr. Chas. Taylor) of a silver medal awarded to her by the National Shipwreck Relief Society, in recognition of her heroic conduct in rescuing a little girl from drowning. It appears that Miss Taylor, in company with her little sister and another little girl named Tuckwell (about 10 years of age), was out for a row in a light skiff, when Miss Tuckwell accidentally fell over the side of the boat. Miss Taylor instantly sprang in after her, and at great personal risk managed to get the child safe on shore. The presentation was made by the Mayor, Mr. Joseph Booth, who in an appropriate speech explained the details of the rescue, and congratulated Miss Taylor upon her bravery. He also mentioned the goodness of the cause of the society, and their kindness in sending their secretary to Parramatta to investigate the affair. He concluded by pinning the medal to Miss Taylor's breast. Dr. Taylor suitably acknowledged the present on behalf of his daughter. A vote of thanks to the Mayor, three cheers for Miss Taylor, and three for the Queen, brought the proceedings to a close.

THE Metropolitan Quarter Sessions were concluded yesterday. Mr. District Court Judge Dowling presided, and Mr. Backhouse and Mr. F. L. S. Smyth prosecuted for the Crown. Charles Sweeney was found not guilty of unlawfully wounding, and Jane Cuddiford not guilty of larceny. The other cases on the list were postponed till next sessions. The Court then arose.

THE hearing of what may be termed a remarkable assault case, which has been before Mr. Buchanan, S.M., at various times during the past six or seven weeks, was concluded at the Water Police Court yesterday. It appears that there is about 25 acres of land at North Willoughby, as to the ownership of which there is a dispute between Mr. Richard Harnett, sen., and Mr. Thomas Broughton. Each gentleman has in his possession documents which he relies upon as establishing his right to the possession of the land. On the 27th July, Henry Hinsley and party, acting under the authority of Mr. Harnett, were in possession of the land, having been sent there, it was alleged, for the purpose of clearing a portion of it. A man named Barrayne, who was in the employment of Mr. Broughton, and was accompanied by Henry Waterhouse and some others, paid a visit to the land for the purpose of treating those who were in possession as trespassers. A conversation took place between the two parties, and a disposition to fight was, it was alleged, evinced. Barrayne's party, after giving some intimation of an intention to come again next day retired. They redeemed their promise, and, it was alleged, when they arrived, and before the two sides had met, there was, on the part of representatives of both the disputants over the property, a simultaneous "peeling off," followed by a fight, in which a number of persons took part. During the melee, Mr. Harnett, sen., it was stated by several witnesses, went to his buggy and loaded a double-barrelled gun and then rushed in amongst the crowd with it. It is alleged that several of the contestants on both sides were picked pugilists. Henry Hinsley afterwards lodged an information against Henry Waterhouse, John Brown, jun., Thomas Barrett, and George Schwartz, for assault, and the hearing of this resulted in all the defendants being committed for trial. There are a number of other informations arising out of the same occurrence.

A BAZAAR in aid of the School of Industry was opened yesterday afternoon in the Darlinghurst Hall, Darlinghurst-road. The ladies under whose guidance the arrangements for the bazaar were carried out had placed the various stalls and their contents in attractive order, and when the bazaar was opened it presented a very nice appearance. The articles for sale at the stalls were either the work or the contributions of the ladies associated with the undertaking, and the names of the fair stall-holders were: Lady Stephen, the Misses Stephen, and Mrs. Fitzsimons; Mrs. Allwood and Miss Allwood; Lady Doss Thomson, Miss Doss Thomson, Mrs. W. R. Campbell, and Mrs. W. Macleay; Miss S. Lawson and Miss Watt; Lady Martin, Miss Martin, and Miss Langley; Lady Hay, Miss Hay, Miss Daniels, and Miss Stephens; Mrs. Eldred, Miss Maclean, and Miss Cox; Mrs. Garstin, Miss Lawson, and Miss Macarthur; and Mrs. Eustace Smith. The German Band was in attendance during the afternoon. The bazaar will be open again this afternoon and this evening.

A MEETING of the New South Wales branch of the British Medical Association was held last night at the rooms of the Royal Society. The business should have included an address by Dr. S. T. Knaggs, of Newcastle, upon tests of sight, and a discussion upon the Contagious Diseases Bill now before Parliament, but the consideration of a difficulty which had arisen between the society and the publisher of the Australasian Medical Gazette occupied the attention of the meeting during the whole of the evening, and the more important business had to be postponed for a fortnight.

THE need of a parish church for North Willoughby has been felt for some time, and at the last monthly meeting of the churchwardens and general committee, it was resolved to call a public meeting of the parishioners to consider the advisability of erecting a larger church. In accordance with this, a public meeting was held on the 26th ultimo, at which the resolution of the churchwardens and general committee was endorsed, and the following gentlemen were appointed a building committee, with power to add to their number, viz.:—The churchwardens (Messrs. Scott, Stack, and Seldon), the Hon. A. Stuart, Mr. G. R. Whiting, Captain Macdonald, Messrs. A. Dodds, John Clarke, John Campbell, Frank Treatt, Alexis G. Mackenzie, Newell, Alford, and the Revs. S. H. Childe and D. Murphy. A resolution was also passed, cordially inviting the ladies of the whole parish to assist the building committee in raising the necessary funds. Subsequently a meeting of the building committee was held on the 4th instant, when Mr. G. R. Whiting was appointed treasurer to the building fund, and Mr. Alexis G. Mackenzie, hon. secretary. The plans for the new building, which have been prepared by Messrs. Blacket and Son, of Pitt-street, were submitted to the meeting and met with general approval and adoption, excepting as one or two minor matters of detail. The building, which is of very graceful design, is intended, when finished, to accommodate 650 persons; but it is only contemplated to erect at present so much thereof as will seat about 300. Mr. Whiting and other gentlemen of the committee have promised very liberal subscriptions towards the building fund, and it is hoped that the foundation-stone will be laid some time early in December.

TWO very pretty sketches of the ruins of the Garden Palace have been made by Mr. Montefiore and lithographed by John Sands. The views are taken from the Gardens, and are morning and evening scenes.

THE Rev. J. H. Mitchell, pastor of the Congregational Church, North Shore, acting under the imperative instructions of his medical advisers, has been compelled to resign his office. During Mr. Mitchell's residence at St. Leonards he materially improved the position of his church, and secured a large circle of friends, who deeply regret the cause of his departure from the district.

THE adjourned magisterial enquiry into the cause of the death of Mrs. Bridget Wright, at the late fire in George-street, was yesterday resumed by Mr. W. T. Pinhey, J.P. The evidence of Mr. Thomas Wright placed the want of unity and understanding between the various fire brigades in anything but a satisfactory light. The tenor of the testimony given by other witnesses showed the fire to be, almost beyond a doubt, the result of arson. The enquiry was further adjourned till this morning at half-past 10 o'clock.

THE Bega Gazette of October 4 says:—"Bush fires are still raging all along the coast range on the Bega side. On Sunday evening 21 distinct fires were counted from Chapel hill, besides many patches of smoke which indicated fire out of our vision, notably behind Mount Mumbulla on the coast side. No tidings of serious disaster have yet reached us, but considerable damage must have been done to fencing, as fires have been burning nearly a fortnight, and seem as vigorous as ever. All day the range is partially concealed by smoke, and at night the red glare of the fire presents a scene worthy the pencil of one of the old Flemish masters. Altogether the season seems out of joint, and some innocent people think the comet has a hand in it. Whatever the cause, it is not difficult to imagine that unless a speedy change sets in we shall have to look to the safety of our herds in the matter of feed. Besides the fires we have experienced several severe gales of wind, which have done considerable damage to some of the buildings in and around Bega."

THE band of H.M.S. Nelson will perform the following selection of music in the Botanic Gardens on Monday, between 3 and 5 p.m.:—Overture, "Tancredi," Rossini; waltz, "Unter den Linden," Gung'l; selection, "Attila," Verdi; Hungarian Dance, "Danse de Czechs," Kotsum; selection, "Patience," Sullivan; aria, "D'Iphigenie en Aulide," Glück; Lancers, "Olivette," D'Albert; "The Queen."

A MASS meeting of the iron trades is convened for Monday night, at the Protestant Hall. All branches of the trade are to be represented, whether connected with the strike or not.

Both then ran away, but one was arrested within a short distance of Avenal. A bunch of skeleton keys, £2 in notes, 15s. in three-penny pieces, were found in his possession. The other man bolted away, and was last heard of at Mangalore, near Seymour.

captain of the Erato declined the offer, and lifted anchor, and the gale having moderated somewhat, he succeeded, after much difficulty, in reaching port.

The Commissioner of Railways, being desirous of inviting tenders for the manufacture of ten sets, or a supply for one train of both the Westinghouse and Woods' brakes, to be made in the colony, has applied to the Melbourne agent of the Westinghouse Company to supply specifications of information to intending purchasers. The agent replied that if a larger order were given the company would probably arrange for the manufacture of brakes in the colony, but undoubtedly would refuse to allow their apparatus to be made by another firm.

Messrs. De Castella and Rowan, of the St. Hubert Vineyard, received a letter by last mail containing interesting information respecting Australian wines. It states that a London company is in a position to do a very large trade in Australian wines, and provided that proper support is given in the colonies, a very lucrative business must come. Nothing should be sent but good sound wines, the prices for which would compete in a great measure with other countries. The writer wishes to remove the impression that cheap wines alone would find a market. He is aware that young wines can be shipped at a low price, and if these qualities can stand the voyage, it would be a great point; but it must not be thought that fine matured wines cannot be sold. On the contrary, the company whom the writer represents paid as much as 12s. per gallon for fine wine, and wanted more, and there is no reason why Australian wines should not be as great a success as any other staple article from Australia. He says that the reason why Australian wines have not made greater headway in England is because it has been the practice in London to blend them with the natural wine of France and Spain, while it was the intention of his company to send out pure Australian wine. They had bought 130 dozen of St. Hubert's wine, and if they could ship a similar quality in hogsheads he would be glad to open up a trade. The letter also mentions that orders have been sent for Dalwood wines, in the Hunter district of New South Wales, and Auldana wines from South Australia.

The weather is fine.

AGITATION FOR SEPARATION AT PORT DARWIN.

[By Telegraph.]

(From our own Correspondent.)

There is a generally expressed public opinion that, unless independent representation is granted to the Territory, vigorous agitation will be commenced to petition the Imperial Government for separation on the ground of general misgovernment, unfair taxation, and no representation, all of which allegations will be supported by a full statement of the South Australian management of the Territory since its annexation.

MINING INTELLIGENCE.

[By Telegraph.]

(From our own Correspondents.)

BLAYNEY, Friday.

The gold escort left the Commercial Bank to-day with parcels of gold as follows:—Forest Reefs, 28oz. 17dwt. 22gr.; Cornish Point, 26oz. 17dwt. 9gr.; Brown's Creek, 286oz. 17dwt. 13gr.: making a total of 352oz. 12dwt. 20gr.

WILCANNIA, Friday.

The dry blowing machine recently sent from Sydney to the diggings is reported to be a failure. It may be suitable for loose, sandy ground, but the largest portion of washdirt at Mount Browne is either cement or of a clay nature. It is likewise reported that not so much gold was got from the same quantity of dirt suitable for the machine as by the old process of mouth-blowing.

TEMORA, Friday.

The South Australian Company crushed 148 tons, yielding 65oz. 17dwt.

CARCOAR, Friday.

The monthly escort took to-day 1157oz. 17dwt. 23gr. of gold, including 456oz. from the Mount M'Donald field. Murray and party, No. 1 North Prince of Wales, situated at the Burnt Yards, finished crushing yesterday 50 tons, realising 143oz. 13dwt. of retorted gold. They are still putting quartz at grass. The present depth of the shaft is 80 feet. They are now engaged driving along the north end of the shaft. The neighbouring claimholders are now cutting a water-race to supply water for the battery. The Queen of the Mount have come upon a fresh lot of payable stone, the present reef being at the deepest shaft on Mount M'Donald—143 feet. Clarke and party's reef is now 16 feet wide, showing payable gold.

The following is a return of copper received at Darling Harbour station for week ended 30th September:—From Vale of Clwydd, 16 tons 12cwt.; Hay, 6 tons 0cwt. 3qr.; Cerrathool, 24 tons 17cwt. 1qr. 13lb.; Dubbo, 44 tons 1cwt. Total, 91 tons 1lcwt. 0qr. 13lb.

The mining manager of the Jackson's Reef Gold-mining Company, Barmedman, reports under date 30th instant:—"I have to report for the week the further extension of the eastern drive 10 feet. The reef in the end is very small—only two inches wide—and of very poor quality. I can see a few fine colours of gold, but not enough to pay expenses. My opinion is that the whole of the payable reef has been taken out above the water level. The sawyer promised to send me in some timber on Wednesday next for the new shaft, but I do not expect to get enough to finish timbering to the present depth for another fortnight."

The manager of the Canangera Copper Company, under date October 2, reports as follows:—"Main shaft is now 179 feet deep, and timbered the whole distance. During the past two weeks we have had a very tight and tough bar of country, which has greatly retarded the progress of sinking, but the present bottom of the shaft indicates a change again for the better. The country we are going through carries the same favourable indications as before, being serpentine formation, with occasional veins of calcite and asbestos, impregnated with sulphurets of copper, galena, &c., and the whole country is heavily charged with iron and arsenical pyrites, which tend to show that we are in the vicinity of heavy mineral deposits. The horses and surface plant are working satisfactorily."

MINING AFFAIRS AT LAMBTON.

[By Telegraph.]

(From our own Correspondent.)

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

The quarterly miners' delegate meeting was held last night at Lambton. The returns in reference to the Glebe dispute were taken, as follows:—In favour of a strike, 709; against the strike, 592; informal, 22; majority of the strike, 117. The chairman declared the result of the ballot against a strike in accordance with rule 27, which requires that there should be at least a majority of two-thirds in favour before a strike can take place. In response to a letter from the Glebe miners' secretary, it was resolved,—"That a committee from this board consisting of four members be appointed to make the fullest investigation regarding the alleged deficient work at the Glebe, and after investigating the same to report to the district." Returns were next taken on a notice of motion from the Borehole Lodge, regarding asking for an advance on the present hewing rate, as follows:—In favour, 32; against 43. The motion was therefore declared lost. It was then resolved,—"That in the absence of a representative meeting this board instruct the general secretary to intimate to the masters that the district has affirmed that the proposed board of consultation consist of not less than four representatives from each side." Other business of minor importance was transacted, and the meeting closed.

JUVENILE FANCY FAIR AT REDMYRE.

It has been said that the lesson of charity should be taught a child from the day it first learns to syllable the word. As there is no greater quality than charity, so there is no more beautiful sight than the act of self-sacrifice, of sympathy or pity to which we see a child moved by the sight of suffering. To those grown older in the world suffering becomes a commonplace, but to the young heart—bright, fresh, and hopeful, seeing life through a fairy glass—suffering is almost an anomaly. Those who have read Tennyson's pathetic poem, "A Sketch in the Children's Hospital," will remember what a picture it brought to their minds of tiny faces, worn and weary, with restless days and nights, with long-continued pain, and saddened by the thoughts of fields and gardens, left with the games and pleasures of the past. It is pleasant to hear of, and more pleasant still to witness, an act of charity by children who are full of life and vigour, abounding in happiness, and lacking all troublous care, to aid their fellow-children who lie in the quiet, dimly-lit wards of the hospital. Such a pleasant act was begun on Thursday at Redmyre by the young people, who held a fancy fair in a pavilion near Mr. Molineaux's residence, Glenwood. The little people had for weeks been busy with their work, and they laid out on the stalls a most bounteous store of needle-work and nic-nacs, of things big and little, things useful, and others meant entirely to please the eye. The pavilion was decked with flags, and with crimson and blue lights, and ferns; and with the laden stalls and the pretty eager damsels waiting "to open business," it made a sight at which the florins and the shillings almost jumped out of the "big people's" pockets in pure excitement. Mr. Pigott, M.L.A., opened the fair. He said that the young people wanted to provide for a cot in the Children's Hospital, Glebe, that it would cost them £50 to do so, and they hoped all the "big folk" would help them. Then the stall-keepers, who represented all sorts of important foreigners, formed into a procession and walked through the pavilion, exciting great admiration. And then they settled down to "trade." There were stalls with dollies, and pincushions, and tops, and marbles, and all kinds of more important articles, a flower stall, and a refreshment stall with an unlimited flow of ginger-pop and lemonade. There was an excellent company from all corners of the globe—Swiss peasants, Neapolitan fisherwomen, Prince Coxcomb, and Red Riding Hood to do business with. Arabi Bey served out tarts to little customers at the refreshment stall, and Ned Kelly managed the art gallery, saying, "Walk up, ladies and gentlemen," in the most polite and proper manner. The astrologer, a gentleman of very mysterious ways, and having a white board of very "grave mien," managed the electric battery, and assuring a friend that "It don't hurt a bit, Bob," gave him a shock that nearly made Mr. Robert sit down incontinently. The scene was full of fun, and a fine trade was done. The pavilion was crowded during the evening, and as the fair will remain open this afternoon and evening, we hope the same hearty patronage will be given the young people on each occasion, and that empty stalls and full purses will reward their kindheartedness.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.

VICTORIA AMATEUR TURF CLUB MEETING.

[By Telegraph.]

(From our Special Reporter.)

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Great interest is centered in the Caulfield Guineas, which is to be run to-morrow, and Guesswork, having given satisfaction in his final galop, has hardened in the market to such an extent that 2 to 1 is now the best offer. He is thoroughly fit, and unless he shows temper will cut out the mile very fast. Hecla is not so firm, and 6 to 1 is offered; while Mistaken is so much fancied by his party that he is now nearly as good second favourite at 4 to 1 as Fryingpan, who has done some excellent trials alone, but does not like company, and may cut up rough in a crowd. Transferred has friends at 7 to 1, and he may afford a surprise, but the friends of Boolka are suggestively silent. The Great Foal Stakes is very open, but if Bis Bis runs kindly she should take a deal of beating, and the race may afford a valuable line to the Maribyrnong Plate. It is thought that Stockdale will not start for the Toorak Handicap, and Larpent and Hebrew appear to be most fancied. There is very little doing on the V. R. C. events, and save that Nerina is hardening for the Maribyrnong Plate, prices have scarcely changed.

THE PUNCH TROPHY.

The final heat in connection with this trophy will be rowed this afternoon over the champion course on the Parramatta River. The steamers will leave the jetties at Circular Quay at 3.30 p.m., and the race is announced to start at 4.30 p.m. Members of the press are not likely to be inconvenienced so far as space is concerned, as the committee have resolved to prohibit any persons other than those with a press ticket to enter the press enclosure on steamers. This decision will be carried into effect irrespective of persons.

CRICKET.

The first important match of the season will take place this afternoon on the Association Cricket Ground, when the first eleven of the University will oppose the first eleven of the Albert C. C. for the possession of the Holdsworth Cup. The turf is in splendid condition for run-getting, and as the contending teams embrace some of the leading players, a good display of cricket may be anticipated. The match pending between the Orientals and Clios will be resumed on the Cup Ground, Moore Park, this afternoon. The game is in a very interesting condition, and whichever side wins, the result is bound to be close. If the match is finished early the Victoria and Croydon clubs will commence their match for the cup. To-day the Carlton first eleven journey to Liverpool to test the mettle of the local players.

A match was played on Saturday last, at Liverpool, between the Australian C. C. and the Liverpool C. C., resulting in a win for the Australian C. C. by four runs, after a very interesting contest. For the winners the batting of Dobson, 24 not out, and Manly, 11, was excellent; and the bowling of J. Smedley is worthy of mention. For the losers, H. Wheeler, 23 not out, and Bonnall, 18, played well; and Jones did great service with the ball, clean bowling nine wickets, the other being a run out. Total scores: A. C. C., 65; L. C. C., 61.

THE AUSTRALIAN ELEVEN.

Now that the Australian Eleven have completed their successful tour through the old country it may be interesting to discuss their deeds and estimate the actual result of their pilgrimage. The visit of the first Australian Eleven—the pioneers who cut the track—did much to show the people of England that Australia was not wanting in that taste for cricket which everywhere characterises the Britisher, and that as intelligent and as capable cricketers were born under the Southern Cross as were brought to light in the mother country—in fact that the civilising influences of cricket had been extended to the antipodes. Though the first eleven really once met and defeated England when they made the Marylebone Cricket Club's representatives bite the dust, it was alleged on their return to the colonies that the team had gone on a fruitless errand, since they had not been opposed to a representative English Eleven. The second Australian team, it will be remembered, met England's strength at the Kennington Oval, and only succumbed after a gallant uphill struggle, but had Spofforth, the best bowler in the colonial ranks been able to play, the result might have been reversed. From the result of the matches played by the second team in England, and the success achieved against Shaw's professionals by the combined strength of the colonies, it became apparent that the best Australian Eleven would prove more than a match for the counties, and be in no way inferior to a representative English team. The vexed question as to whether England or Australia is entitled to the supremacy of the cricket field, it was resolved to determine, and with that object in view the present Australian Eleven were banded together. The English press or rather that portion of it which is devoted to cricket—in discussing the prospects of the Australians, gave it as their opinion that they would prove too strong for the majority of the counties, but they would be unable to cope successfully with a representative eleven of England, or lower the colours of the Gentlemen of England, the Players or the Universities. Now to what extent have the anticipations of the home critics been correct, and how far have our own expectations been realised? The opinion in the colonies is that Murdoch and his comrades have borne away from England the palm for superiority in the cricket-field, and some of the newspapers of London support that view. There are, however, many who point significantly to the four defeats sustained by the colonists, and assert in consequence that if Australia has defeated England the latter has repeated the operation on her victors. No reasonable being could expect—even a team possessing the combined strength of England and Australia—to play a series of 37 matches and come out of the ordeal without suffering a defeat. Cricketers require some period during which to recuperate, for they cannot go on for ever, after the fashion of Tennyson's brook. Moreover, the "glorious uncertainty" attending the game, renders an unbroken record of victories in a long series of matches between capable players little short of an impossibility. The winning of the toss, or a night's rain, is quite sufficient to turn the scale in favour of the weaker side. The extraordinary fluctuations in a game of cricket preclude the possibility of the question of absolute supremacy between England and Australia being decided. For instance during the last English cricket season Oxford defeated Cambridge somewhat easily, and Australia had no difficulty in overthrowing Oxford, yet Cambridge was the first eleven that lowered the Australian flag in England. Then again the Professionals of England and the Gentlemen ran each other very close, and are considered very evenly matched as to strength. Australia beat the Gentlemen with an innings to spare, while they sustained a one-innings defeat at the hands of the Players. Such "in and out" results prevent an accurate gauge being arrived at, as to the merits of contending teams. We have, however, every reason to be proud of our representatives, and when it is considered that they have lost only four matches out of 38, despite the fact that they were frequently stale and weary from overwork and long railway journeys by night, their performances must be regarded as being quite phenomenal. But for their superb stamina, and unvarying steadiness, they could not have come up smiling so often under the difficulties they encountered. Out of the 23 matches which resulted in their favour, 10 of them were won with an innings to spare. The result of the matches against the county elevens bears out the opinion of both English and colonial critics. The colonists proved themselves so much superior to the counties, that not even with luck behind them were the latter in any single instance able to overthrow the conquering visitors. Nottingham enjoyed the distinction of having in turn beaten the first and second Australian teams, but Murdoch and his companions amply avenged those disasters, and the Lancashire eleven, who went through the previous season's engagements without a single check had likewise to hand in their submission. The powerful county of Yorkshire essayed on five different occasions, the task of defeating the Australians without avail. Gloucestershire, the home of the Graces, offered but feeble opposition. Kent and Middlesex were well beaten, and the other counties were hopelessly over-matched from the start. The Australians proved themselves far in advance of county cricket, as they also demonstrated their superiority over the majority of combined "United" Elevens, which were selected from those counties. The United North of England Eleven, the United South, the All England Eleven, the Gentlemen of England, the Players of England, and Shaw's Eleven are combinations of county representatives. With the varying fortune of cricket the best eleven the world can produce might be beaten by any one of the "United" Eleven, but if the "World" team were returned as victors in the majority of matches, they would be awarded the supreme position; that is the position of the present Australian Eleven. Although there was but one match bearing a representative title, viz., England v. Australia, which was won in the most decisive manner by the Australians, yet there were no less than eight occasions upon which United England teams were pitted against them. In addition to the above the following strong combination of English Elevens were brought into the field:—The Gentlemen of England, the Players of England, Cambridge Past and Present, Marylebone Club and Ground (which is really England), the Orleans Club, and the I Zingari. To sum up there were 14 powerfully organised elevens banded together for the fell purpose of lowering the colours of the colonials, but only on three occasions out of the 14 was that desirable object brought about, viz., by the Players of England, Cambridge Past and Present, and the United North of England Eleven. The Australian Eleven placed to their credit the matches against the Gentlemen of England, United South of England Eleven, United North of England, Shaw's team, and the All England Eleven: in other words Australia won five out of the eight matches which were played out against All England teams.

Perhaps the most charitable view to take of the debatable question would be that cricket has made such wonderful strides at the antipodes that it has been brought to the high standard of English excellence, and that if each country sent its very strongest eleven into the field to play a match, or series of matches under exactly the same conditions as to weather, wickets, and "luck" if that were possible the honours would be pretty equally divided at the finish in fact the result would in racing parlance be a "dead heat." The excellent cricket of the Australians, and their wonderful success, have elicited favourable comment from the best judges of the game in the old country, and set the cricket world there thinking of the causes of such marvellous progress. It is admitted on all hands that in bowling and fielding the colonials far excel their English fellow-cricketers, while in batting they are held to be little inferior. The long Australian summer is thought to be the chief cause of the high standard the game has reached in the colonies; but while recognising that our climate is more favourable for cricket than that of England, it must not be forgotten that we have not the millions to select from, nor that leisured class who play cricket for several hours a day during five months in the year. Moreover, at the English public schools and colleges the most skilled of the English professional cricketers act as tutors to teach the young idea how to play. Our youth have a natural aptitude for cricket and take to it like a duck takes to water. An impartial Englishman visiting the Association Cricket Ground at Moore Park on a practice afternoon, or seeing the difficulties under which the game is played in our parks by rising cricketers, would almost come to the conclusion that cricket is born in the Australians. The advantages are with us as regards climate, but entirely with England in the facilities for practice, tuition, &c., and in having a large section of their community who play oftener and in more matches during the four or five months of the English cricket season than do the Australians in their season from October to the end of March. In England there are hundreds of men who follow cricket as a profession, and so attractive and remunerative is the calling that numberless youths are being brought up with the idea of becoming professional cricketers. If the matter be carefully looked into, the advantages will be found with England. Our superiority as cricketers is therefore more remarkable.

Of their individual performances it would be somewhat premature to speak, as the full details of all the matches of the tour are not yet to hand; but a few words may be said regarding the Eleven personally. Apart from their character as cricketers they have, socially and in every other way, worthily represented Australia, having conducted themselves in a quiet and gentlemanly manner throughout. That they have made many friends in England is attested by the many kindnesses they have received, and in the enthusiastic and cordial nature of the demonstration made in their behalf when they left the shores of England the other day for Australia. Murdoch and his men have been a splendid advertising medium for the colonies—it is questionable indeed whether the visits of the Australian cricketers have not been the best of all agencies of that kind. If they have made money by their venture, every one will say they are entitled to it, so long as they have not subordinated cricket to gate-money considerations, and maintained the cricketing prestige of the colonies. Recently in England there was great outcry at the Australians making money out of their tours thither, but the Times, of London, came to the rescue of the colonists, expressing an opinion that, under the circumstances, there was nothing derogatory in so doing. The team have eclipsed the exploits of all former Australian Elevens, and as they deserve well of their country, they may be sure of a warm reception on their return home.

The arrangements for the third annual regatta of the New South Wales Rowing Association are now complete. Two steamers, chartered by the association, will leave the Circular Quay at 2 p.m. The first event will start at 3 p.m., for which four crews have entered. Mr. P. J. Clarke will act as umpire; Messrs. A. P. Bros and L. J. G. Bennett as judges and starters. In the North Shore Club crew T. Trebeck has taken the place of H. Fitzpatrick. A steam launch, chartered by the association, will convey members only to the Punch race, this day.

We desire again to draw the attention of riflemen to the necessity of making nominations for the Company Challenge Bugle and Engineers' Trophy on or before Monday next, and for the Regimental and Schools Challenge Bugles on Wednesday.

Our Melbourne correspondent telegraphs that the following scratchings were posted yesterday:—Caulfield Cup: Footstep, Prometheus, First Water, Bassanio, Borderman, Morpeth, John Peel. WEST MAITLAND HALF-HOLIDAY ASSOCIATION.

[By Telegraph.]

(From our own Correspondent.)

WEST MAITLAND, Friday.

To-day witnessed the inauguration of the Friday half-holiday here, when sports were held on the Albion Ground, under the auspices of the Half-holiday Association, to celebrate the event. The principal offices and stores were closed punctually at 1 o'clock, business being entirely suspended during the afternoon. The weather was beautifully fine, and fully 1500 people assembled to witness the sports, which were very successful. The Morpeth Town Band was present, and played excellent music. The proceedings altogether appeared to give entire satisfaction to everybody, and both employers and employed entered into the sports with great spirit. The result of the first half-holiday betokens a long and successful career for the new movement. Mr. J. J. Riley acted as judge; Mr. E. P. Capper and Mr. John Lee, referees; Mr. J. W. Pender, starter. The programme was a lengthy one, but by good management and punctuality the committee were able to get off all the events in good time. AMUSEMENTS.

"The Lights o' London" was played last evening in the Theatre Royal for the last time and before a large attendance, Mr. George Rignold taking a well-deserved benefit. To-night Messrs. Gilbert and Sullivan's opera, "Patience," will be produced in this theatre by the Royal Opera Company with a very strong cast of characters, and with scenery specially painted by Messrs. Gordon and Hennings.

"Lucia di Lammermoor" was given last evening at the Opera House by the Montague-Turner Company for the last time. There was a large house, and the principal singers acquitted themselves to the complete satisfaction of their audience. To-night Jules Benedict's opera, the "Lily of Killarney," will be produced, with new costumes and scenery specially painted. The cast will tax the full strength of the company, and as every endeavour has been put forth to make the performance a success, the opera should prove thoroughly enjoyable. The opera itself is a musical version of the drama of the "Colleen Bawn," holding to it the same position as "Traviata" to "La Dame aux Camelias." Miss Montague will be the Colleen Bawn—the Lily of Killarney—and Mr. Turner will take the character of Hardress Cregan. It is many years since the opera was sung in Sydney, and as it is full of attractive melody, and its tale and action is such as to enlist interest and sympathy, it should draw a very large attendance of auditors to the Opera House.

Messrs. Clark and Ryman's Minstrels concluded their season at the Gaiety Theatre last night, and this evening Miss Louise Pomeroy, supported by Mr. W. J. Holloway and a strong dramatic company, will occupy the theatre. Mr. Dion Boucicault's drama, "Led Astray," in which Miss Pomeroy will take the character of the Countess Armande, will be produced. As "good wine needs no bush," so is it unnecessary to more than mention the names of Miss Pomeroy and Mr. Holloway to assure playgoers of a season of drama well presented and well acted.

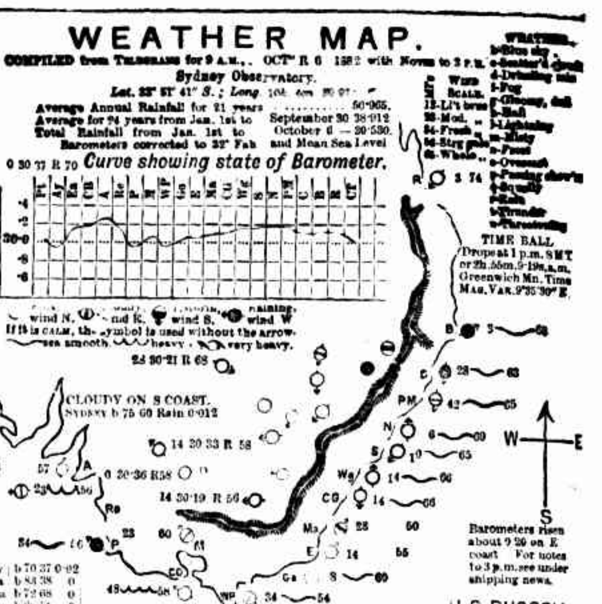

The Mastodon Minstrels last evening performed to a fairly large attendance. This evening there will be a change of programme.

Our Adelaide correspondent telegraphs:—The Lynch Bellringers arrived to-night, and open at the Town Hall on Monday. The "Crushed Tragedian" is being produced by Wybert Reeve to good houses, at the Royal.

The Jesuits of Quebec, Canada, are again agitating for the restoration to them of their property confiscated during the reign of Henry IV. The restoration is demanded as an act of justice, and the list of properties referred to contains some which are now of great value. The promoters of the agitation suggest that some outlying territory to the north be given as recompense.

There is nothing known better calculated to invigorate the constitution than Wolfe's Schnapps; it braces the nerves, tones the functions, and sets the machinery of the frame in healthy operation.—[Advt.]

COMMERCIAL.

WOOL, PRODUCE, AND STOCK REPORT.

Wool.—The catalogues this week included a few parcels of new fleece, but for the most part were composed of odd lots of fellmongered wools. Greasy lots brought to 10½d; scoured to 16½d; a good deal of the new clip is arriving, and there is a fair prospect of some of the large holders who have hitherto shipped their fleece to London offering in the local market, so that the forthcoming season's sales are likely to have additional interest.

Sheepskins.—There was a good demand for the catalogues of skins this week, and late prices were fully maintained. The range of value was firm; 2d. for pelts to 7½d. for best skins.

Leather.—The auction business this week was very dull. Only good lots of leather were readily salable at fair prices. For other descriptions the competition was very slack. The catalogues were cleared at the following ranges of value:—Kip, 12d. to 15d.; sole, 8d. to 10d.; damaged, from 6d.; calf, 19d. to 30d.; yearling, 17d. to 24d.; tweed, 12d. to 24d.; kangaroo, 16½d.; Hobart, 3s. 9d. to 4s. 3d.; harness, 10d. to 13½d.; bag, 6s. to 12s.; bridle, 7s. 6d. to 11s.; basils, 5s. to 12s. 6d.

Tallow.—318 packages were offered yesterday. The demand was active, especially for shipment, and 276 were sold. The market was slightly higher than at the sales of last week. Best mutton quoted at £36 to £36 10s.; beef, £35 to £35 15s.

Hides.—7148 were offered at yesterday's auctions. The competition was better than for some weeks past, and 6387 were sold at rather higher prices. Quotations—Extra heavy, 4d. to 4½d.; heavy, 3½d. to 3¾d.; medium, 3½d. to 3¾d.; light, 3¼d. to 3½d.; dry station, 3½d. to 4½d. Calfskins and yearlings were easier, the former quoted at 1s. to 4s., and the latter from 5s. to 8s. each; horse hides, 3s. to 7s.; kangaroo skins, 3s. to 24s. per dozen.

Horns and Bones.—The market was without change at last week's auction. Best large horns worth 30s. to 35s.; medium, from 20s., and inferior from 5s. per 100. Bones, from £3 to £5 per ton for common; and from £6 to £9 for shanks.

Hair.—There is a good demand for this produce. Horse tails commands from 14d. to 17d.; mane, from 10d. to 1s. Cow, from 4d. to 1s., according to cleanliness and quality.

Beeswax firm at 9½d. to 11d.

Store Cattle.—There is a good demand for fattening bullocks, more particularly for the southern country; but stock is scarce.

Store Sheep.—An active inquiry is noted for stock of this description; but the dryness of the country continues to restrict business.

Stations.—The drought operates against business. There is still inquiry for stations not too heavily stocked in this colony and Queensland. The sale of the Fanning Downs station in Queensland is reported, and the Berringarra station on the Murchison River, Western Australia, has also changed hands.

LONDON WOOL AND PRODUCE MARKETS.

Wool.—Messrs. Helmuth Schwartze and Co., under date 24th August, report:—"The third series of London sales of colonial wool commenced on the 22nd instant. The following are the totals available for sale in this series, and the quantities catalogued on the two first nights:—Port Phillip, available, 79,000 bales; catalogued, 4605 bales. Sydney, available, 106,000; catalogued, 6711. Adelaide, available, 20,500; catalogued, 51. Tasmania, available, 8000; catalogued, 723. Swan River, available, 1300. New Zealand, available, 95,200; catalogued, 2881. Cape, available, 52,000; catalogued, 2951. Total available, 362,000 bales; total catalogued, 17,922 bales. There is, if not a particularly large, yet a fair attendance of both home and foreign buyers, and the biddings are made with animation. Prices for the better classes of Australian wool rule on a par with the closing rates of last series, but in the case of inferior sorts, faulty scoured and low cross-bred, the tendency is in buyers' favour. Cape wools present the same feature; the best snow whites and fleeces maintain their former level, while heavy fleeces, low scoured and faulty sorts generally are rather easier of purchase. The arrivals in time for this series comprise 359,114 bales (316,000 bales Australian, and 69,491 bales Cape). Deducting 45,000 bales forwarded direct to the country and the continent, but adding the 27,000 bales held over from last sales, the total available for sale in this series amounts to 362,000 bales, against 343,000 bales last year. As at present arranged the sales will last till the 6th of October. The arrivals for the first three series of this year are almost exactly the same as for the corresponding sales in 1881, viz.:—1,046,000 bales against 1,049,000 bales in 1881; and what may still be expected for the 4th series will probably also equal last year's imports, which amounted to 107,363 bales."

Produce Market.—From the New Zealand Loan and Mercantile Agency Company's circular, August 25. Tallow: Since the issue of our last circular, two public sales have been held, at which 4931 casks were offered and 2007 sold. At the first of these auctions the demand was slow, but holders being firm, a considerable proportion of the quantity catalogued was bought in. At the later auction, however, buyers operated more freely, and somewhat firmer though irregular rates ruled for the best qualities of both beef and mutton. Prices generally are now about on a par with those current a fortnight ago, but edible beef has improved fully 1s per cwt. We quote—P.Y.C. (new), 26s per cwt.; Australian mutton, fine, 44s 6d to 45s 3d per cwt.; ditto ditto, medium, 43s to 44s per cwt.; ditto beef, fine, 44s to 45s per cwt.; ditto ditto, medium, 42s to 44s per cwt. The estimated stock in warehouse is 2835 casks, of which about 150 are Russian. Importations during the fortnight ending 19th instant amounted to 1190 casks. For to-day's auctions 1694 casks are advertised. Leather, Hides, &c.—Leather: At the public auctions held on 18th instant 10,324 sides were offered, of which 7637 found purchasers under the hammer. There has been a fairly steady inquiry, and although quotations are unaltered there is a tendency to greater firmness. We quote fair to good sides, heavy, 13 to 17½ lb., each 10½d to 11½d per lb.; light, 9 to 10½ lb., each 10d to 11½d per lb.; extra heavy, 21 to 28½ lb., each 10d to 10½d per lb.; seconds, 11½ to 18 lb., each 9½d to 10½d per lb. Importations during the fortnight ending 19th instant amounted to 208 bales. Next auctions will be held on 1st proximo. Basils: There has again been a full supply offered publicly, 161,849 skins having been brought forward to auction on 15th instant and 130,138 sold. In some instances prices ruled slightly in favour of buyers, while on the other hand certain classes of heavy skins, which have been almost unsalable, met with rather better competition. We quote:—Best strained skins, averaging 9 to 10 lb per dozen, 15½d to 17¼ per lb.; seconds, 11 to 11 lb per dozen, 12d to 15d per lb.; unstrained, averaging 7½ to 24 lb. per dozen, 8d to 14½d per lb. Next auctions will be held on 1st proximo. Salted Hides: The quantity offered at public auction on 11th instant was small, embracing only 2477 hides, of which 1080 found buyers. One small parcel realised full prices, but for the remainder scarcely previous rates were bid. We quote—Sydney heavy ox, 5½d to 5¾d per lb.; ditto light ditto, 4½d to 5d; ditto seconds, 4½d to 5d; ditto cow, 4½d to 5d. The present stock is 15,075 hides. Next auctions will be held on 31st instant. Preserved Meats: Both beef and mutton have been in good demand, and have changed hands in considerable quantity at enhanced rates. We quote—Boiled Mutton: 2lb. tins, 5¼d to 5¾d per lb., 4lb. tins, 5½d to 5¾d; 6lb. tins, 5¼d to 5¾d. Boiled beef: 2lb. tins, 5¼d to 5¾d per lb.; 4lb. tins, 5¼d to 5¾d; 6lb. tins, 5¼d to 5¾d. Importations during the fortnight ending 19th instant amounted to 114 cases from Australia, and 1515 cases from New York. Frozen Meats: Owing chiefly to the depression in the market for home-fed meats less progress than might have been desired has been made with the consignment of mutton ex Lusitania. The portion disposed of lately has realised on average about 5d per lb. The beef was cleared out at the rates quoted in our last circular. The balance of the shipment per Serrento (s.), is still on hand, its inferior quality and condition preventing a ready sale. The Austral (s.) will probably not arrive for a few days yet. We quote home-fed meats as follows: Good English and Scotch beef (bodies), 4s to 5s per 8lb.; ditto ditto mutton (carcases), 4s 4d to 5s 2d per 8lb. Copra: While quotations exhibit a marked improvement on the fortnight, the scarcity of available supplies has restricted business. A cargo of about 650 tons which has just arrived per Mullet', from Fiji will probably be disposed of presently. We quote good Sydney sun-dried at £17 10s to £17 15s per ton; kiln-dried at £15 15s to £16 per ton. Cocoa Nut Oil: Prices remain practically unchanged, and very few transactions have been recorded. Cochin has been in only slight demand, and few offering at £35 10s to £36 per ton; while a moderate inquiry exists for Cochin at £29 10s. for old, and £28 15s to £30 per ton for new oil. Mother-o'-Pearl Shells: No business has been recorded since the last public auction. We repeat the quotations then current, viz.:—Sydney bold and medium, part slightly wormy, £7 to £7 15s per cwt.; fine, clean, flat, white, £8 to £9; chicken, £9 2s 6d to £9 10s; heavy, bold, defective, £5 to £4 5s; blistered and dead, £1 10s to £2 15s; pieces, £4 2s 6d to £6 5s. Next auctions will be held on 5th September.

THE BONDI TRAMWAY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—From the days of good old Governor Macquarie I have been the recreation ground for many thousands from childhood to old age, and my praises have been "sung in song and told of in story," by our poet Halloran, Sir James Martin, Flanagan, and the press generally. I am, therefore, not complimented by your correspondent in yesterday's Herald wishing to curtail my beautiful views obtained by the approach from Bellevue, which will be enjoyed by the route marked for the intended tramway to my beach at the ocean.

Sir Thomas Mitchell, as Surveyor-General, wrote to the Government to the following effect:—"I consider it of the utmost importance on behalf of the public that a well-engineered road should be secured for a carriage drive, continuing the road through the Point Piper Estate at Bellevue to the shore of the Pacific at Bondi, which admits of a gentle decline the whole way."

And I have perfect faith in the opinion expressed by Sir Thomas, and that the road now marked out will be the shortest, the easiest gradient, and the least expensive.

I am glad to say that Messrs. Thomas Buckland, R. W. Newman, and others have liberally given the land passing through and by their properties from Bellevue to Rose Bay.

The tramway line, as marked, will pass from west to east through the centre of the borough, to the public park proclaimed, and join Waverley-street, passing the new Public school within about 200 yards.

The trustees of the Sydney Grammar School have now the opportunity of securing any quantity of land required, as recommended by his Excellency's address at the last annual meeting.

The present tramway to Waverley runs the length of Waverley and Nelson Wards, along Cowper-street, and it will pay to continue it for Waverley, good; but that has nothing to do with a tramway to Bondi and Rose Bay, for the thousands of Sydney, which I wish to see daily, and will require a double line to give satisfaction, so that the public may come by tram and return by steamer, as they please.

I am, &c.,

BONDI.

October 5.

The Constantinople correspondent of the Daily News telegraphs:—"A considerable movement of an unsatisfactory kind is going on in the district of the Lebanon. Petitions are being circulated among the Maronite Christians with the object of preventing the renewal of Rustem Pasha's term as Governor. Rustem has hitherto satisfied the Porte, the Powers, and reasonable men, by preserving order and dealing impartially with the Maronites and the Druses alike. The Maronite clergy appear to be dissatisfied with this; and it is asserted that serious attempts are being made by them to provoke the Druses to outbreaks, and the publication of the pretended views of the Druses has roused great indignation among the latter. The time chosen is especially dangerous, because, according to the Druse belief, their founder is to reappear this year on earth, but his advent must be preceded by war between the Christians and Moslems. An experienced observer compares the state of feeling in the Lebanon with that which existed shortly before the outbreak in 1860."

LAND LAW REFORM CONFERENCE.

The sitting of the above conference was resumed yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, Mr. John Gale again occupying the chair. In addition to the delegates there were also present the Hon. Fane De Salis, M.L.C., and Messrs. Heydon, Levin, Lynch, Harbour, and Melville, Ms.L.A.

Mr. H. LEVIN moved,—"That this conference recommend the abolition of interest on all selections up to 640 acres, which are or have been made the bona-fide residence of the present owners, but that in view of the more important measures in connection with the abolition of auction sales, the suppression of dummyism and the bona-fide settlement of the country, which we desire to see carried into effect, the abolition of interest be not made one of the planks of our platform, as it may have a tendency to thwart our desire to obtain a fair and equitable land law that will encourage settlement and stop monopoly." He contended that it was inexpedient to make abolition of interest a plank in this platform. At the present juncture public opinion was against it, and it was the popular vote that we must strive to obtain, in order to secure the adoption of those important measures which they were there to urge upon the notice of the Government. He (Mr. Levin) was not a free selector, but as honorary secretary of this association, as a resident amongst selectors, and as one who had always taken an active part in land reform, his sympathies were with the supporters of this question. And although favourable to abolition of interest to a certain extent, he thought it inadvisable at the present time to give this matter a prominent place in their deliberations.

Mr. BRADY seconded the resolution.

Mr. LUSCOMBE moved the following amendment:—"That after the passing of any new Land Act or Amended Land Act, interest shall cease to be paid on any conditionally purchased land for an area or any number of areas not exceeding in the aggregate 640 acres. That such cessation of interest shall apply only to the conditionally purchased land which has been taken up, or may be taken up and retained for bona-fide settlement and residence. That for the future no man, woman, nor child be permitted to select at all more than 640 acres in the aggregate and after selecting up to that number of acres the right of every person to again select land shall cease in the colony of New South Wales."

Mr. RICHARDSON said he was in favour of abolition of interest. He had had a great deal of experience in this matter, and had seen the unfortunate selectors clearing their lands in a half-naked state. They looked healthy, certainly, but they had not the common necessaries of life, and had been so hard pressed that he had known them to be six months without beef and sometimes without flour. It had been admitted that a grass right was given to the squatters for £1,000,000 per annum less than they ought to pay. He was not prepared to give a remission of interest to any man who only made a grass right of his run, but the country would see the justice of giving the bona-fide selector a remission of interest. (Hear, hear.) He knew selectors who were compelled to borrow money at interest to pay the interest on their conditional purchases, and if seasons continue bad it would ruin them. If they took some steps to classify the selectors and ascertain who were the bona-fide occupants of the land, it would simplify matters and enable the conference to ascertain who were entitled to remission of interest.

Mr. TULLY said that, strictly speaking, the land belonged to the people, and, if so, he did not see why they should be charged interest upon the principal they paid for what was lawfully their own.

Mr. S. CANDRALL said he was bound as a representative of one of the associations of the colony to express, not only his personal opinion, but what he knew to be the feeling of the Riverina people. There was a great diversity of opinion in reference to this matter of interest. The selectors as a body wished to have this concession granted to them, and thought they were entitled to it as a matter of justice. When they took up land in the early days they thought they were doing a great stroke in taking up the land, but the benefit they derived was not as great as they expected. He endorsed the very practical suggestions laid down, but if they confined the remission of interest to selections of or under 640 acres, he should not be benefited because he held considerably more than that. It would not only not benefit himself, but others who, by their industry, had accumulated over 640 acres. The Corowa platform did not include the question of abolition of interest, and before he left he asked for instructions how to act, and they gave him carte blanche in the matter. He had spoken to several members of Parliament on the subject, and the general impression was, that it should be left in abeyance for the present. That they were entitled to the abolition of interest there could be no doubt, and the arguments against it were what he ventured to call puerile. At one time, they had an opportunity of taking up land on pre-leases, but preleases were now unknown, and they could therefore go to the Government and ask that, as they had lost one concession, they should receive another. (Hear, hear.) As to whether the abolition of interest should be embodied in their platform or not, his opinion was that, considering the state of public opinion inside and outside of the House, it might perhaps be better that it should not form a leading part of the platform. It was hardly a matter within the scope of the Land Act, and would have to be dealt with by special legislation.

The CHAIRMAN said there appeared to be some misconception of the status quo of this question. Some people were under the impression that they were going to abandon the doctrine. There was no intention of abandoning it. It was simply a question of expediency, and if they dropped this question for the present, they would only do so for the sake of dealing with matters of more vital importance.

Mr. LYNCH, M.L.A., thought there was very little chance of carrying the principle out in the present House, but he did not think they ought to abandon it altogether.

Mr. WALL said he would not be any party to shirking the very important question. He did not care whether Parliament was in favour of it or not, for he thought it his duty, and he believed the delegates thought it their duty, whatever outside opinion might be with regard to the working of the Land Act, to suggest reform, and if they felt themselves justified in recommending the striking out of some of the more important parts of it they should not hesitate to do so. The arguments used with regard to the remission of interest would scarcely bear the light of day. They were told that it was repudiation, but they heard nothing of the repudiation of over a million sterling every year in favour of the squatter. This interest was an injustice to the pioneers throughout the colony, who had established homes which were a credit to the colony, and had something to do with its progress and prosperity. He had known men in his district who had struggled for years, and they were now in a worse position than they were at first. Anything less than 640 acres was of no use to a man, and in order that he might establish a home and provide for the increasing requirements of his family it was absolutely necessary that a man should have even more than 640 acres, and in acquiring a suitable area it was unfair to place on his shoulders burdens that would overwhelm him. This question was one which out to be settled, but at the same time he knew that it would involve endless discussion.

The CHAIRMAN thought Mr. Luscombe's amendment was valuable as a suggestion, but if carried would bring things to a deadlock.

Mr. HOWARD thought they were wide of the mark altogether, and should not keep to this question of abolition of interest. He was a bona-fide selector, and had passed through the experience which had been spoken of that day, but he had prospered and had accomplished the purpose for which the Land Act was framed. His object was to bring about land reform, so that the struggling selectors should get the benefit of it. He had already spoken to several members of Parliament on this question, but they were dead against an indiscriminate remission of interest; but he thought if they confined it to 640 acres the voting would be very close. In the district he came from they considered this the second most important matter to de dealt with. Abolition of auction sales was the first subject, and if they could confine themselves to the discussion of the subjects in some kind of order, they would get on much faster, and it would have a better effect.

Mr. CHANTER moved that the question of the abolition of interest be adjourned, and be considered at the bottom of the list.

Mr. LYNCH said he had been all his life in favour of abolition of interest, but he thought, in order to make it equitable, they ought to do something for the hard struggling men who took up land under the Act of 1861, and who had paid their balances and obtained their titles. He also thought the conference ought to take some step to put a stop to dummyism; and he only hoped that before they separated they would do something. He thought some short suspensory bill could be introduced to Parliament to effect that object.

Mr. GROGAN seconded the last amendment, which was put and carried.

Mr. WALL moved,—"That the deposit on all future selections be reduced to 1s. per acre, the balance to be paid by annual instalments of 1s. per acre on the unpaid portion of the principal." He considered this the most important article of the platform of the conference. He thought it a fallacy to place men on the land when they were unable to pay the deposit and give them the right to take up the maximum area. The majority had never been able to exceed the minimum, namely, 40 acres, and the result had been that instead of having people settled upon the lands of the colony who would be a benefit to themselves and society, they had men starving upon small holdings. They had in most cases taken up the land with a bona-fide intention of devoting their time to agricultural pursuits, but they found in a few years that they were hemmed in by volunteer land orders and dummy selectors, and were eventually compelled to sell out to the monopolists. He knew one squatter in his district who had obtained a large number of selectors in this way. No man could live on 40 acres of land, and there were very few men who were in a position when they first selected to take up more than 40 acres. The consequence was that when by industry and thrift they were in a position to take up more land they found the land surrounding them had been alienated and they were compelled to sell out and travel over the country in search of fresh holdings. There could be no satisfactory reform in the land law unless they placed it within the power of these people to take advantage of the provisions of the Act, and secure a sufficient area of land at the outset. If they desired to establish a flourishing class of yeomanry upon the soil they must first place them in a position to take up the land they required, and they were then willing to comply with the spirit and intention of the Act. They simply asked that, instead of starving on 40 acres, the Government would place it in their power to take up sufficient land to get a living upon. There were very few men who had taken up land with £160 to commence with; and yet that was the sum required to enable them to take up the maximum area of 640 acres. There were men in his district who had originally commenced with only 40 acres, but they had added to their holdings, and were now a credit to the colony; but these were men who were fortunate enough to select land where they could not be hemmed in. Although he admitted that the desire of the framer of the Land Act was to see the people settled upon the soil, the intention had failed, simply because the settlers, as a rule, did not possess sufficient capital to start with, in order to enable them to take advantage of the Act. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. CHANTER seconded the motion. He spoke from experience, and said that the amount of deposit insisted upon had been one of the greatest bars to the settlement of the people in the Riverina district, because the people had not the money to lodge with the original application. An amendment of the law in the direction suggested would help not only the struggling free selector, but those who had money for the latter would be able to spend more money in improving and developing their holdings.

Mr. GROGAN supported the resolution, and after a brief discussion in reference to the question of whether the Government or the selector should pay the survey fee,

Mr. DE SALIS moved the following amendment,—"That the deposit on all selections should be 3s. per acre, and that at the end of three years the balance to be paid off thereafter by annual instalments of 1s. per acre."

Mr. SANDRALL seconded the amendment pro forma, for the purpose of having it discussed.

Mr. HOWARD said that while there were certain things which he approved of in the propositions submitted, still he saw some abuses which would arise if they were carried into effect, and he therefore could not conscientiously sanction them. This shilling per acre would cut both ways. It would give the squatter the privilege at a very small expense of getting hold of a great deal of his leased land, and it would also create a good deal of unpleasantness and ill feeling amongst neighbours. For instance, it would be very easy for any scamp who had a down upon a bona fide selector to harrass him by expending a few pounds and taking up land in the vicinity of the selector's holding. That was the view taken of the matter in his district, and for that reason there was an objection to reducing the deposit. It was also thought that if a man could not pay down 5s. per acre on his conditional purchase it would be better for him not to go on the land at all.

Mr. BROOK said the objections urged were very forcible ones, and he would certainly give his vote against the original motion for reducing the deposit to 1s. per acre, because he believed it would lead to the aggregation of large estates and open the way to the very thing that Mr. Howard had spoken of, namely, that every scamp who had fits in his pocket might harrass his neighbour to a very considerable extent. He would rather adhere to the system which existed at present.

Mr. GROGAN opposed the amendment, and Mr. LEVIN supported the original resolution.

The amendment was negatived and the resolution was put and carried.

Mr. WALL moved the next resolution,—"That the residence condition on future selections remain as at present, but that each and every person purchasing such selection within 19 years from the date of alienation from the Crown be compelled to fulfil the residence condition of one year." He contended that it was no hardship to the free selector to fulfil the residence condition laid down in the resolution if he intended to become a bona-fide agriculturist and settle on the lands of the colony, but it would be a decided hardship on the monopolists, because if they were compelled to comply with the residence condition it would be fatal to them, and would also be a fatal blow at dummyism. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. RICHARDSON seconded the resolution pro forma, but did not think it would have the effect of restricting monopoly and dummyism, as the mover anticipated.

After some discussion, in which several amendments were moved and discussed,

Mr. BROOK suggested that the original resolution might be made to read as follows:—"That the residence condition of future selections be as at present, and every person purchasing such selection within 19 years from the day of alienation from the Crown, be compelled to fulfil the residence condition of one year at least; that the original purchaser of any amount of leasehold under the system of conditional purchase, be compelled to reside on the land for a period of five years from the date of its alienation from the Crown, and that each successive holder of such purchase be compelled to reside at least one year on the said land, until the land is held in fee simple, the two conditions of residence and payment having been complied with."

Mr. WALL accepted Mr. Brook's suggestion, and after considerable discussion, the amendments, as well as the original resolution, were put and rejected.

Mr. HEYDON moved,—"That the term of residence be five years on conditional purchases as at present, but that on any transfer of conditionally purchased land within five years, after such original term of residence shall have been performed, to a holder of more than the maximum area allowed to be conditionally purchased."

The motion was seconded by Mr. GROGAN, and carried unanimously.

Mr. HOWARD moved, and Mr. RICHARDSON seconded,—"That this conference recommend the abolition of interest on conditionally purchased land for any area up to 640 acres in one person's hands, regardless of the total extent of his holding."

The motion was carried.

The conference, at 5 p.m., adjourned till to-day, at 9 a.m.

HOLT-SUTHERLAND ESTATE.

ATTRACTIVE SUBDIVISION
of KURNELL,
in area
FOUR HUNDRED and FIFTY ACRES,
CAPTAIN COOK'S LANDING-PLACE.
The most picturesque spot in all
BOTANY BAY.

It is now laid out into
TWO to FIVE-ACRE SITES
for
MARINE VILLAS.

The frontages are to
The ESPLANADE
The CHARMING BEACH
and
CHAIN WIDE STREETS.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions from the HOLT-SUTHERLAND ESTATE LAND COMPANY, LIMITED, to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on MONDAY, 9th OCTOBER,
at 11 o'clock,
KURNELL.
This GRAND WATERING PLACE has the advantage of fertile soil. Its streets are wide. It is only sparsely timbered. Its contour is graceful, and it slopes away to the silvery beach, along the entire extent of which is an Esplanade, called "THE PRINCES' PARADE."
Nearly the whole of the water frontage of Port Jackson has been secured by private owners; and it is but here and there the public enjoy the advantage of a few score feet which they can call their own on the margin of the harbour. About Sydney water frontage is offered for sale only on rare occasions, and then, at prices ranging from ten or twenty to hundreds of pounds per foot. In years to come similar prices will no doubt be obtained for water frontages in the Marine TOWNSHIP of KURNELL, and the augmentation of value will be all the greater, because the directors of the HOLT-SUTHERLAND ESTATE LAND COMPANY, Limited, have arranged for the magnificent Esplanade, which will give the advantage of water frontage to every purchaser of land in this splendid subdivision.
The company have not had KURNELL cut up into small portions, each containing a few feet frontage, but have had it surveyed in areas of from TWO to FIVE ACRES, so that each purchaser may have enough to subdivide, and, in years to come, live upon one portion rent free, while deriving a considerable annual revenue from subleasing the remainder.
The land immediately to the north-east of the new TOWNSHIP of KURNELL, and KNOWN AS CAPE SOLANDER, has RECENTLY BEEN PROCLAIMED A PUBLIC RESERVE. Not very far distant is the magnificent NATIONAL PARK. In front Botany Bay lies like an azure shield, and at the rear ebb and flow the waters of the Pacific Ocean. All the surroundings of KURNELL are grand, and the new township is so admirably situated that it can never be defiled by insanitary conditions.
Attention is particularly directed to the terms on which this land is to be allotted. Purchasers will not be called upon to invest large capital. They will buy a lease for ninety-eight years—equal to a freehold for three generations, and the only cash required will be the rent fixed at auction. This half-yearly rent will not be increased periodically, as is the case in regard to Government leases, but the price bid by successful purchasers will determine the amount of each half-yearly payment during the whole term. And there will be NO BUILDING CONDITIONS. That the land is at present little known will be all in favour of the buyers, who will stand to win the unearned increment which will accumulate as the city and colony grow in population and in wealth. With railway and tramway extension, a steam ferry to the Botany tramway, and the probability of coal (for which the Company is about to bore) being found on the Estate, it is impossible to foretell what will be the increased value of these five-acre blocks in a few years. The Company have resolved, however, to dispose of the leases to the highest bidders on the 9th October, and to allow them to share in their good fortune. It is a special advantage that purchasers will not come under any building conditions. They can build or not as they choose, and subdivide the land as they please, subject only to the proviso that no street or right-of-way shall be less than a chain in width.
To Yachtsmen, to Investors, to Speculators, and to persons who desire to secure sites for Marine Villas in situations the most beautiful and on terms the most favourable, an opportunity is offered such as has never before been presented since the eyes of the public have been opened to the value of metropolitan land, and especially to the superiority of areas possessing the advantage of water frontage. A tramway now runs from Sydney to Botany Bay; steamboats already ply from the Government Wharf, near the tram terminus, to various points on the shores of Botany Harbour and George's River. Thus in a few years access to the city from KURNELL will be as easy as is now the trip from North Shore to the General Post Office. When that time shall arrive, what will be the annual value per foot of the land which is now about to be offered in Five-acre Blocks.

FINLAY and CO., GOULBURN, in conjunction with RICHARDSON and WRENCH, Sydney, have received instructions from the proprietors to sell by auction, ON THE GROUND, on FRIDAY, OCTOBER 27, at 12 o'clock sharp,
This PRINCELY ESTATE, adjoining the most progressive inland city in the colony, SUBDIVIDED into 237 FARMS, to be sold on the most liberal terms.

The following collective notes are worthy the attention of those to whom this magnificent property is unknown, and may be accepted as strictly within the bounds of fact:—
1st—9000 acres of this land are ready for the plough—no clearing whatever required—and are suitable for the production of every kind of cereal.
2nd—The land is equal to the celebrated Plains of Bathurst, where farmers pay 20s to 25s an acre rent, and they prosper.
3rd—The demand for grain by the mills and breweries in the city is so great that every year they have to import from California, pay and repay carriage, and return the flour to Sydney and elsewhere. Suggestive of what the profits of grain-growing may be.
4th—The farms are within two miles of the city, consequently the products and everything grown and reared can readily be turned into money. No loss in haulage and valuable time—which means cost and profit.
5th—As showing the importance and progressiveness of the city, the lands in the suburbs for building purposes have increased in value during the last 10 years from £5 an acre to £150, and in the north-west of the city from £8 to £500; while the population in the city and district has run up to considerably over 17,000.
6th—The traffic receipts by railway for 1881, to and from Goulburn, exceed those of Bathurst by £12,360 15s 8d.
7th—The stock sold in Goulburn yards alone for 1881 amount to 162,052 head, and new private buildings erected during that year are in number 137.
8th—The stock forwarded from Goulburn to Sydney for 1881 amounts to 58,454 head.
9th—The city has 5 banks of issue, 2 cathedrals, churches of every denomination, grammar, boarding, and public schools, collegiate institutions, building societies, breweries, mills, tanneries, woolscouring establishments, factories, splendid hotels, 3 newspapers, Mechanics' Institute and Public Library, Protestant, Temperance, and Oddfellows' Halls, recreation grounds, Agricultural and Pastoral Society, railway workshops, &c., and next month the COOMA RAILWAY will be commenced, opening up all the traffic of Monaro.
10th—Trams are in contemplation from Goulburn to Crookwell and Taralga, opening up all the trade to and from those fertile districts.
11th—The climate is invigorating, fruits of all kinds are in abundance, and commercial travellers, who ought to know, pronounce Goulburn as the most flourishing and solvent city in the colony.
12th—Goulburn and its surroundings are most attractive, splendid scenery, excellent shooting, princely estates, good society, and, in fact, everything that is required for the man of pleasure and business.
13th—The Government, in recognition of the vast and growing importance of GOULBURN, the capital of the South, have built handsome post and telegraph offices; the largest prison in the colony is now being erected at a cost of over £100,000; lunatic asylum grounds have also been purchased; bridges are in course of erection; and double railway stations are to follow.

BUYERS will please consider the effect of the foregoing, and the importance of THIS GRAND SUBDIVISION upon GOULBURN.

14,000 ACRES let loose for the plough, the dairy, the orchard, the model farm, homes for the people, and the gentleman of means.

In a few years these lands will have a considerably enhanced value, and the capitalist would do well to peruse the work lately issued upon Goulburn and its extraordinary progressiveness, which may be obtained from the Auctioneers, both in Sydney and Goulburn, on application, free.

LITHOGRAPHS, PLANS, and VIEWS of the ESTATE are now ready, and can be obtained on application in Sydney or Goulburn.

THE ESTATE is most judiciously subdivided by the well-known Surveyors, Messrs. ATCHISON and SCHLEICHER, Pitt-street, Sydney.

TO MERCHANTS, CAPITALISTS, and the PUBLIC.

The LAST of Messrs. Campbell Brothers' VALUABLE SUBDIVISIONS, Beardy-street, Armidale, directly opposite Tattersall's Hotel, and close to all the public offices.

TITLE UNQUESTIONABLE.

Plan on view at the office of the auctioneer, Armidale, and at the Exchange, Sydney.

GEO. ALLINGHAM has received instructions from Messrs. Campbell, Brothers, Inverell, to sell by public auction, at his office, Beardy-street, Armidale, on THURSDAY, 12th instant, at 12 o'clock noon,
The above, comprising
Subdivision 5, of allotments Nos. 2 and 3, of sec. 2, embracing a frontage to Beardy-street of 38 feet, and depth to Moore-street 165 feet, with the back building and small front cottage, occupied by Mr. Fitzgerald as a saddler's shop, erected thereon.
Also,
Subdivision 6, of allotment No. 3, of sec. 2, adjoining No. 5 on the east, frontage to Beardy-street 22½ feet, and same depth to Moore-street, with the back buildings erected thereon.

TERMS, LIBERAL, AT SALE.

It is really impossible to overrate the importance of this freehold, or to estimate not only its present but its prospective value. Under peculiar circumstances only can a foot of land in this locality be obtained, and the auctioneer considers it is only necessary to state that the property is now in the market for absolute sale, to attract the attention of merchants, capitalists, and others to the opportunity afforded for obtaining a first-class freehold investment.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 19, At 12 o'clock, MAGNIFICENT Centrally-situated CITY FREEHOLD, Well-known as BRISCOE AND CO.'S Retail Warehouse, COLLINS-STREET EAST. Together with the large Wholesale Premises at Rear. The Finest Site in the whole of Collins-street.

C. J. and T. HAM have (in conjunction with Messrs. Fraser and Co.) received instructions from Messrs. M'Lean Brothers and Rigg (in consequence of their having secured a long lease, and contemplated extension of the premises they now occupy), to SELL by PUBLIC AUCTION, at their Rooms, No. 45, Swanston-street, on THURSDAY, 19th October, at 12 o'clock,
All that piece of land in the city of Melbourne, having a frontage of 66 feet to COLLINS-STREET, by a depth of 73 feet, upon which is erected that substantial and well-finished building, being, without exception, the best, most commodious, and ELEGANT RETAIL SHOP in the city of Melbourne.
The building is five stories in height.
The ground floor faced with Malmsbury bluestone, with polished grey granite piers to the central and side entrances.
The three upper stories are built of brick, cemented and relieved with entablatures, plasters, and enriched caps.
The entrance is spacious and enclosed with polished cedar fittings; the floor is paved with red and black marble tiles, laid diagonally, and margined with white marble, producing an exceedingly rich effect.
The style of the architecture is Italian, very freely handled.
The window space in the frontage is unusually large, which renders the premises unequalled for the purpose of displaying goods.
The basement is excavated throughout the whole area of the building, is asphalted, and usually lofty.
The floors, which are very spacious, are supported on eight massive cast-iron columns, continued from basement to roof, with enriched capitals and moulded bases to the principal floors.
The roof is in three spans, and carried on light Queen trusses, the whole tastefully coloured.
A spacious stairs, 7 feet 6 inches wide, situated immediately opposite the entrance door, gives access in two easy flights to each floor.
The fittings are of kauri pine, with cedar panels polished, and present a light and elegant appearance.
A lift is provided for goods and passengers.
The lighting of the premises from top to bottom is extremely good.

At the rear, and immediately adjoining the above, All that piece of land having a frontage of 135 FEET to two private streets by a depth of 54 feet, upon which is erected a substantial THREE-STORY BLUESTONE STORE, specially built to carry heavy weights, and from its having roads on both sides, is most convenient for receiving and delivering goods.
The above property comprises the most extensive wholesale and retail premises in Melbourne, and situated in the best retail position in the city, opposite the National Bank, and near the junction of Collins and Elizabeth streets.
The auctioneer would call the special attention of capitalists and business men desirous of procuring first-class premises specially adapted for a large and increasing retail trade to the above premises, which have been erected regardless of expense, and finished in a manner seldom attained in the best business premises in London and Paris.
As an investment these premises will always bring in a steady and increasing rent, and the vendors will guarantee a tenant for six years at £3750 per annum, tenant to have the option of a further term of seven years at same rent.
The whole premises are at present in the occupation of Messrs. Briscoe and Co., under tenancy expiring 30th June next.
Terms—£50,000 can remain for six years from 1st July next at 4 per cent. per annum. Deposit £5000 in cash, and the balance at the 1st July next, on possession being given.

IMPORTANT SALE BY AUCTION on FRIDAY, the 3rd of NOVEMBER NEXT.
THE COBRAN ESTATE, comprising the Runs originally known as Cobran, Thule, Goths and Tantonan, with the remaining Crown lands thereon, and the stock as under.

JOHN G. DOUGHARTY has been instructed by the Executors of the late Dr. J. C. Telford to sell (in conjunction with PITT, SON, and BADGERY), at Menzies' Hotel, Bourke-street, Melbourne, on FRIDAY, 3rd November next, at 3 in the afternoon,
The whole land and stock in one lot.
The freehold, consisting of about 145,000 acres, is well known to form one of the finest and most compact estates in Australia, situated in New South Wales, within two hours' drive of the Deniliquin and Echuca railway, and within seven hours' railway communication of Melbourne market, for the sale of fat stock, and its port for the shipment of wool. A most favourable opportunity is thus afforded to private individuals or to companies for obtaining not only an improving property, but an absolutely safe investment.
The land has admirable fattening and wool-growing capabilities, and the value of the property is largely enhanced by the soil (in the opinion of competent judges) being well adapted for wheat growing.

Those 12 allotments, as per plan, including that valuable business corner which has a frontage to Wilson-street of 19 feet, to Hill-street (the direct road to M'Donaldtown station) of 100 feet, and to a 20-feet wide lane at rear.
Lots 2-8 have each 18 feet 4 inches frontage to Wilson-street, by the good depth of 109 feet to the 20-feet wide lane at rear.
Lot 9 has 19 feet 8 inches, and Lots 10 to 12 20 feet frontage to Hill-street, by the excellent depth of 121 feet to a 20-feet wide lane.
No other property possessing such convenient, speedy, and economical means of access to the city as this is now in the market, having the M'Donaldtown station at its foot, so to speak, and the Newtown road, with the tram route at its head, this uniquely-positioned property must, year by year, become more valuable. Wilson-street must become a business street. The tramway will divert to it a considerable portion of the wheel traffic from the Newtown-road; and when the roads are made through Golden Grove Estate this route to the city from the Newtown bridge, viz., via Wilson-street, will be the nearest, and therefore the most frequented.
The properties erected, and now being erected, in the immediate neighbourhood of these allotments are all of a good class, an important item to parties desirous of purchasing building sites for private residences.
The title is under Torrens' Act.
Terms: 10 per cent. deposit; balance at 6, 12, and 18 months, with interest 6 per cent., with right to pay off at any time, interest being charged only to date of payment.

WHY BUY LEASEHOLD LAND
at
ST. JAMES' GLEBE, WAVERLEY?

Because on
THIS AFTERNOON, OCTOBER 7, HARDIE and GORMAN
will sell
119 SPLENDID BUILDING ALLOTMENTS
on lease for the
UNEXPIRED BALANCE OF 99 YEARS.

Because the land is very close to the city.
Because the tramway passes the land.
Because a twopenny tram ride and a few minutes' walk will take you from the city to the land.
Because the land is within walking distance of the city.
Because this is one of the very few original subdivisions near the city in which it is now possible to buy.
Because there is risk in investing in land at a distance from town, but securing land adjoining the city at a reasonable price must certainly prove a profitable investment.
Because a very small payment will secure land on which buildings may be erected at once.
Because the land is bounded on south and east by the SYDNEY COMMON, on the west by the valuable MILL HILL ESTATE, and on the north by the WAVERLEY-ROAD.
Because the splendid views from many of the lots can never be built out.
Because it is just the land to suit builders; houses on it would certainly let or sell well.
Because the vendor has secured this Church Glebe at a very low figure, and will sell at a low figure.
Because many builders and working men have made large profits by judiciously selecting leasehold building plots.
Because this land may be secured close to the city, without paying city prices.

CITY OF SYDNEY.

Messrs.
HOFFNUNG AND CO.'S WAREHOUSE,
No. 117, PITT-STREET.

FOR ABSOLUTE SALE.

HIGHLY IMPORTANT and VALUABLE
FREEHOLD PROPERTY
IN THE VERY HEART OF THE CITY, adjoining
Messrs. DALTON BROTHERS' MAGNIFICENT PILE OF BUILDINGS, and immediately opposite to VICKERY'S BUILDINGS.

The PREMISES were erected in 1870, in a MOST SUBSTANTIAL and EXPENSIVE MANNER throughout, with MASSIVE STONE FRONT and exceptionally handsome elevation, and consist of FIVE FLOORS including BASEMENT, divided into WAREROOMS and SUITES of CAPITAL OFFICES, with fire and thief-proof STRONG ROOMS necessary for the proper conduct of a LARGE MERCANTILE BUSINESS.

The PROPERTY possesses a frontage of 61 feet 8 inches to PITT-STREET, by depths of 141 feet 3 inches and 138 feet 1 inches on the north and south sides respectively, and certainly occupies one of the BEST CENTRAL BUSINESS POSITIONS in the CITY.

Being so ADMIRABLY ARRANGED and STRONGLY CONSTRUCTED, the BUILDING can easily be adapted for use as
BANKING or INSURANCE PREMISES
OFFICES and SOLICITORS' CHAMBERS
WOOL STORES and SALE ROOM, or it can be utilized as at present for a LARGE MERCANTILE WAREHOUSE.

PLANS showing the above suggested alterations, and also the FRONT ELEVATION as at present, and with TWO ADDITIONAL STORES (making the building higher than Dalton's), can be seen at the AUCTION ROOMS.

The TITLE is under TORRENS' ACT, and the PROPERTY is UNENCUMBERED.

HARDIE and GORMAN have received instructions from Messrs. S. HOFFNUNG and CO. to sell by PUBLIC AUCTION, at their PROPERTY SALE ROOMS, Pitt-street, SYDNEY, at 11.30 o'clock,
WEDNESDAY, 29th NOVEMBER,
Their MAGNIFICENT RANGE OF WAREHOUSE PREMISES, consisting of TWO BUILDINGS—the one fronting PITT-STREET, and the other the STORE at rear, well known as one of the FINEST and most IMPOSING BUILDINGS in all the COLONIES, possessing the advantages of HANDSOME STONE FRONT, a NOBLE ENTRANCE, LOFTY, and WELL-LIGHTED FLOORS, IMMENSE STRENGTH in CONSTRUCTION, and at the same time being almost NEW, the same having been constructed SPECIALLY for the FIRM in 1870.

Messrs. S. HOFFNUNG and CO. are disposing of their present premises SOLELY IN CONSEQUENCE of their BUSINESS HAVING INCREASED so ENORMOUSLY during the PAST DECADE, that the space, although very large, and the accommodation immense, is ALTOGETHER INADEQUATE for the MAGNITUDE of their BUSINESS, and it is well known that they are NOW ERECTING next the GENERAL POST OFFICE, in PITT-STREET, a MAMMOTH PILE of BUILDINGS, of PRINCELY GRANDEUR, which will be far and away the LARGEST MERCANTILE PREMISES south of the line, and which will have a FLOOR SPACE of 3½ ACRES, and be higher than the GENERAL POST OFFICE.

THE CHARACTER of the buildings in close proximity to the PREMISES TO BE SOLD is EXCEPTIONAL—
The ORIENTAL BANK, the UNION BANK, the CITY BANK, the AUSTRALIAN MUTUAL PROVIDENT SOCIETY, the NEW ZEALAND INSURANCE Office, the SYDNEY MORNING HERALD Office, VICKERY'S-BUILDINGS, MESSRS. DALTON BROS.' PREMISES, BELL'S-CHAMBERS, the NEW WAREHOUSES being erected for MESSRS. PRINCE, OGG, and CO., the NEW RANGE of OFFICES nearly opposite, being built by Mr. JAMES R. FAIRFAX. These, and others which might be mentioned, all point to a WONDERFUL AGGREGATION OF BUSINESS in THIS PARTICULAR SPOT, which undoubtedly is the HEART OF THE CITY.

The AUCTIONEERS are instructed to intimate that Messrs. S. HOFFNUNG and CO. are determined that the premises SHALL BE SOLD on 29th NOVEMBER, the FIRM NOT REQUIRING THEM after completion of their NEW WAREHOUSE, which will be in about 12 MONTHS' TIME—they will keep possession until then, and pay a rental equivalent to £5000 per annum.

CAPITALISTS, MERCANTILE FIRMS, INVESTORS, DIRECTORS of PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS, and others are invited to inspect the PLANS, and also the PREMISES.
